Filing System Expensive!

Reports of the Hoover Commission indicate that Uncle Sam could save $30 million to $50 million a year by sorting official records, throwing away useless papers, re-housing essential documents, and setting up a "birth control" system for new records.

The commission found that U. S. records now occupy 18,500,000 cubic feet of space.

They would fill six buildings the size of Washington's Pentagon, and they are accumulating at the rate of a million cubic feet per year.

Even space for housing these records costs about $27 million per year. Experts say it takes another $20 million to operate and maintain the buildings.

Officials admit that one-third of these records are useless and could be burned without loss to anyone. A lot of them could have been destroyed when new records were made to replace them, but instead, both new and old records were stored.

Experts suggest that acres of space could be saved by using microfilm for records important enough to keep. Others, it is said, might be stored in shut-down-war plants in various parts of the country.

A lot of people believe the old papers should be cleared away in some fashion before buildings get so crowded with records there is no room to work.

On Controling The Budget

We have heard of a young married woman who has discovered an air tight method of budget control. Each week she sets aside in a glass jar the amount of money she expects to spend for household expenses for the week. When the money is gone she buys no more for that week, they eat what they have in the house, whatever it is. She says it works. She has a number of others trying it. One family fills the gas tank on the family car the first of the month. When it becomes empty—if it does before the end of the month—the car is put in the garage and left there until the new month. It sounds like a real Spartan system but those who have tried it says it works.

Big Questions — Little Questions

One day a man said to his neighbor: "John, how is it that you and your wife get along in such perfect harmony? You never seem to have any differences or family arguments, as do most every married couples in the neighborhood." "Well", John said, "it is this way, when my wife and I were married we decided that I should decide all the big questions that might come up, and that she should decide the little questions; and that she should decide which were the big questions and which were the little questions."

———O———

Editorially Speaking--

Self Assertion vs. Tact (Editorial of the Day in Mason City Globe-Gazette)

The art of getting along with people is an invaluable one. I sometimes think it would not be a bad idea for schools to teach sociability and courtesy to their pupils along with the reading and writing and 'rithmetic.

We all know capable men and women who are honest and dependable, but who never seem to get the breaks when it comes to promotion. There are others who, while lacking in these virtues, seem to go swimmingly along until they reach the top.

In almost every case you will find that this latter class are men and women whom people like personally. They are cordial and friendly but their best trait is in keeping off other folks' toes.

They positively do not belong to the class who pride themselves on being frank and telling others exactly what they think. And we cannot call them hypocrites. They are, however great believers in tact. If they fail to agree with their companions on some question, rather than have a row they discuss other subjects instead.

They never ask their friends why they buy such unbecoming clothes, or infer that they are spending too much money on their new house or cars. They realize that such things are not their affairs and politely let them alone.

After all, tact is really only a form of courtesy. If we teach our children to be kind, to never offend other people unless it be a question of morals or character, we need not worry about their getting on with other folks.—Lake Mills Graphic.

Our School Problem

The New York Times recently estimated, on the basis of a nationalwide survey, that 82 percent of the nation's school buildings would have to be classified as "fair to poor."

Due to the increased birthrate, along with the suspension of all construction during the war years, it is estimated that within the decade ahead, there must be an expenditure of $10 billion on public school plants.

Communities which fail to measure this problem in terms of their own needs aren't playing fair with their citizens of tomorrow.—Bulletin-Journal, Independence.

Renewing Search For Tuberculosis Cases In County

Mr. Sankey, President of the Wright County T. B. and Health Assoc. announced today that it may be like hunting for a needle in a haystack, but Alice Moore, County public health nurse, is renewing the search for cases of tuberculosis in Wright county. Working on the theory that for every known case there is an unknown case, she will direct her attention on persons known to have been exposed to this infection.

Miss Moore will visit these persons, taking case histories and inviting those exposed to tuberculosis to have skin tests. Chest X-rays also will be taken if their skin reacts to the test, an indication that tuberculosis germs have at some time entered the body.

Family physicians will make the skin tests, stated Dr. R. L. Gorrell, County Medical Society President, who with Dr. L. H. Flancher, Tuberculosis Control Director for the State Department of Health and Iowa Tuberculosis and Health Association, announced this eighth annual contact case-finding program.

X-rays will be taken at a general conference to be conducted by the state health department on all cases recommended by family physicians, date and place to be announced later.

The survey will be financed by the Wright County Tuberculosis Association and the State Health Department. It also is sponsored by the County Medical Society and the Iowa Tuberculosis Health Association. Christmas Seal funds may help pay the program costs.

Commenting on the survey, Dr. Flancher said: "It is impossible to overemphasize the importance of this contact program when dealing with a communicable disease which has no outward symptoms in its early stage, but can be discovered by tuberculin tests, X-rays and physical examinations before grave danger is done and thus be easily cured."

Many Applications For Bonus Payments To Be Returned As Incorrect

State bonus board officials recently estimated that one-third of the applications for the World War II veteran's bonus will have to be returned to the veterans for correction.

Bonus Board Chairman Chet Akers, who is also state auditor, said that none of the applications has been returned yet, but they will be sent back to the veterans for correction soon. Akers said he wants to emphasize that veterans must "fill out every question on the application blank."

He said that applies even to those questions for which the veteran has no answer. In that case, the veteran should write "none" or something similar in the space for the answer so the board will know the applicant is not evading the question, Akers said.

Board officials said the questions causing the most difficulty are those pertaining to schools attended while in service and any "bad time" accumulated. Many veterans are not answering those questions, they said.

The information to be filled in by a certifying officer is causing trouble when the veteran was in naval service, Akers said. That is because naval discharge certificates do not show the dates of foreign service. However, Akers said that is the purpose of the additional form for naval veterans.

Board officials said other questions causing difficulty are the ones regarding "legal residence" and location of the veterans' draft board. They said many do not answer the draft board question because they enlisted instead of being drafted, but if the question is not answered the board must assume the veteran is evading it and the application must be returned for correction.

Many veterans are not filling out the "terminal leave" question properly, official said. Veterans accrued leave time at the rate of 2½ days for every month they were on active duty.

Officials said the veteran can figure his total leave time by multiplying the 2¼ days by the number of months he was on active duty and subtracting the number of days leave he had while in service. Or, they said, it can be figured by dividing the total terminal leave pay received from the federal government by the daily rate of pay and allowance the veteran was receiving when discharged.

A New HAYING SYSTEM

. . . Fewer Men . . . More Hay . . . and Rolled Bales

These three Allis-Chalmers machines mechanize your hay harvest from start to finish. You don't even need a pitchfork. You get better quality hay, and use a smaller crew.

FRONT-MOUNTED MOWER

Always in easy view of the operator. Better control for mowing around obstructions. Fast hydraulic lift. Unmatched stability, particularly on hillsides. Hydraulically controlled sickle bar.

TRACTOR RAKE

Really engineered for tractor power. Power-driven, has two forward reel speeds and one reverse for tedding — shift easily as shifting your car. Castered, rubber-tired, front wheel makes it easy to lay clean, straight windrows, without pitching or roping. Ball and roller bearings throughout.

ROTO-BALER

ROTO-BALER makes weather-resistant, rolled bales — fast. Saves more leaves. Rolled bales can be fed with less waste, whole or unrolled. You can stack more tons of hay in a given area. They don't break apart when handled rough. Twine-wrapped—safe for livestock.

"All-Vets Celebration" Is Next Week

MAIN STREET

By George C. Hansen

HERE TOO

Whether or not the following was handed to us out of sympathy is a question, but we hope you will enjoy reading it anyway. The author is unknown to us but he is supposed to be a small boy telling what he thinks about the editor.

"I don't know how newspaper men get into the world and I don't think God does. He never mentioned them in the Bible. Maybe the editor was one of the Fallen Angels, for he seems to fall for about everything people tell him, he says. If the editor makes a mistake folks says he ought to be hung; if a lawyer makes a mistake he appeals his case; when a doctor makes a mistake they say nothing 'cause they don't know Latin, and they could not read his writing if they did.

"When an editor makes a mistake, there's a lot of hollerin', cussin' and a libel suit, and when a doctor makes one there's a funeral, with flowers and cryin' and perfect silence. A doctor can use a word a mile long and it don't make any difference if he doesn't know what it means—folks will think he's educated, but an editor has to be able to spell any word he uses. If a doctor goes to see another man's wife, he charges for the visit, but if the editor goes he gets shot. People who call the doctor and get well, thinks he's a great man. If they don't get well they're dead and can't say anything. Two-thirds of the people in town are sore at the editor either because the paper said something about them or said something nice about some guy they didn't like or something mean about the guy they did like.

"And I guess that's all I know about editors."

Iowa Town To Have "Farm-To-Market" Help

struction of four blocks of crete pavement from the post ce east on Main Street in Klemme is reported now under construction by the local engineering firm, Rowat & Murray, engineers.

This project is similar to the one constructed in May at Goldfield and proposed for Third Street NE in Belmond, on County Road "K" north and south of Clarion and for the Rowan Road at Dows.

Generally, farm - to - market ds are used to pay for the 22 feet of concrete pavement; any widening, storm sewer, etc. is paid for by the abutting and adjoining property owners.

It is understood that the Goldfield and Klemme projects are the first two projects of this type where the farm-to-market program and abutting property owners have worked jointly—to be constructed in the State of Iowa.

The Klemme project was programmed in July of last year, 1948. Actual laying of pavement was started May 28, 1949.

Dairy Commission Marks Tenth Year; Cooperates With 39 Dairy States In Nationwide Promotional Activities

June 1949, marks the tenth consecutive year that June has been celebrated as Dairy Month by the Iowa Dairy Industry Commission. In February, 1939, legislation was passsed authorizing the collection of a one cent per pound excise tax on all butter fat sold in the form of milk or cream; and providing for the appointment of the Iowa Dairy Industry Commission. The tax was to be collected annually on butter fat marketed in the first two weeks in June.

Each of Iowa's nine congressional districts is represented on the commission by a farm resident who derives the major share of his income from dairy products. The Commission also includes representatives from Iowa State College and the office of the Secretary of Agriculture.

Consumption Rises

This state commission is charged with the responsibility of nutrition educational activities, and promoting the sale of Iowa dairy products. Through the years, because of this promotion, the consumption of Iowa dairy products has steadily increased, both within the state and across the country. The Iowa Commission cooperates with 39 other important dairy states in the nationwide promotion of dairy foods.

Dedication of June as Dairy Month to recognize the importance of the dairy cow and the dairy farmer has been one of the prominent features of the Commission's activities. Iowa today ranks among the leaders in the success of this coordinated national promotion . . . due, in large measure, to the support of the newspapers throughout the state.

Members

Members of the present commission include: Folmer C. Hansen, Cedar Falls, chairman; Marvin McLean, Brooklyn, first vice chairman; George C. Ruth, Onawa second vice chairman; Wm. J. Baker, Mt. Pleasant; Arnold M. Pancratz, Dubuque; Willard Torgrim, Decorah; Clyde Core, Pleasantville; L. R. Beath, Corning; Clyde Munson, Gowrie; Prof. C. A. Iverson, head of the Dairy Industry Department, and Dr. C. Y. Cannon, head of the Dairy Husbandry Department, both of Iowa State College; and Roy J. Sours, chief of dairy and food division, Department of Agriculture, Des Moines. Frank Barker, Des Moines, is the secretary-manager of the Commission.

Research Develops New Markets For Iowa Milk Output

All that the dairy industry is today and will be tomorrow would be impossible without research. In the beginning, milk was the only dairy product research has developed cheese, butter, ice cream, evaporated milk, powdered milks, and many casein products such as plastics, paint, glue and buttons. And from milk sugar, research has produced food for growing the miracle mold, penicillin.

Projects

Two dairy research projects are now under way in Iowa's laboratories. At Iowa State College, Drs. Pearl Swanson and Gladys Everson are conducting experiments to determine the availability of riboflavin (vitamin G) and thiamon (vitamin B1) in dairy products in comparison with other foods. Milk is recognized as the greatest single source of riboflavin for the average family.

A group of six women graduate students, eating controlled diets in the laboratory dining room, participated in one phase of the projects. Results showed that riboflavin in ice cream and whole milk is completely available for use by the human body, whereas this same vitamin in vegetables, such as green peas, is only 40 per cent available.

"Is cow's milk adequate in meeting the food needs of babies?" In one of the few infant observation wards in the world, at the University of Iowa ,tests are being conducted to help answer that question. During the two-year project scientists are taking milk apart to see what makes it click as a top-ranking food for babies and adults.

Nationwide Program

These are just two of the many dairy food research programs co-sponsored by American Dairy Association members being conducted in universities and hospitals across the nation today. Others include the influence of dairy foods on the growth and development of children; use of milk proteins in the treatment of stomach ulcers; the effect soil fertility has on the nutritive value of milk; and many projects involving the five major dairy products—milk, butter, ice cream, condensed milk and cheese and use and importance to the na-

Still
THIS IS A BUTTER
COUNTRY

YES, this is still America—still a democracy, where the Best is available to Everybody. So it's still a Butter Country, where the dairy cow richly deserves the recognition she receives during June Dairy Month.

As a spread, cooking-aid or flavoring ingredient, Butter has no equal, no counterpart. Rich in Vitamin A from its natural source, plus Vitamin D, Vitamin E, and other natural food elements — Butter is really a masterpiece of Nature herself.

In Iowa farming, Butter has an important place, since the dairy cow provides increased land-fertility and butter provides the logical market-outlet for most of Iowa's dairy production. Over 150,000 Iowa farms average nearly $1000 yearly in cream-checks.

So Butter makes an important contribution toward good living on the farms of Iowa—and toward good eating in the homes of America, STILL a Butter Country.

Mystery Farm 38 Is Home of Roger Hanson Family

Mystery Farm 38 is an 80-acre farm located two miles east and one-half south of Belmond which is owned by Conrad Krass and occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Roger Hanson. The Hansons have one daughter, Linda Kay, four years old, who will be going to school just south of the home next fall.

Buildings on the farm are all well kept by the owner and all of them were given a fresh coat of paint last fall.

This year Hanson has 30 acres of Clinton oats, 28 acres of Thompson's hybrid corn and 12 acres of Richland soybeans. They also have 700 Leghorn chickens and 60 ducks. He milks seven Holstein cows and has 56 head of hogs that are a cross of Berkshire and Hampshire strains.

Farming operations keep him pretty busy, but he gets a lot of enjoyment from fishing when he gets any spare time.

Mystery Farm this week may be found in an advertisement sponsored by Ray's Body and Paint Shop. Occupants of farms shown are reminded to call at the Independent office for free enlargement of picture and to give information about farm and family for publication the following week.

OBITUARY

MRS. TENA GERDES

Mrs .Tena Gerdes, daughter of Mr .and Mrs. Temme Wiemann, deceased, was born in Eastfriesland, Germany, February 22, 1868. On April 18, 1889 she was united in marriage to George Gerdes. To this union 12 children were born. In the year 1902 with husband and children she left her homeland and came to America. They first made their home in the town of Meservey. Later the family moved on a farm, being engaged in farming. They retired from farm life in 1929 and moved to the town of Meservey, where the remaining years of life were spent in retirement.

The departed was a faithful member of the Meservey Reformed Church since October, 1919 when she was received into its fellowship on confession of faith in her Lord and Saviour.

During the last months of life the health of Mrs. Gerdes began to fail, chiefly due to ailment of the heart. Loving hearts and helping hands did not fail her in the days of her affliction and helplessness. Gradually becoming weaker she entered the hospital in Mason City about four weeks prior to her death. Every human means and medical skill was employed to prolong her life. But gradually her condition became more serious. On Wednesday morning, May 25, she quietly passed away, attaining the age of 81 years, 3 months and 3 days. We believe she was ready to depart from this earthly life and to meet her Lord.

She leaves to mourn her departure, her children: Tim Gerdes of Goodell, Iowa; Miss Jennie Gerdes and Mrs. Gertie Wessels of Meservey, Iowa; Mrs. Reka Van Avery of Mason City, Iowa; Mrs. Margaret Hulsing of Rockwell, Iowa; 4 brothers: John Wiemann of Thornton, Iowa; Leppo Wiemann of Alexander, Iowa; Thomas and Harm Wiemann of Verona, North Dakota; 2 sisters: Mrs. Jennie Wintjes of Meservey, Iowa; Mrs. Effie Neve of Sheffield, Iowa; 19 grandchildren and 17 great grandchildren and also many other relatives and friends.

Preceding her in death of the immediate members of the family are the husband and seven children.

Funeral services were conducted Saturday, May 28, 1949, at the Meservey Reformed Church with the pastor E. Kampmann in charge. Interment was made in the Meservey cemetery.

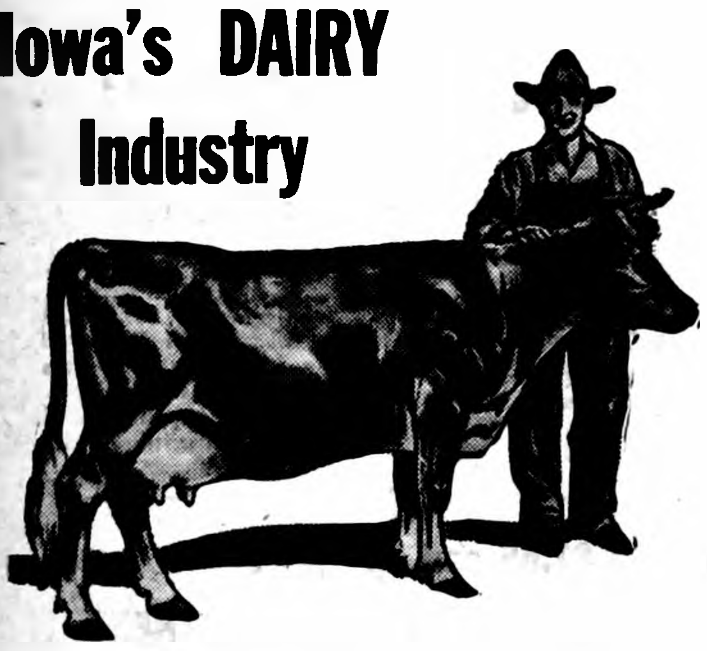
We Salute
Iowa's DAIRY Industry



We're mighty proud of the dairying achievements of our Iowa dairy farmers—and we think Dairy Month is a good time to say so.

We know dairying brings "new dollars" into the State — hundreds of thousands of them each day! We know those dollars build Iowa business, Iowa schools, churches, institutions of every valuable kind.

And we know that dairying makes men and women—builds character as it builds wealth—and as dairy foods build health!

So—more power to Iowa's Dairy Industry. Let's all observe Dairy Month by using plenty of Iowa fine dairy foods.

Biggest Item In High Living Cost

A great service could be rendered to the world today if a way could be discovered or a material found from which houses could be made that the people who need houses could afford to live in. That is the greatest present challenge to science today. Principle items that enter into high prices and the high cost of living is housing and rent. When a working man has to dig up each month from fifty to one hundred dollars for a house to live in naturally he has to receive sufficient pay to enable him to pay the high rent and still have enough left out of which to live. It seems to us that at the present time the matter of cheaper housing is the main essential in the matter of lowering costs and the cost of every item that enters into daily use.

Bigger, Healthier Babies

A child entered in the 1949 Iowa State Fair's Baby Health Contest probably will be larger and healthier than his parents were at the same age.

Since the fair's first baby contest was held in 1911, physicians have noted that children in the one to three-year-old group had gradually gained in height, weight and over-all health.

Even since 1940, average scores have soared. In that year, the average mark of the 610 babies examined was 95.69. At the 1948 baby contest, the average mark for 536 children examined had climbed to 98.115.

The champion girl scored 99.738 and the champion boy 99.575—which meant they missed perfection, as rated by physicians, by less than half of one per cent.

One child specialist told the fair board that better feeding of babies, immunization against disease, and addition of vitamins to diet account for the bigger, healthier babies.

Editorially Speaking--

For 50 Years We Only Held Our Own

From 1882 to 1933, production of food and feed per acre in the United States changed very little. These are the estimates of Dr. F. A. Pearson, of Cornell University. But from 1937 to to 1948, production per acre jumped 24 percent.

What made the increase? Good weather, better seeds, more fertilizer, or what?

Weather had lots to do with the change, particularly in the spring wheat belt, where production went up faster than in the corn belt. Lucky weather did wheat men more good than hybrid corn did corn raisers.

Will those increases continue? Or are we likely to level off again?

If we hit a few years of bad weather, our surpluses would shrink mightly fast. That's one reason why wheat farmers insist that we should build up a big reserve.—From Wallace's Farmer.

How Facts Change

How often a situation turns out to be something entirely different than reported to you, when you dig in after facts. Beats everything how in one telling and retelling some circumstances can get so badly scrambled. —Estherville News.

"Let George Do It"

The only time that democracy works worth a darn is in times of great crises—such as wars or depressions. The rest of the time everybody says "let George do it" and complains bitterly because of the way George does it.

MAIN STREET

By George C. Hansen

This boy, Wes (wide awake) [illegible] believes in carrying out orders from his boss, Ardell (Doc) Johnson. The Tip Top truck was stalled and Doc asked Wes to get his car and give him a push.

While Wes was after his car, Doc stepped into the store.

Wes came wheeling down the alley and pulled up behind the truck and gave it the necessary "umph." Wes couldn't figure out the careless driving of Doc's, so he stopped and went to the truck and discovered it was driverless.

Results: Truck ends up in Ace White's garage. Boller carries out orders.

George Elder and Doc Parsons returned from a fishing trip in Minesota last Thursday and now comes the fish story to end all fish stories. It all happened on Bowstring. Knowing Elder and his great veracity with any fish story, we're bound to believe this one, especially since Mrs. Elder was in the boat and she never has been known to tell a fib.

George was "nigger fishing" for Walleyes (a bobber on the line) and had a strike. Just as he began to reel in, a Northern hit his flashy bobber which caught in its gills. So George caught two fish with one hook and one bobber. Total results: One 4 pound Walleye on the hook and one 5 pound Northern on the bobber. He told the story to Mike Luick and Chester Luick and they believed it, so why shouldn't we.

T. B. Cattle Testing In County Re-accredited For 3 Years May 1

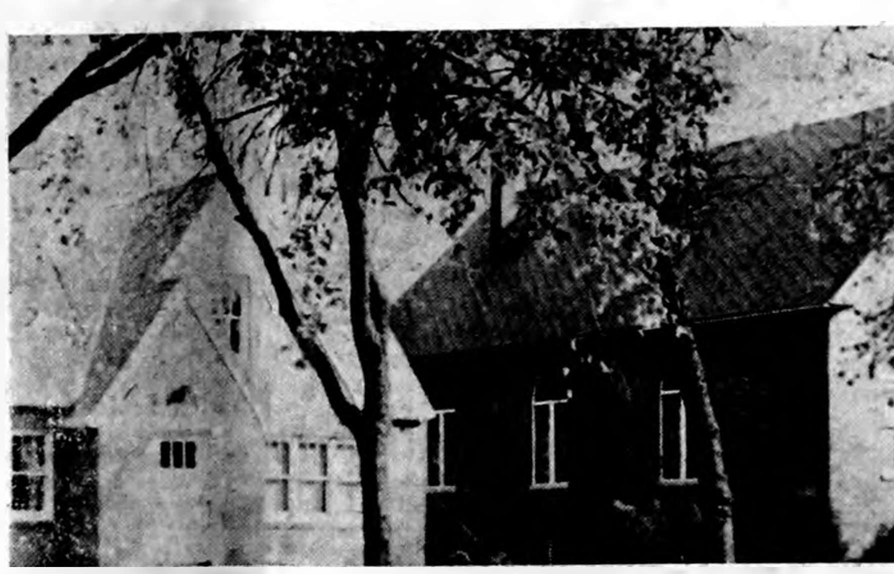
Wright county has been re-accredited on the T. B. testing program of cattle, according to word received by Aaron R. Bowman, County Extension Director, from Dr. H. G. Voetberg. Dr. Voetberg is a district veterinarian for the Federal government and has charge of the T. B. test and Bangs in five counties. His headquarters are located at Garner.

Wright county was re-accredited on May 1 for a period of three years. Cattle herds which had reactors will have to be tested periodically until they have three clean tests. A re-accredited county means that tests made in the county show that the T. B. infestation in the cattle herds is less than one-half of one per cent.

Local veterinarians in and near Wright county have been administering the T. B. tests.

Mr. and Mrs. Gene Kelly of Oxford Junction were Monday evening supper guests at the Ralph Baker home.

St. John's to Dedicate Improvements



Above is a picture of St. John's Lutheran Church and of its parsonage. Pastor Roy Huck of Melvin will speak at special dedication services Sunday morning celebrating the completion of remodelind and redecorating work.

Special dedication services will be held at the St. John American Lutheran Church on Sunday, June 19, according to an announcement by Rev. Herman Senft, pastor. The guest speaker at the morning services is Pastor Roy Huck of Melvin, a former pastor of the congregation. Rev. P. Lutz, former army chaplain and now of Renwick, will be the speaker for the evening service.

In recent weeks, the congregation has remodeled and redecorated its church. Entirely new chancel furniture consisting of an altar, pulpit, baptismal font, lectern, railing, and wall paneling has been installed in the sanctuary as a gift of the Ladies' Aid Society. Rev. Senft announces that the stained glass window for the altar has been ordered but will not be here yet for some time.

According to the pastor, the church has enjoyed a wonderful spirit of cooperation. Prior to redecoration the rough walls were scraped down by hand by the members. In speaking of this cooperation, the pastor said, "One day 35 men came in and donated all work, finishing a hard job in a day and a night."

Virtually all the improvements have been paid for. All of the funds, the pastor stated, have come in without a single drive for them.

This week final touches are being put on the main church floor by resanding and finishing it in natural color. The chancel rug will be laid, and an aisle rug runner will be installed at a later time.

Members of the improvement committee who worked on the church project were: Mesdames J. Bolger, A. Rabe, K. Voighs, H. Heginger and P. Kalkwarf.

The dedication service will begin at 10:30 with Pastor Roy Huck delivering the sermon. The evening service is scheduled to begin at 7:45 p. m. with neighboring pastor Paul Lutz occupying the pulpit. Friends of the church are invited for these services.

City Asks Use of Numerals

Belmond residents are requested to stop at the City Hall, learn their house numbers, buy them, and place them on their homes as soon as possible.

The new numerals, which are aluminum on a black background, will not rust. The ordinance requires that the background be in contrast to the numbers. The city has ordered numeral holders for those who care for them.

Residents of the city are urged to learn their house and street numbers, to use them on their letters, and to ask their correspondents to do likewise when addressing them.

The postal department has indicated that Belmond residents may have the privilege of two mail deliveries a day when every house in town has been numbered.

Both city and postal officials feel that the duties of mail carriers will be considerably lightened through the use of the newly-painted street signs and of the numerals by the town's residents. This, of course, applies particularly to substitute carriers who work while the regular carrier is on vacation or sick leave.

City officials feel that townspeople have thus far been very co-operative in obtaining and using their numerals.

Bill McLaughlin Busy With Calves And Sheep In FFA

The Jersey was shown in the Clarksville Jersey Parish Show Wednesday, June 8, and placed first in the Blue Ribbon class. As such, it is eligible for the next show at the All Iowa Fair in Cedar Rapids. Entries are now placed in one of three classes, blue, red, or white ribbon, and judged accordingly. All three animals will be shown at the District Junior Fair and the Iowa State Fair late this summer.

Besides these three animals Bill is also taking care of five dairy calves and several head of sheep. He sheared over 200 pounds of wool from his Columbia sheep this spring. This breed is noted for its high wool yield.

Bill is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mike McLaughlin. His F. F. A. projects are being carried on under the direction of Duane Sandage, vocational agriculture instructor in the Belmond schools.

Fire Damages Theatre Slightly Wednesday; Manager Bradley Burned

Fire in the projection booth of the New Belmond theatre early Wednesday evening did little damage to the equipment and was quickly extinguished by manager Eugene Bradley. However, as a safety precaution, no show was held that evening.

Bradley was slightly burned on the face and one hand and suffered more severe burns on the other hand, while projectionist Paul Milligan escaped with slight burns.

The fire company was called and though they arrived in good time were slightly late, since they had been called to the General Mills plant for a scheduled fire drill at 6:30 that evening.

Tomahawks Defeat Corwith; Lead North Iowa League

The Belmond Tomahawks edged out the Corwith Baseball club 3 to 2 in a ten inning game here Sunday. With Lowell Gaetzke sliding into home on a close play, the Corwith catcher dropped the ball to let the winning run score in the final inning.

Gaetzke had walked to start the inning, stole second and advanced to third on an infield out. He came home on a slow bounder hit by Spain.

Belmond loaded the bases with nobody down in the last half of the ninth on a walk by Lansing and singles by Boelman and Larson but could not score. Lowell Gaetzke scored in the first and Lansing scored in the fourth after hitting a double for Belmond's only extra base hit of the game.

Bud Nissen went the route on the mound for the Tomahawks and allowed five hits. The Tomahawks connected for eight hits from the offerings of Ricter of Corwith. Bud Boelman was back at his catcher's post for the local team after missing two games because of illness. He made two of Belmond's hits.

In other games played Sunday Garner defeated Clear Lake, 16-5, and Kanawha dropped Sheffield, 5-4.

The Tomahawks play Garner on the Garner diamond next Sunday and then play Eagle Grove there under the lights a week from tonight, June 23.

Standings of the North Iowa League are as follows: (Including Sunday's games)

	Won	Lost
Belmond	3	0
Rockwell	2	0
Corwith	2	1
Kanawha	1	1
Garner	1	2
Clear Lake	0	2

Reminds Male Persons Reaching 18 To Register With Selective Service

"There appears to be doubt in the minds of some persons of the necessity of registering for Selective Service upon attaining the age of eighteen. The Selective Service Act of 1948 requires all male persons to submit themselves for registration within five days after the eighteenth anniversary of their birthday," is the statement issued by the local board.

Mr. Laurence W. Murray, secretary of the Wright County Local Board, points out that registration may be accomplished by calling at the local board office in Clarion, Iowa, on Monday through Friday between the hours of 8:00 a. m. to 12:00 noon. The office is closed every afternoon.

All local board offices that administer to less than 1500 registrants have been reduced to part time offices. Wright County has a total of 1275 registrants; thus the office hours are reduced to part time effective June 1, 1949.

-OBITUARY-

HENRY GOEMAN

Henry Goeman, a son of Hio and Lena Goeman, was born on the 28th of August, 1882, on a farm northeast of Ackley, Iowa. At the age of six weeks he came with his parents, brothers and sisters to Wright County, where they settled on a farm northeast of Belmond where the deceased lived until the day of his departure. He was baptized by the late Rev. Frederick Mosebach of Garner, who at that time ministered unto the spiritual need of the early Eastfriesen East of Belmond, in the Center schoolhouse, which at that time was located where the Immanuel Reformed cemetery is now found. On the 11th of April, 1911 he was received as a member in full communion into the Immanuel Reformed Church. He served in the above named church as a faithful Sunday school teacher and 11 years as consecrated elder. Mr. Goeman studied the scriptures with much zeal and interest and thus was able to discuss and defend the doctrines of the Christian faith. Because Mr. Goeman took such a leading part in the church, and was sympathetic to the physical and spiritual needs of others, he will be greatly missed.

On the 27th of February, 1938 he was united in marriage to Mrs. Jennie Weide. This union was blessed with one son, Leroy Henry.

In 1944 Mr. Goeman underwent a major operation in Rochester, Minn., from which he really never recovered. Saturday he entered Steele's Memorial hospital where he suddenly passed away to his eternal reward at 6:15 a. m., Monday, May 30, 1949, at the age of 66 years, 9 months and 1 day.

He was preceded in death by parents, one sister, Mrs. Jennie Mennenga, two brothers, Hero and Tobias Goeman.

He leaves to mourn his death his bereft wife, his son, Leroy Henry, his stepson, Fred Weide, two sisters, Mrs. Alida Pals of Meservey and Mrs. Heidene Reikens of Thornton, and many other relatives and friends.

Funeral services were held on Thursday, June 2 in the Immanuel Reformed Church. Interment was made in the cemetery adjoining the church. A large and sympathetic audience came to pay their last respects to the departed friend and neighbor.

Father's Day, June 19

Credit for suggesting a day to honor the fathers of the country to be known as Father's Day, is generally given to Mrs. John Bruce Dodd, of Spokane, Washington. The idea appealed to Mrs. Dodd as a deserved tribute to her own father who had assumed the task of rearing a family of children after the death of their mother. She took the matter up with the Spokane Ministerial Association and suggested that the third Sunday in June be set apart as an occasion for honoring the fathers of the country. The Association approved of the suggestion and the first celebration was held in June, 1910. Sons and daughters were asked to wear a red rose if their father were living and a white rose if the father was dead.

The idea of observing Father's Day spread slowly and for the next two or three years several cities launched a Father's Day observance, each believing the idea originated with them. In 1918 the Stars and Stripes, the official newspaper of the American Expeditionary Force in France proposed, as an observance of Father's Day, that the fathers in the United States write their sons in the service in France, and that the sons write a letter to their fathers.

Among the efforts to gain recognition of the day was the introduction of a resolution in the House of Representatives by J. Hampton Moore of Philadelphia, designating the first Sunday in June as Father's Day. The resolution failed to pass. A similar resolution introduced by Representative Bertrand H. Snell of New York, also failed to pass. The observance of the move to establish Father's Day was commented favorably upon by President Wilson and President Coolidge.

With all the efforts Father's Day receives but scant attention. Haberdashers and tobacco stores attempt to capitalize upon it with suggesions that fathers be remembered with a gift, but the day has never gained the general acceptance accorded Mother's Day.

Vacationers Urged To Use Caution In Water Recreation

Iowa lakes and streams furnish recreation for thousands of fishermen, boatmen, and swimmers, but they are also the scene of almost daily drownings, mostly caused by carelessness.

The American Red Cross suggests the following hints on water safety: Wait an hour or two after eating before going in swimming. Don't stay in water after becoming tired. Swim only in supervised swimming places. Don't overestimate the distance you are able to swim. River currents are dangerous; don't try to buck them. Use the safest method possible to rescue a person in trouble in the water; use a boat or throw some floating object if possible. When a person accidentally falls into the water, he should remove clothing before attempting to swim out.

There are more than 10,000 pleasure boats on Iowa's inland waters, and a few simple safety rules governing their use will prevent many tragedies. Iowa laws require that all boats for hire must pass an annual inspection. All inspected boats have a small metal tag attached stating the passenger capacity of the craft. Under no condition exceed the passenger capacity of the craft. Do not use an unseaworthy boat. Do not go on the water when a storm is approaching or when the water is rough. Don't wear boots or other hampering clothing when in a boat. Do not purposely rock a boat or permit any horseplay by other boat occupants.

If you are unfortunate enough to capsize, stay with the boat. Secure a firm hand-hold and wait for help or drift ashore with the craft. If there are two persons when the boat capsizes, hold hands across the bottom of the boat. If you lose an oar do not jump overboard to retrieve it without first dropping the anchor. The boat may drift away faster than you can swim. Never stand up in the boat to hoist anchor. Do not put a large motor on a small boat.

There are no finer sports than swimming, boating, and fishing, and everyone can enjoy these pleasures safely if good judgment is exercised.

No Iowa Iron Curtains

Next time you're over toward Sioux City, drive up to that big bluff, where you can look at THREE STATES at one time.

Ed and I stopped there the other day.

"What's it make you think of?" Ed asked.

"What?"

"Europe," he said. "The Iron Curtain. Many states in Europe, setting up walls against their neighbors . . . and here we drive across state lines without a thought."

Ed's right, of course. How fortunate we are to have our American neighborliness and tolerance. No one trying to force the other fellow to do this or that, or to rig up laws or barriers that would hamstring our democracy.

Even in our personal likes, that American tolerance plays its part every day. Ed may like his cup of coffee, and I may like a temperate bottle of beer or ale. Each respects the other's tastes, and that's the way it should be.

Look across from that Sioux City bluff some day, and think how lucky we are to live in a country of no "Iron Curtains."

Storage Of Corn Individual's Job

Prospects for the largest carry-over of corn on record coupled with the possibility of another good crop make it good business for Iowa farmers to start thinking about their corn storage facilities, C. H. Van Vlack, extension agricultural engineer at Iowa State College, said this week.

On April 1, 1,833,000,000 bushels of corn was in the stock pile. Even with exports and home consumption, it is expected hat carry-over this September will exceed the record figure of 688 million bushels in September, 1940.

Van Vlack said that it looks now as if it will be up to the individual farmer to provide crib room. The government through its production and marketing program, has not indicated that it will furnish storage space.

As far as materials are concerned, Van Vlack said that it appears now as if there will be enough to go around if farmers watch crop prospects, determine their needs early and order materials early. On the other hand, the fellow who waits until his corn is about ready to crib before he orders building materials, may be out of luck.

Adequate corn storage facilities will pay for themselves, Van Vlack believes. If the farmer can feed up corn piled on the ground before spring comes, he will get by, but when improperly stored corn is carried into warm weather months, spoilage is likely. Also a farmer must provide adequate storage facilities if he wants to take advantage of government loan and purchase agreement programs.

There are several low-cost types of structure that will provide adequate storage space for corn. Semi-permanent or temporary cribs are the answer when a bumper crop taxes the storage capacity of permanent cribs. Semi-permanent type cribs are also the answer for the fellow who needs cribs but isn't ready to build permanent ones. Plans and information about semi-permanent, temporary ,or permanent cribs may be obtained from the Agricultural Extension Service, Iowa State College, Ames, Iowa.

Corn Borer Elimination Is Under Way

MAIN STREET

By George C. Hansen

Belmond's home-made swimming pool was developed Sunday afternoon after the rain when all the kids in the neighborhood and came from the other end of town enjoyed an hour's swim in the muddy water at the intersection by the city waterworks.

—M-S—

Gladys Henderson, in charge of the Red Cross swimming program, estimated that over 190 children from Belmond and its trade area enjoyed their first swim Monday morning.

—M-S—

Received a card from Ellis Elliott who is now traveling in the East. He remarked that he and his son Dickie flew from [illegible] to Washington to see the sights. He said that Truman hadn't invited them over to his house yet.

Evidently you're on the wrong side of the fence, Ellis, or you should change your party affiliations.

—M-S—

According to Sonny Greenfield, he really learned a lot about government at Boys State, which he attended June 5 to 12 as the delegate chosen by the local American Legion organization.

The boys, who were divided into Federalists, Nationalists and Independents, set up their own state, county and city government. He had a hand in it, too, through being elected county treasurer of mythical Colmery county and in giving a nominating speech for a candidate for sheriff.

Sonny believes a study of government would help prospective delegates. He says he had trouble understanding the workings of all the organizations, while some boys who have had special study beforehand knew right away what it was all about. He's also a strong supporter of a speech course; he says it really helps.

The sports program at Boys State drew an enthusiastic response from Sonny. The main activities were volley ball, touch football, and softball. Each boy drew one, and he ended up as playing catcher and first base on a softball team.

Smith Barn Burns Saturday Morning

Lightning struck the barn on the Harold Smith farm 4½ miles northeast of Belmond about 12:15 Saturday morning and the resulting fire destroyed the building. Contents lost included a calf, some hay, a few tools and a new electric fence. Mr. Smith estimated his loss at about $1,000 with $500 insurance coverage.

Both local farm fire trucks, manned by the night crew, and the Goodell fire truck answered a call for assistance. Little wind and heavy rain also helped to prevent the fire from spreading to adjoining buildings.

Junior Legion Ball Team Will Play Mason City; Defeats Garner, 20-5

The Belmond Junior Legion baseball team defeated Garner 20 to 5, at the "All Vets' Celebration" held in Belmond Wednesday, June 15. Faris pitched and Hanson caught for the locals.

They will play the Mason City team tomorrow, June 24, at 6:00 p. m. on the local athletic field. The game with Britt Sunday was rained out and will be played at a later date.

The team will play Garner at Garner this coming Sunday.

Mrs. A. J. Benham is a patient at the University hospital in Iowa City.

Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Roney and two little daughters, Toni and Cynthia Sue and Mr. and Mrs. C. Frye of Dows were Sunday guests in the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Frye.

Wright County Ranks Twenty-second In Sixth Report Of Drive Quota

McNeal, Co. Chairman, Reports 94.61 Percent Of Quota Is Reached

Clark H. McNeal, Belmond, Wright county chairman, announced yesterday that this county has reached 94.61 percent of its $470,694 Opportunity drive quota. These figures were taken from the sixth report which shows the county as standing in twenty-second place in the drive.

Fourteen counties are included in the group of those which have exceeded their quotas, with Sioux county regaining the lead which it lost a week ago to Story and Taylor counties.

Iowa has attained 81.71 percent of its $50-million quota with E, F, and G sales amounting to $40,856,847.. Series E purchases are $28,952,530 of the state total.

"Every dollar being invested in savings bonds during this drive, or at any other, time means a dollar plus interest, that the purchaser will have for spending in the future," the chairman said. "Purchases of savings bonds in Iowa have passed the two-billion-dollar mark since 1941, and those still uncashed represent a part of the greatest wealth this state ever has known."

Tomahawks Defeat Garner June 15; Will Play at Eagle Grove Tonight

The Belmond Tomahawks defeated Garner, 25 to 14, on Legion Day and then lost, 4 to 2, in a well-played contest at Garner Sunday. With a 16 to 5 lead at the end of the fourth on Legion Day, the Tomahawks substituted freely. Several Garner pitchers were used in an attempt to stop the Tomahawk attack.

Belmond filled the bases with ease against Garner Sunday but couldn't get runs across. The Tomahawks had 15 men stranded on base during the game and gathered 13 hits to Garner's 5. In the fourth, seventh, and eighth innings, Belmond loaded the bases without scoring. Nissen hurled a good game for the locals, and both teams played good defensive ball on a wet field.

Tomahawks at Eagle Grove tonight, Thursday

Tomahawks at Rockwell Sunday afternoon

Tomahawks at Humboldt Tuesday night.

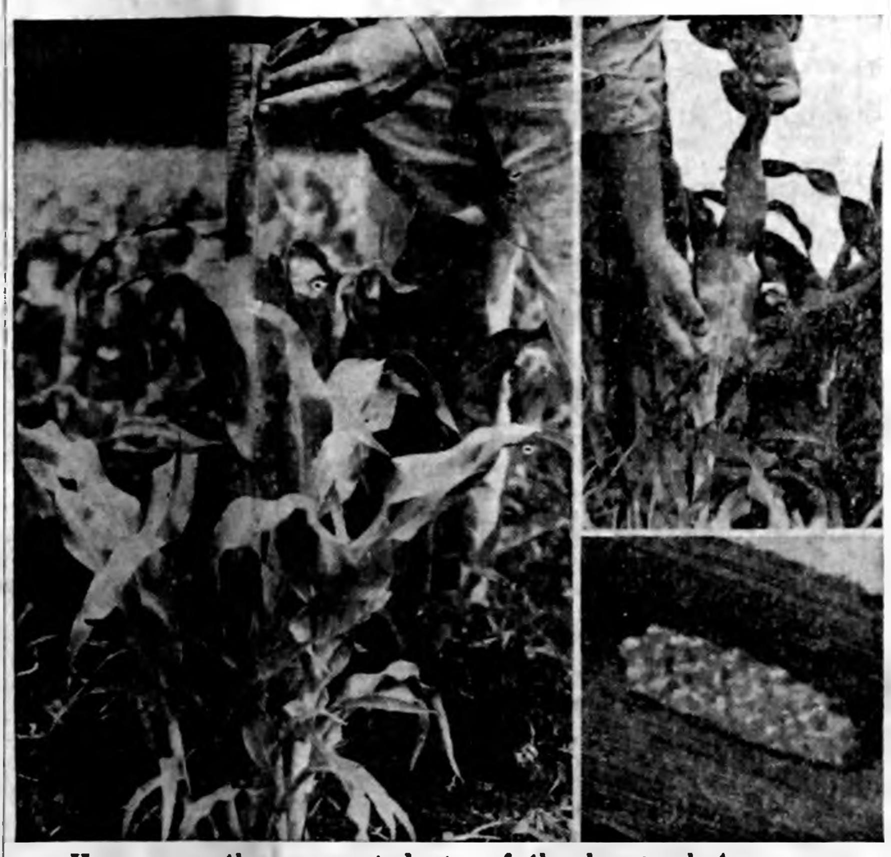
Corn Must Be Carefully Inspected To Locate Tiny Borer Egg Masses



Here are the suggested techniques to use in inspecting corn for borer egg masses. (Left) Measure corn from the ground up to the tips of the longest leaf extended. (Upper right) Inspect corn plants carefully. Most eggs are found on the undersides of the leaves, but you may find some on the tops of leaves and on the stalks. (Lower right) A typical corn borer egg mass is 4 to 5 times the actual size of the masses you'll likely find on your corn.

Corn Sealing Deadline Is June Thirtieth

Two and One-Half Million Bushels Now Under Seal

The deadline for signing the Purchase Agreement and sealing corn is June 30, according to O. J. Hanson, Chairman of the Wright County ACA Committee. If corn is to be sealed, the sample of corn should have been in the county office not later than June 20, as it takes 10 days to complete all papers. Cost of sealing is one cent per bushel and cost of the purchase agreement is one-half cent per bushel. The purchase agreement does not require a sample of corn to be taken as the producer is protected only on the price and is required to deliver No. 3 corn or better and is paid the sealing price of $1.36 per bushel on delivery. The purchase agreement must be signed at the county office.

Up to June 1st, 1592 corn loans have been completed in Wright County which covers 2,546,838 bushels. There have been 173 purchase agreements signed covering 332,840 bushels.

MARY GORDON WINS TWO GOLF TOURNEYS

Mrs. Fred Gordon, Belmond, Tuesday won the Women's Invitational Day at the Fort Dodge Country Club. Her golfing score was 97, which was low gross for the 18 holes.

She also won the Women's Invitational Day at the Eagle Grove Country Club last Wednesday, June 15. Her score was 89, low gross for 18 holes, on an easier course than the one at Fort Dodge.

Mrs. Gordon has been playing golf for about 15 years, and played a great deal in California before moving to Iowa.

LIGHTNING DAMAGES TWO BELMOND HOMES

Lightning accompanying a one and one-half inch rain struck the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Green on East Main Street about 8 p. m. Monday, tearing a hole about three feet in diameter in the roof. The house did not catch fire.

Damage to the roof and water damage to the interior of the house has been estimated at about $100.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Green are vacationing in Madison, Wisconsin. Their son, Carl, who operates the elevator at Goodell, happened to be on the premises at the time and succeeded in putting a tarpaulin on the roof to lessen water damage.

Lightning Monday night also started a curtain fire and scorched the woodwork at the home of Mrs. J. E. Chapman, one block north of the theatre. It apparently entered through the telephone wires. Mrs. Chapman extinguished the fire.

Moths Annoy Drivers Can Be Recognized By Wing Position

A tremendous flight of moths, many of them corn borer moths, followed the rain of Monday night. According to Chuck Wilmarth, the moths which have been hitting and spattering the windshields of evening motorists are, in all probability, corn borer moths.

He described the overall length of the moths as being less than an inch. The females are light buff in color, but males are darker.

Similar to the sawfly moth and the sod web worm moth, the corn borer moth can be distinguished by the position of its wings when resting. They are then flat against its body, while other forms of moths fold them around their bodies.

Egg laying is done at night. Moths may be seen in weed patches, oat fields, and sometimes in potato patches during the day.

County Conference Board To Meet Monday, June 27

Marie Troestler of Clarion has been assisting with the care of Mrs. Carl Benson at her home for the past month.

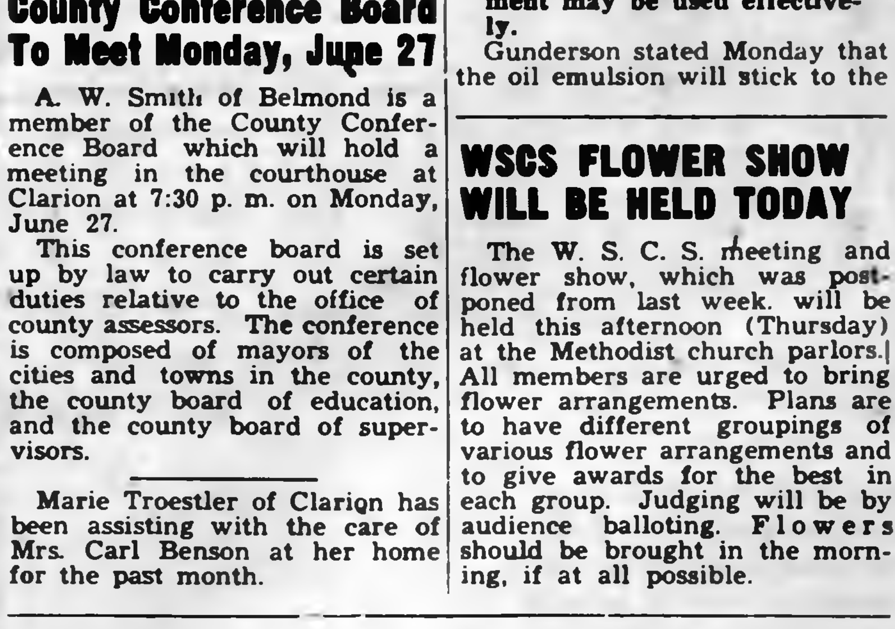
Albert Hanson Will Open New Office Building Saturday



Albert Hanson will operate his insurance agency from the west office of his new double office building on Main street (above) after his opening this Saturday, June 25. The building, which measures 23 by 31 feet, is of brick and tile construction. New wood finish has been used in the interior and asphalt tiling on the floor. The lobby has a glass block counter.

Spraying or Dusting Must Be Done When Corn Reaches 35 Inch Height With 50 Egg Masses per 100 Stalks

The first spraying for corn borers in the Belmond area was started Monday afternoon by airplane at the Jim McLaughlin farm under the direction of "Chuck" Wilmarth, research director for the Thompson Hybrid Corn Company, who has been directing spraying of fields in an area of about seven miles around Belmond.

Ground machines also sprayed Monday at the Steve Hinman and Lee Lieuwen farms, and some ground equipment was operating Tuesday.

In the McLaughlin field, as in many others, hatched borers were already feeding on corn leaves.

Both Wilmarth and Aaron Bowman, county extension director, recommended that corn should be 35 inches or more in height, measured from the ground to the tip of the extended leaves, with 50 or more egg masses per 100 stalks before spraying is begun. Enough corn borers don't survive on shorter corn to make spraying effective. (Wilmarth reported that last week egg mass counts in this area ran to a top of 468 per 100 plants. A count from 150 to 300 has been very common).

Wilmarth, who has made egg mass counts day by day on a number of fields in this locality, reported that Sunday's and Monday's rain seemed to slow down the increase of the number of egg masses somewhat, but not enough to control them. Serious damage may result if spraying is not done at the proper time.

The corn borer infestation will reach its height ten days earlier than last year, probably due to the advanced season. Harold "Tiny" Gunderson, extension entomologist at Iowa State College at Ames, has estimated that it will be reached during the middle or end of this week, resulting in a gradual decline after that.

Gunderson has told of egg mass counts up to 1400 on 100 stalks of corn in Jasper County. Counts of 600 and 700 are not at all uncommon. Gunderson said that never before in the United States have counts as high as 600 egg masses per 100 plants been recorded.

Cost of the spray, which averages about three dollars per acre, will more than pay for itself if 50 egg masses per 100 plants are found. The county extension office recommends 1¼ to 1½ pounds of actual DDT, as a spray or 1½ to 1¾ pounds actual DDT as dust. The main material used this year will be a 25 percent oil emulsion. Either ground or air equipment may be used effectively.

Gunderson stated Monday that the oil emulsion will stick to the plants, even if it rains. This material on the leaves will then kill the young borers when thy feed on the leaves after hatching.

A second spraying may be necessary for a field. To determine this, wait seven days after the first spray, then make a new egg mass count. If more than 50 unhatched egg masses per 100 plants remain on the plants, the field should be re-sprayed.

Spraying should be done when 15 percent of the egg masses have reached the blackhead stage. Corn borer control takes quick action because there is only a short time, 7 to 10 days, when the borers can be effectively killed.

Corn borer eggs are wavy-like masses in between dull and shiny-white in appearance. They are never bigger than a shingle nail head and often are very small. Freshly laid egg masses are white. After they are laid for a while, they become weathered and just before hatching a black spot appears in the center of each egg. This is the blackhead stage. Fields must then be sprayed as soon as possible, for the borers hatch rapidly, and once worms have bored into the corn plants, spraying is not as effective.

The procedure for counting egg masses has been outlined by Aaron R. Bowman, County Extension Director. Go into a field 10 to 12 rows and pick out five plants at random. Count egg masses on those five plants. Then move over another 10 to 12 rows and pick out another five plants at random and count the egg masses on these. Do this until you have counted egg masses on 25 plants. Add up the total egg masses and multiply by four to get the count per 100 plants. Checkers are warned to be sure to get the average count per 100 individual plants, not hills.

Spraying for corn borers had begun in some counties as early as last week. The first fields in Winnebago county were sprayed last Thursday morning, and spraying activities were started before then in the southern and central parts of the state.

Garden Lovers' Corner

Never have seen the roses so perfect. Now that they are about through with this blooming, it is a good time to give them some fertilization. Grass cuttings around the roots keep them cool and the weeds down. There are some climbers at the Drury Mink Ranch on highway 69 that are well worth a "look-see!"

Roses aren't the only beauties around; the vegetable gardens of Russell Porter's and Doc Parsons' are like a seed catalogue picture.

Any time now, you can move your iris. Cut the tops to four inches and the roots in half

Belmond Leads Cedar Falls In School Election Turnout

Cedar Falls should be quite a school-conscious city. After all, any town which houses a State Teachers College has its educational institutions brought to the fore again and again. The other day local voters approved a bond issue, not to exceed $20,000 to purchase land and erect a new school building. The city's 1940 population was 9,349; the issue passed by a vote of 60 to 2!

Of course, the same situation seems to exist in every community. For instance, Belmond now has a population of approximately 2,500. (The 1940 census total was 2,109.) About 1,000 people of voting age live here. And of that 1,000 only 44, or 4.4 percent voted in the last school election on March 14! To be sure, that's a much better turnout than that experienced in Cedar Falls, but it's certainly nothing of which to be proud.

Atomic Science Education

The Iowa plan for atomic science education has been gaining momentum. Not just a theoretical program for maintaining peace in an atomic age, it has actually been put into satisfactory practice in the Marengo Experiment.

So important has the plan become that Chairman David E. Lilienthal of the Atomic Energy Commissioon discussed it before members of the last Iowa State Education Association convention in Des Moines.

"Just plain people" and the three main state educational institutions play the central roles. The plan itself consists of a curricula worked out by the Iowa Committee on Education and Information on Atomic Energy, sponsored by the State Department of Public Instruction and aimed at all ages.

Professor Hew Roberts of the University of Iowa, director of the Marengo Experiment, felt that his program there was entirely successful in providing a sound basis for international thinking on the problems of living peacefully in an atomic age. All the facts on atomic energy were presented to 450 night school students, and they were then able to decide for themselves what atomic energy was all about. With this background, they were introduced to the problems of atomic control and individual adjustment in our atomic age.

In writing about the "Iowa Plan," Vernon Langille, Information Service interne in science writing at the state university, feels that public reaction to the bomb has gone through several stages. First came the awe and fear stage, then the "get rid of it" period, the "forget about it" stage, the peacetime applications" stage, and finally now the stage of "growing awareness."

He believes that three courses are open to the country: a preventive war, an armed peace in a two-bloc world, and the quest for world government, and that only through the last one can our world survive.

Sponsors of the Iowa plan feel that the public can decide on any issue, including that of modern security, simply by knowing what that issue is all about.

The whole organization and working of the Iowa Plan prove that once again the state is in the forefront, especially in this, the most vital issue of our times.

Soil Conservation:

Many sections of the country are tardily waking up to the fact that the matter of soil conservation is an imperative need in this country. When nature laid out the country, it covered it with a protecting carpet of grass and trees. When the rains came these protecting covers allowed the moisture to be absorbed by the soil rather than run off into the streams. As a result both water and soil were conserved.

When man came he proceeded to plow up the hillsides so that when the rains came they washed off the top soil sending it down the creeks and rivers to the ocean. After soil fertility was cut in two man began to realize that something would have to be done to stop the loss of soil fertility and soil conservation was born. The movement has come late in many sections. It has been delayed so long that yields have been cut in two. The cost of operating a farm has become too great to make it possible to do so profitably on reduced yields. Soil conservation has become a must and the communities that fail to turn to it now are going to find themselves starved into it later as a matter of survival.

Family Living Committee Plans Next Year's Extension Lessons

The Family Living Committee held a bi-monthly meeting in the courtroom in Clarion on Monday, June 6.

Mrs. Gerhard Thompson, County Chairman, presided at the meeting. Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. Don Martin will attend Women's Summer Conference at the Kirkwood Hotel in Des Moines on July 10, 11, and 12, as guests of the Iowa Farm Bureau Federation.

Extension lessons were planned for the year 1949-1950. A lesson on "How to grow better potted plants in the home" will be given in the afternoon by a horticultural specialist from the college in the towns of Belmond, Dows, Clarion, and Eagle Grove.

Three lessons will be given as open meetings in each township. These are: (1) Using a basic yeast dough and making a variation of rolls to be used at different occasions; (2) How to select clothes, accessories, cosmetics wisely, and how to be well-groomed. This lesson will have particular emphasis for older women. (3) Clever and new ideas on entertaining as favors, place-cards, food favors, new spreads for sandwiches, etc. As an alternate for the last instruction, a lesson on home lighting with emphasis on use of new adjustors, correct light shades, and making of old containers and vases into lamps may be substituted.

The Home Economist will take two lessons to be given at monthly Farm Bureau meetings. These will be on the rights of women under the law as basis for making financial plans and on the need of farm families to have a better understanding of world affairs. The latter will emphasize organizations like C. A. R. E. and the United Nations.

In August each rural homemaker will receive a card giving the lessons and month for them to be given in the county. Then, if the homemaker wishes to receive a notice of the meeting from the Extension office, she will return the card.

Driver's License Renewal Work Entered Second Phase on June 20

The job of renewing a million and a quarter Iowa Driver's licenses went into its second phase Monday, June 20, when highway patrol examining teams began renewing 1946-1948 licenses numbered below 500,000.

A driver holding a license in this group may apply for renewal any time during a 30-day period to his next birthday on or after July 5.

In other words, a driver whose birthday comes on July 4 and whose 1946-1948 license number is below 500,000 would wait until June, 1950, before applying for renewal.

July 5 is the dividing date because it marks the end of the first year in operation of Iowa's birth date renewal law. In the current year, examining teams have been renewing licenses numbered above 500,000.

That part of the work is almost complete according to chief examiner, Clarence Shirer. Approximately 700,000 drivers now carry the new pink permit issued by the state safety department.

Shirer listed these reminders for drivers who will apply for renewal during the 12 months:

1. Bring your old license with you. If your 1946-1948 license has been lost or destroyed, write to the driver's license division, state house, Des Moines, for a verification card.

Examiners cannot issue a renewal unless the applicant can prove that his license is not under suspension or revocation.

2. The state safety department has been mailing "courtesy reminder cards" to all drivers at least 30 days prior to their renewal dates.

Shirer, however, warned motorists not to let their renewal time expire while waiting to receive this card. He said the cards must be addressed from photostats of licenses, which, in this case, were renewed three years ago. Many addresses have changed in the meantime.

3. A driver's license cannot be renewed by mail. Applicants must meet examining teams and take a vision test.

Island Camp To Open June 26 Local Girl Scouts To Attend

About 60 Belmond Scouts And Brownies To Attend During Ten-Week Period

Approximately 300 Girl Scouts and Brownies of Belmond, Garner, and Clear Lake will be given the opportunity to attend camp this summer.

The Girl Scout Camp on the Island at Clear Lake will open on June 26 and will run for about ten weeks. The Brownie Day Camp will be held in the Clear Lake State Park from ten o'clock until three for five days from July 11 through July 15.

Belmond Girl Scouts attending will number about [illegible]. About 30 Belmond Brownies will also attend.

The money to prepare, maintain, and staff the camps was raised by the three towns participating, in amounts proportionate to the number of girls who will take part. The only cost to the individual girl at Island Camp will be one dollar per day for food and craft materials. Each Brownie will pay two dollars.

Island Camp will have an average attendance of 15 girls per week, with parts of the group coming from each of the three towns.

Each Scout and Brownie is required to have a signed statement of permission from her parents and a physical examination by a doctor before she can attend camp. Doctors at the local Steele Memorial hospital are generously donating their services. Parents should send their girls for their check-ups during the week previous to their attendance at camp.

The Island camp staff is complete and will consist of Miss Loretta Parker of Omaha as camp director, Miss Eleanor Jackson of St. Paul as dietician and associate director, and Miss Betty Burns of Cear Lake, Senior Red Cross Life Saver and swimming instructor, as waterfront director. In addition, two Senior Girl Scouts of either Garner or Clear Lake will serve as counselors and camp aids.

No swimming activities will take place except during the hour in the morning and hour in the afternoon when Miss Burns is at the camp.

The county nurses of Hancock and Cerro Gordo county will take turns making mildweek health checkups on Wednesday of each week at the Island camp.

The island has its own water supply, a well having been dug this spring, and the water has been approved by the State Board of Health.

A detailed account of the Brownie Day camp plan will be presented in the issue of the Independent published the week before that opens.

The Scouts will attend camp according to their grade levels on the following schedule (grades listed are the grades as of the last school year): eighth and ninth grades, weeks of June 26 to July 2 and July 10 to July 16; fifth grade, weeks of July 17 to July 23 and August 7 to August 13; sixth grade, weeks of July 24 to July 30 and July 31 to August 6; seventh grade, weeks of August 14 to August 20 and August 21 to August 27. In case any girl cannot arrange to go during her scheduled week, a substitute time will be planned, if possible.

When the yellow blossom petals drop off the center is closed by little green leaves and when it opens a small red berry has formed. "Get Going" this year with a fast working
John Deere Duster

Last fall more European Corn Borers went into the winter than ever before in Iowa History.

Based on this survey of Borer population, Dr. H. M. Harris, head of the entomology department of Iowa State College, estimates that Corn Borers cost Iowa farmers about $40,000,000 last year.

Corn borer egg mass counts to date indicate that damage this year, especially in northern Iowa may, and probably will, go higher. Many farmers who have fought broken stalks and broken shanks with their pickers last fall know the Borer is costing them money.

Many farmers are pinning most of their hopes in the Borer battle on a JOHN DEERE DUSTER, because he is covering 8 rows each trip across the field—over 100 acres a day. With the high speed fan at a mile a minute blast, he thoroughly covers all surfaces of the plants at the bottom of the leaves as well as on top. It has all the good features you want in a machine to put on your D. D. T. It is simple to fill, the dust comes in easy-to-handle bags, ready mixed—no water to drag into the field, and no stopping to open holes in clogged nozzles. When empty, dump in a sack of D. D. T. dust and you are ready to go again.

LET'S SAVE OUR CORN CROP! KEEP FIGHTING THE BORER

OBITURAY

MRS. EARL JENISON

Funeral services for Mrs. Earl Jenison, 53, were held last Thursday, June 16, at the Methodist church with Rev. W. L. Patterson, and Rev. W. T. Boston of Goodell officiating. Music was furnished by the Methodist quartet, composed of Mrs. Leland Lieuwen, Mrs. Clark McNeal, Malcolm Jensen, and Paul Rietz. Mrs. Paul Jenison was accompanist.

Pallbearers were Roger Hanson, George Hogenson, Paul Jenison, Daryl Jenison, Kenneth Jenison, and Melvin Richardson. Burial was made in the Belmond cemetery. Arrangements were in charge of the Fulton funeral home.

Hazel Olinda, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Olander Sandberg, was born September 29, 1895, at Dixon, Illinois, and passed away at Belmond, Iowa, Monday, June 13, 1949, aged 53 years, 8 months and 14 days.

At the age of seven years she came to Goodell, Iowa, receiving her education in the local school and choosing teaching as her profession.

She was united in marriage to Earl Jenison of Belmond on April 7, 1915, and since that time has lived on their farm two miles north of Belmond.

She suffered a stroke on Monday at two p. m. at her home, just as she was leaving to attend the Executive Board meeting of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist church, having recently been elected the leader of one of the circles. She was immediately rushed to the Steele Memorial Hospital, but she died at eight o'clock that evening without regaining consciousness.

She leaves to mourn her loss her husband; six children, George of Belmond, Leland and Arnold, students at Iowa State College at Ames, Ardeth, a nurse in the Methodist hospital at Des Moines, Robert and Elna at home; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. Sandberg of Goodell, Iowa; brothers, Henning Sandberg of Clear Lake, Iowa, Major Carl Sandberg of Omaha, Nebraska; sisters Edith, Mrs. Amos Hanson of Goodell, Iowa; and one grandson, Billy.

Mrs. Jenison was of a cheerful disposition, willing, cooperative, and helpful in every kind of worthwhile endeavor in the work of her church and neighborhood, never refusing to take her part. Of an affectionate nature, she was a devoted wife and loving mother and daughter, deeply attached to all her loved ones.

Although she has not been entirely well for some time, nevertheless, her death was unexpected, and the whole community was profoundly shocked by the suddenness of the summons.

HARM MENKE

Funeral services for a former resident of Belmond, Harm Menke, Sr., 83, were held last Wednesday, June 15, at the Reformed Church near Belmond. The Boone funeral home assisted with the arrangements.

Mr. Menke, who was born February 26, 1866, in Weener Ostfriesland, Germany, died June 11 in a Mason City hospital.

He came to America in 1894 and was married to Elzina Wientjs on January 13, 1895. To this union were born three children, Lambert Menke, Mason City; John Menke, Geneva, Iowa; and Justin Menke, who died at the age of six months. Mrs. Elzina Wientjs passed away in 1898.

On Jan. 7, 1906, Mr. Menke married Anna Groen. To this union were born Mrs. Cathrine Menke Winters of Clear Lake, Geo. Menke of Fresno, California, Harm Menke, Jr. of Mason City, Titus Menke of Mason City, Alfred Menke of Cricago, Illinois, Mrs. Grace Menke Kingery of Fresno, California, and Mrs. Anna May Menke Mills of Los Angeles, California.

Mr. Menke is survived by his wife, Anna, the children previously mention, by several grandchildren, and by three sisters in Germany.

CARD OF THANKS

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Charles "Bud" Dorr, who was killed in a train accident, June 26, 1948.

Remembrance is a golden chain,
Death tries to break, but all in vain,
To have, to love and then to part
Is the greatest sorrow of one's heart.
The years may wipe out many things
But this they wipe out never
The memory of those happy days
When we were all together.

VOL. 30 NO. 37 OFFICIAL CITY PAPER Belmond, Wright County Iowa Thursday, June 30, 1949 OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER The Family Newspaper

MAIN STREET

By George C. Hansen

Forest City should consider it- fortunate in having the M & L serving the city, says Ben rter, Editor of the Summit. The daytime passenger trains are an improvement and if the ption they get here is in- tive, the trains are paying off increased passenger revenue.

Business doesn't go where it isn't invited and it seems to me that our CGW would still be running afternoon trains if they had invited the business with improved trackage and modern and CLEAN coaches.

—M-S—

Gene Behrends, a brother of Ted Behrends of Ted's Shoe Shop on Main Street, played a prominent part in rescuing two women involved in a boat accident at Lake Cornelia on June 12. He was floating on a raft some 200 yards from the boat which overturned, and immediately swam to the aid of the three persons involved.

He operates a shoe shop at Britt.

—M-S—

Belmond's children are very fortunate this summer in having two recreational programs planned especially for them. The summer program at the city park has proved successful. It provides a wide variety of activities, enabling each child to choose his favorite game or sport.

The Red Cross swimming program, with the enormous total of 205 enrolled, is still gaining momentum. Certainly that huge number of young swimmers is sufficient incentive for a swimming pool in Belmond.

Jeanne Bamford Chosen To Head Legion Auxiliary

Mrs. Jeanne Bamford was chosen president of the American Legion auxiliary for the coming year at a meeting held last Tuesday, June 21.

Other officers chosen were as follows: vice-president, Mrs. Mildred Baker; secretary, Mrs. Betty rkema; treasurer, Mrs. Lorraine Meyers; chaplain, Mrs. Lillie Thompson; historian, Mrs. Lillie Johnson; and sergeant-at-arms, Mrs. Mary Smith.

Mrs Marjorie Kennedy, Mrs. Violet Wagner, and Mrs. Veronica Barry were elected to serve on the executive board.

Interviews

In this, the first of a series of "Questions of the Week," an Independent reporter visited the city park and talked to a number of children attending the summer recreation program.

Question: What do you like best about your play here?

Jean Ann Johnson, 8—The library.

Arthur Jehison, 7—Playing ball

Jeff Hansen, 6—Playing cars.

Arnette Ter Hark, 15—Horseshoes and everything.

Playground activities for the summer recreation program will not be held on July 4.

County Tops Quota In Drive; Rises To Fourteenth Place

Chairman McNeal Reports 106.93% of Quota Reached

Wright County has risen to fourteenth place in the state in the completion of its quota for the Opportunity drive in accordance with figures released in the seventh report from the office of the state director.

Last week's report showed the county in twenty-second place.

Wright county sales reached $503,330, 106.93 percent of the drive quota, according to figures just received by Clark H. McNeal, Wright county chairman of the savings bond division.

McNeal explained that the official dates of the drive were from May 16 through June 30, but that sales of E, F, and G bonds reported to the Federal Reserve bank by July 16 will be credited to the state and county quotas.

As promotional activities for the drive draw to a close, Iowa stands at 87.51 percent of its $50-million quota and there is every indication that the goal will be exceeded before final reports are available the latter part of July.

The latest report shows that 23 counties have topped their quotas, while 45 counties are over the state average. Standings of the leaders have not changed since last week with Sioux, Story and Taylor leading in that order.

The tour of the original Conestoga covered wagon ends June 30 with an all-day appearance at Ottumwa. The unit visited 34 cities in the state, and made a few brief stops en route.

SUPERVISORS' COST IS HIGHEST IN IOWA; DOUBLE STATE FIGURE

Among counties in its population bracket in 1947, the total and per person operating cost for the Wright county board of supervisors was the highest in the state.

According to the Iowa Taxpayers association, 60 cents per person was the total per person cost for the board here. This is just double the figure for the state.

Iowa's counties were divided into four groups for purposes of comparison. Wright county falls into the third grouping, those between 15,000 and 25,000, which includes more than half the total number of counties in the state. The population of this county totals 20,038; the total operating cost of the board was $12,048.

Palo Alto and Chickasaw counties followed Wright county in the third grouping, with per person costs of $.57. Cherokee and Montgomery counties were low with $.19.

The total costs of the boards of supervisors in all counties in Iowa increased 8.13 percent in 1947 over the 1946 cost. The per person cost ranged from a high of $.67 in Worth to a low of $.12 in Linn.

Only two counties have seven supervisors. Seventy counties have three, while 27 have five .In the third group, to which Wright county belongs, the average per person cost of the 17 counties with five supervisors is $.44; of the 33 counties with three supervisors, $.35.

The five-member Wright county board of supervisors had a $.60 per person operating cost in 1947, as compared with $.53 in 1946.

Up to 90% Borer Control Obtained in Sprayed Area

5,000 Acres Treated Here in Past 10 Days, Is Wilmarth's Report

Seventy to ninety-five percent control on hatched borers has been obtained in the approximately 5,000 acres of corn in the local area sprayed in the last ten days, according to Chuck Wilmarth, research director for the Thompson Hybrid Corn Co.

Of the 5,000 acres, Wilmarth estimates that about 2,000 have been sprayed by plane and the other 3,000 by ground. He mentioned that he was well satisfied with spraying results, and said that there has been very little difference in results between ground and air spraying.

The egg mass count is far down, and there seems to have been an overall check in egg laying. Two things are responsible for this decrease in the egg mass count. First, the rains washed off many of the masses, and second, many of the masses have hatched.

These heavy rains have not helped the situation with hatched borers, though, for it seems almost impossible to drown them. It is not uncommon to find 30 live borers per corn plant, especially in larger corn.

Live borers which have not reached the leaf sworls can be controlled; however, once they have progressed to the stalk, very little can be done to stop extensive damage.

From all indications, no second spray will be necessary unless there is a sudden increase in egg laying.

Nearly 600 farmers attended the 16 township meetings on European corn borer control held on June 21. The meetings were arranged because of the heavy infestation of corn borers in Wright county in the early stages of the egg laying period. Seven agricultural leaders of the County helped County Extension Director Bowman in conducting them.

Attends Family Reunion At Lauron Dorr's Sunday; 11 of 12 Children Come

A first visit home in 22 years and first meetings with a brother and sister, the second government citation issued in Canada, service in the Canadian army from 1940 to 1942, and hauling oil from Montana to Alberta, are all features in the unusual life of Roy William Dorr, who attended a family reunion at the Lauron Dorr home in Belmond Sunday.

Roy, who is the son of Albert Dorr of Belmond, belongs to a family unusual in itself, for it contains 12 children and two sets of twins, Lauron and Elsie and Donald and Duane. He had never seen the two youngest Dorr children, O'Larry and Marilyn.

Roy has been maintenance foreman for the British Columbia Electric Company in Vancouver, British Columbia, since 1943. He arrived home Father's Day after a four-day trip from Vancouver.

Roy received two government citations, the second one awarded by the Canadian Safety Council and a citation from the North American Gas Association, for his rescue work following a gas explosion in Vancouver in October, 1947. He entered the building and brought out the three badly-burned men. He was also awarded a week's trip, financed by the British Columbia Electric, to Jasper Park in the Canadian Rockies the next June.

Roy is not a Canadian citizen, although the simple act of voting would make him one because of his service in the Canadian army and the fact that only five year's residence in Canada is necessary. He avoided citizenship when entering the army by swearing allegiance to the cause, not the king. He was disabled on May 5, 1942, on the Queen Charlotte Islands, a day before the transfer he had requested from the Canadian to the American army came through.

When asked which climate he preferred, that of British Columbia or Iowa, Roy exclaimed, "I couldn't live in Iowa in this heat!" He stated that summer evenings in Vancouver, which is about 150 miles from Seattle, are cool, jackets and sweaters are necessary when going out. The temperature only drops as low as zero for about one to two months in the winter.

According to him, Canadian food is cheaper, but clothing is much higher than in the states. A meal which would cost $2 to

Danish Airline Inspector Is Impressed By American Cars

"If I could put one of your American cars into my pocket to take back to Denmark, I'd certainly do it," said Borge Helmo sen, Supervisor of Inspection of the Technical Department of Danish Airlines, who visited his uncle Henry Larsen, "Belmond's Great Dane", here from Saturday until Tuesday night.

Larsen, whose home is in Copenhagen, is making a survey of the United States airline operations and of Washington legislation concerning them.

(Danish airlines is just one section of Scandinavian airlines, which is a consolidation of Swedish, Norwegian, and Danish lines. The lines are divided into two other sections—Overseas and European. Larsen is associated with the European division.)

He said he was very surprised at the huge number and the quality of American cars. Danish transportation is mostly by bicycles—cars are rationed, and highly taxed. The whole country receives only about 2,000 per year.

Larsen expects to remain in the United States until the end of July. He left Copenhagen June 19 and arrived in New York the next morning. From there he flew to Montreal, took a Trans-Canadian plane from Montreal to Chicago, and flew from Chicago to Des Moines via United Airlines Saturday.

When asked for his impressions of this country, Larsen, who speaks English fluently, exclaimed, "It's so hot! But I like coca-cola, your national drink here; I'm satisfied if I can get it!"

Larsen, who is making his first trip to the states, flew to Denver Tuesday night where he will continue his survey by studying Continental airlines. He will also study United Airlines at San Francisco, Western Airlines at Los Angeles, Transworld Airlines at Kansas City, Eastern Airlines at Miami, Florida, and Capitol Airlines at Washington, D. C. He will contact Civil Aeronautics Association headquarters in Washington.

The first of his family to visit the United States, Larsen graduated from technical high school in Copenhagen in 1942. He spent three years working in a small light-aircraft factory and served in the Danish army for a year.

Boy Scouts Announce Lowering Of Entrance Age Requirements

Starting Ages Dropped To 8, 11, 14 After Study, Effective September 1

In an unprecedented move, the Boy Scouts of America has lowered the entrance age for its three programs of Cub Scouting, Boy Scouting and Senior Scouting, effective Sept. 1, 1949.

In announcing the far-reaching change authorized by the National Executive Board of the organization, Dr. Arthur A. Schuck, Chief Scout Executive, said the decision was reached after a three-year exhaustive study during which opinions were obtained from experienced leaders as well as parents.

An age study committee was appointed by the Winnebago Council last November to assist in the nation-wide study. Those serving on this committee are Rev. E. A. Bergeson, Chairman; Judge W. P. Butler, L. K. Shepoiser, Supt. of Schools, of Mason City; Edwin Roedel, School Principal, and Dr. R. H. Koenig of Charles City. Dr. Koenig was instrumental in getting this committee organized.

After September 1st, boys may become Cub Scouts at eight years of age instead of nine. Eight-year olds may earn the Wolf rank, nine-year olds the Bear rank, and ten-year olds the Lion, and in the last half of the tenth year, the Webelos rank. Present Cub Scouts will be permitted, if they so desire, to complete their Wolf and Bear ranks in their ninth year, their Bear, Lion and Webelos in their tenth year.

Under the new plan, boys graduate from Cub Scouting on their 11th birthday and are eligible to join a Boy Scout Troop. Those who are 11 and wish extra time to complete their Lion rank before going into Scouting must do so before December 1, 1949.

On September 1st, boys may become Boy Scouts at eleven instead of twelve. Previous Cub Scouting experience is not required. A boy can be a Boy Scout only during the ages of eleven, twelve, and thirteen. On his fourteenth birthday he automatically becomes an Explorer Scout, a member of the program now known as Senior Scouting As an explorer Scout he may continue his membership in his Troop if he desires or he may transfer to an Explorer Unit.

Exploring will replace the present Senior Program. An explorer Scout who leaves a troop may become a member of an Explorer Squadron, Explorer Post, or Explorer Ship.

The effect of the action taken by the National Executive Board is far reaching. In the Winnebago Council alone at least 1500 more boys will become eligible for the Scouting program. It appears certain to officials of the Council that there will be a considerable increase in membership in all Scouting units, during the fall months. A demand for new Scouting units is expected. Many more boys will graduate from Cub Scouting into Boy Scouts and there will be a greater emphasis on program and activities for the Explorer Scouts, the group which will have a major increase in membership.

Legion Auxiliary To Raise Funds For Audiometer And Beds

The American Legion Auxiliary of Wright County last week announced the starting of its annual magazine subscription campaign, a plan to raise funds for the purchase of new portable adjustable hospital beds with mattresses and a new portable audiometer—an instrument used to test for normal hearing and for measuring hearing loss or testing for hearing irregularities.

This new portable audiometer and portable hospital beds with mattresses will be housed in the Wright County Public Health Nurse's Office in the court house in Clarion when received. The equipment will be made readily available for use to all residents, doctors, nurses, schools, or organizations in Eagle Grove, Clarion, Goldfield, Belmond, Dows, Galt, Holmes, Rowan, Woolstock, and the surrounding rural areas at all times without charge, except for the transportation.

The new portable audiometer will be used to test all school children's hearing ability.

The plan will be explained in detail by representatives of the Publisher, working under the direction of the American Legion Auxiliary of Wright County, each bearing a letter of identification and authorization signed by the officers: Those who particularly apply to the Belmond area are Mrs. Art Beisell, County President, of Goldfield; Mrs. Florence Aldinger, County Vice President, of Rowan; and Miss Cecelia Holtzbauer, of Belmond and Mrs. R. O. Campbell, of Rowan, both executive board members.

The Legion Auxiliary plans to consider the campaign as a community project—not as a request for donations. Donations will not be accepted by either the representatives or the organization. Every resident cooperating will get value received in well-known magazine subscriptions. Through this same plan in the past a new portable H-H Inhalator, a new portable oxygen apparatus for the administration of oxygen, five new portable adjustable hospital beds with mattresses, and other sick room equipment have been purchased and placed with the American Legion Auxiliary units in Clarion, Eagle Grove, Goldfield, Dows, and Belmond for free use.

rcycle Accidents Show Sharp rease In First Weeks Of June

Killed In June's Two Weeks Than First Half of 1948

Iowans were killed in rcycle accidents during the two weeks of this month n in the entire first half of year, according to the Iowa rtment of public safety.

The four youths killed in torcycle-car crashes early month brought the 's total for that type ac- to 5 killed and 68 injured.

At the end of June last year, state counted 3 motorcyclists dead and 28 injured for the six-month period.

Motorcycle accidents began a sharp increase early this spring, the department reports. The vehicles were involved in 24 accidents during March. That figure doubled in April for a total 70 percent increase over the previous year.

Motorcycles comprise only 1 percent of all vehicles registered in the state, yet were involved in 5 percent of all fatal accidents last year, according to the department.

The five cyclists killed this year ranged in age from 16 to 22 years and most of the injured fell in the same age group, according to safety education field director Frank Ulish.

He said that the climb in the accident and death rate is probably due to "more motorcycles in the hands of more young drivers."

According to the department, 9,180 motorcycles were registered in the state at the end of April. This is an increase of 1,143 over the total at the end of last year.

"The speed and maneuverability of these vehicles often misleads young drivers into dangerous traffic situations," Ulish said. "The motorcycle is a machine that demands a great deal of experience and care in handling."

Visiting around Iowa

by Joe Marsh

Fishin' Time in Iowa

Yes, it's fishin' time in Iowa . . . and how grand and glorious it is!

Why do some folks rush off to other states, when our own Iowa lakes and streams have some of the finest fishing there is? Walleyes and northern pike, brook, brown, and rainbow trout, pan fish, cat fish . . . just about everything!

Try our Iowa resorts this year. You'll have your eyes opened.

Fishing does something fine for a person. Seems to make him a better man. He gets along with his neighbors. He's tolerant, generous.

You'll hear fishermen discussing the merits of different flies, rods, etc. It's O.K. Each has the right to his own preference. Same with other things . . . one may like coffee, another may prefer a temperate glass of beer. Each has his right of choice; is respected for it.

In every-day life, as in fishing, let's respect the OTHER fellow's rights as much as our own. It makes us all better folks, and better neighbors.

INTERRACIAL MARRIAGES

Two interracial marriages have broken into the news lately. Oddly enough, they involve examples of tolerance and intolerance on both sides—tolerance in the cases of the men and women who decided to marry in spite of obstacles, and intolerance on the part of outsiders.

Paul Robeson, Jr., son of the famous Negro baritone, has married a 21-year-old white girl. Seretse Khama, Negro heir to the chieftainship of African Bamangwato tribesmen, also married a white girl, a 24-year-old London typist last year.

Now Seretse's tribesmen, although they want him as their chief, refuse to accept his marriage to a white. His case even seems similar to that of Edward VIII, whose people wanted him as king but refused to accept his American divorcee wife.

The marriage of Paul Robeson, Jr., attracted a crowd of several hundred persons, some of whom booed as the wedding party left the building. The young man's famous father told reporters, "This marriage would not have caused any excitement in the Soviet Union." And it was Robeson who took his son to the Soviet Union to educate him so that he might escape American intolerance!

In speaking of American interracial marriages, the American people could well afford to ask themselves two questions. Did the four-fifths of American Negroes who have white blood get it through a system of equality of opportunity? They did not, for it came from slavery, the most extreme form of white supremacy.

Why, then, don't we give the Negro a chance at better jobs, better education, and more rights, thus decreasing racial intermixture?

S. U. I. OFFICIAL'S DEATH ATTRIBUTED TO OVERWORK

Dr. Mayo H. Soley, dean of the State University of Iowa College of Medicine, shot and killed himself last week. Authorities said no motive was learned for the act "except that he had been under a very heavy burden of work. Then, too, the state legislature's expansion program for the medical school had drawn severe criticism to him in recent months.

Dean Soley could certainly be called a public servant. A parallel might be drawn between his death and that of James Forrestal, who also took his own life after serving as our country's Secretary of Defense. Both were criticized and overworked; no person can stand up under that indefinitely.

Dr. Soley had been depressed because of his heavy duties. In its appropriation bill for the state university, the legislature inserted a directive to increase the number of medical students enrolled by one-third, from 92 to 120, the money to cóme from unallocated funds in the possession of the university. Dr. Soley had told th elegislators that S. U. I. was willing to increase the number of its students, but not overnight, because the hospitals and medical school would have to be expanded.

This year's appropriations for the state schools are about $400,000 a year more than the colleges said they need to continue operating at the present level. For the university, the appropriation was $5,203,000, an increase of $1,307,000 over last year. However, when broken down, this isn't so much; the state even had to make a deficiency appropriation of $296,000, cutting the increase to about $1,000,000.

A number of outstanding educators have left Iowa City in recent months for better-paying positions. The appropriations have evidently been insufficient to allow increases in the salaries of many of the school's best men.

Iowa cannot expect to maintain a top notch university, one able to keep up high standards and compete with universities in other states, without paying for it! So long as its budget is so low, it will continue to overwork and underpay its top men, brilliant specialists that they are, instead of obtaining adequate assistance. The state cannot afford to lose men of Dr. Soley's caliber.

EDITORIAL COMMENT—

Mayor Roy Schram of Forest City has had cause for complaint, but he's kept still about it. You see, the mayor's in an odd position.

Last summer the town's citizens complained because of dusty streets, so this spring the city council signed a contract to have five miles of the streets oiled. Then more people complained about the "messy, sticky oil."

The man who probably has had the best reason to complain hasn't said a word, according to the Mason City Globe-Gazette. A valve broke on the big tank truck when it was spraying the dirt road beside the mayor's house. It wasn't fixed until black, sticky road oil had flooded most of his honor's lawn.

Whitney Gillilland, State Chairman of the Republican Party, has adopted a new slogan in publicity released from his office. Here it is:

Remember this: IT WAS NOT THE DEMOCRATS WHO BEAT US IN 1948. IT WAS THE 50% OF THE PEOPLE WHO DID NOT VOTE AT ALL.

This percentage should be enough to make us stop and think, whatever our party. A non-voting 50 percent of our populace might cost our nation its chance of survival in the future.

Captain Banning Receives 'Senior Pilots' Wings'

Captain Richard E. Banning, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Banning of Belmond, recently received orders from headquarters, United States Air Force, that he can now wear "Senior Pilot's Wings" in place of the wings he earned when graduating from Aviation Cadets in February, 1942.

Captain Banning is stationed with the 373d Weather Reconnaissance Squadron in Bermuda. In order to qualify for the "senior wings", which are indicated by a small star above the shield on a normal set of pilot's wings, the officer must have at least 2,000 flying hours to his credit, be highly proficient in blind flying techniques, and have been an Air Force pilot for seven years or more.

The Captain's present assignment with the 373d Weather Reconnaissance Squadron takes him on flights over the Caribbean Sea and Central Atlantic Ocean six months out of every year in search of dreaded tropical hurricanes. These storms are first found and then tracked by the squadron's huge reconnaissance B-29's. The hurricane observations are radioed back to land stations every 15 minutes during the flight. This organization has been the official "Hurricane Hunting" outfit for the Air Force since 1914 and is still performing this public service in conjunction with the U. S. Navy and U. S. Weather Bureau.

Captain Banning is a graduate of the Belmond High School and of Britt Junior College. He and Mrs. Banning (formerly Doris Thornbury of Britt, Iowa) and their three daughters, Mary Ann, Edith, and Linda, are all living in Bermuda and will remain there until their overseas tour is completed in February, 1950.

Co. Public Health Nurse Reports Good Progress In Tuberculosis Search

Good progress in the current search for unknown tuberculosis cases in Wright county is reported by Alice Moore, public health nurse, states Mr. Claude Sankey, County chairman of the Tuberculosis and Health association.

"The most gratifying part of this search," declared the nurse, "is the splendid response by residents of Wright County to our suggestion that they have tuberculosis skin tests and, if necessary, chest x-rays."

The county nurse, at the request of family physicians, has been visiting persons who according to State Health Department records have had close contact with cases of tuberculosis and other persons they wish to have checked.

She is advising these persons to have skin tests made by the physicians and, if he recommends, chest x-rays The x-rays will be taken at the conference conducted by the State Health Department and the Iowa Tuberculosis Association.

"We are trying to find unsuspected cases of tuberculosis at an early stage when there is the greatest opportunity for cure" Miss Moore explained that it is possible to have the disease without being aware anything is wrong and added, "It is good common sense for persons who have been exposed to tuberculosis to find out if they have contracted the disease."

The Chancel Committee will present a report following the morning service.

County Stands Sixty-Fifth In Sheriff's Office Costs

About one-third of Iowa's 99 counties ranked lower than Wright county in total and per person cost of sheriff's offices for the year 1947, according to a report released Wednesday by the Iowa Taxpayers Association.

Wright county, which ranks fortieth in population, ranks sixty-fifth in total costs. The county's 1947 per person cost was $.36, an increase of four cents over the 1946 per person cost.

The total cost of sheriff's offices in Iowa (without deduction of fees collected) according to officially audited reports to the Auditor of State, for the year 1947 was $1,080,845. This is an increase of $148,963 or 15.99 per cent over the 1946 cost of $931,882. This cost in 1945 was $854,739. The average per person cost for the entire state was $.43, as compared with $.37 in 1946.

The division of cost was as follows: Salaries of sheriffs, $263,667; salaries of first deputies, $193,295; salaries of other deputies, $266,798; postage and miscellaneous expense, $4,163; board care and washing for prisoners, $163,923; mileage and expense paid by counties, $170,818; other office expense, $18,181; total—$1,080,845.

The five high counties were Polk with a per person cost of $.73; Greene, $.66; Dubuque, $.61; Montgomery and Adams, $.57.

The five low counties were Butler with a per person cost of $.18; Sioux, $.22; Boone, $.24; Delaware and Jasper, $.26.

If all counties in the state had sheriffs' offices to that of the sheriffs offices to that of the average of the five low counties, the total expenditures for all the sheriff's offices would have been $609,184 instead of $1,080,845, a saving of $471,651 or 43.64 percent.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Tudor and family attended the Iowa State Jersey Club picnic at the Youngcrest Farm at Jessup on Friday.

County's Home Owners Have Huge Repair Job

Repair expenditures on Wright county's non-farm homes will total an estimated $510,000 during 1949 and will serve as an important factor in keeping both labor and business activity at high levels, according to a report just released by the Tile Council of America.

"Practically every trade in the community will benefit this year from home repair expenditures," declared A. T. Wintersgill, chairman of the Council's residential construction committee. Suc work, he pointed out, is a vital stabilizing influence throughout the building trades.

Painting and redecorating will account for about $33 out of every $100 to be spent here on home repairs, the report revealed. Repair and replacement of heating equipment will take $26 of the theoretic $100, and roofing about $12.

Carpentry work will require approximately $7 out of every $100, and installation of showers tiling of bathrooms and replacement of plumbing will account for another $6. Repairs with stone, glass and tile, and miscellaneous work, will take the balance of the $100, according to the report.

Expenditures throughout the United States on home repairs will total between $2,500,000,000 and $3,100,000,000 in 1949, the Tile Council estimated.

SALE

It isn't funny when we get broken in sizes and find our shoe stock with many short lots and have to close them out at prices far below cost. We would rather do it than carry these short lots into the next season so we've marked this merchandise at ridiculously low prices. If you'll be here early Friday morning you'll be glad you came.

THESE PRECAUTIONS!

1. AVOID HEAT. After you have spilled any substance on a fabric ,do not press over it with an iron. Heat sets a stain.

2. DON'T RUB! If you get a stain on a garment, avoid rubbing the stain with either water or a cleaning agent. Rubbing may chafe a fabric. It may even damage color.

ROY DORR

$2.50 in Seattle can be obtained in Vancouver for $1 to $1.50. In Vancouver it is impossible to get any kind of dress shoes for less than $15 to $20. he was surprised at much lower shoe prices in Minneapolis. He also says that work in Canada is more plentiful than in the states.

Canadian tourists cannot come to the United States with more than $150, although they could bring any amount before the war. The country needs its money within it to build up trade. (Roy believes the $150 figure may be changed after July 1.)

Roy has also spent a year in Alaska, 30 mies out of White Horse and the Alcan highway serving as works foreman for a construction outfit on an airport. He says Alaska is beautiful, but that the highway is no road for tourists because of the infrequency of stops which can be made.

Roy, who will return to Canada the last of this week, attended school at Belmond and first left about 1925. After returning home for short periods, he spent one summer in the harvest fields in Washington and Oregon and then went on to Alberta. Canada.

All of Albert Dorr's 12 children except Joseph, who lives in California and has recently been ill for several months, came to Belmond for Sunday's reunion. A daughter, Elsie, who is Mrs. Louis Kaz of Chicago, attended with her two children, Judy and Sheldon.

Of the children, five were born to Mr. Dorr and his first wife, Elsie. These are Joseph, Inverness, California; Leo, of Belmond; Roy, of Vancouver; and the twins, Lauron, Belmond, and Elsie, Chicago. Mrs. Dorr died when the twins were born.

The seven children of Mr. Dorr and his second wife, Nellie, all live in Belmond. These are the twin boys, Donald and Duane; Clair; Frances (Mrs. Jack Lansing); Paul, O'Larry, and Marilyn.

The Dorrs have lived in and near Belmond ever since their marriage 37 years ago. The twins were born on a farm northwest of Belmond, while the other five were born on a farm one mile north of town. The family moved to town 12 years ago.

Less Property Tax for School System in 1949-50 Indicated

More Instruction Costs Help Raise Estimates

The Belmond Independent district board of education has estimated that it will cost $245.70 less in district property taxes to operate the local school in 1949-50 than it did in 1948-49.

This decrease in district property taxes for school purposes will exist in spite of the fact that the school budget for the coming year has been increased $18,748.01.

The total budget for next year will be $115,859.01, as compared with $97,111.00 the year before. The 1949 property taxes will be $70,859.01, as compared with $71,104.71 in 1948.

Budget increases have been necessitated because of raised instruction, maintenance, and operation costs.

The hiring of two new teachers and the addition of vocational agriculture to the curriculum, salary increases, and old age assistance have increased instruction costs $10,444.54 over last year's budget estimate.

The additional $8,303.47 increase in expenses comes from maintenance and operation, such as sidewalks, remodeling the kindergarten room, and redecoration.

The $45,000 balance of the school budget will be taken care of through increases in state aid and in tuition rates.

The board of directors of the school district has set the time for the hearing on their budget estimates as July 15 at 8:00 p. m. in the schoolhouse. At this meeting Belmond voters will have a chance to express their approval or disapproval of the estimates. Every voter is urged to attend; Iowa is one of only two states where taxpayers can actually do something about proposed property taxes if they don't like them.

Marian Anderson To Enter Coe College This Fall

Miss Marian Anderson of Belmond has been accepted by Coe college, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, where she will enter as a freshman next fall.

A 1949 graduate of the Belmond high school, Miss Anderson was business manager of the annual, president of the Pep club, secretary of the junior and senior classes, and active in music and dramatics.

She is the daughter of Mr and Mrs. Orphie Anderson of Belmond, and the third member of her family to attend Coe. Her brother, Kenneth, was graduated from the Cedar Rapids college in 1942, and her sister, Joyce, attended Coe in 1942 and 1943.

Many Iowa State Parks Have Turn-Away Crowds

For the first time in Iowa state park history, parking and other facilities are proving to be inadequate for Sunday and holiday crowds.

Lake Ahquabi, Lake Macbride, Dolliver Memorial and Red Haw Hill Parks, have had turn-away crowds for two successive Sundays. Commission officials would not speculate on the reason for the tremendous increase in park visitors, but they do believe it significant that the heaviest park use has been in the parks with artificial lakes. Fishing has been excellent, the weather hot and beaches packed to capacity on all good swimming days.

V. W. Flickinger, Chief of the Lands and Waters Division for the Conservation Commission and Wilbur Rush, Superintendent of State Parks, anticipates a 20 percent increase in park attendance over the record breaking two and three-quarter million attendance in 1948.

Band Concert Tonight

The third in the series of summer band concerts will be presented at the city park tonight (Thursday) at 8:00, according to an announcement by Duane Cunning, director.

Over 4 Million Bushels Corn Under Loan Agreement Here

...The AAA County Committee ...office force wishes to express ...appreciation to both the ...and the banks for their ...and consideration in ...to carrying out the 1948- ...loan program.

...AAA office reports that ...June 30, 1904 loans ...purchase agreements ...have been completed ...signed. Loans total $4,- ...while purchase ...represent $5,- ...if delivered or sealed ...October 1.

...is by far the largest ...of corn that is being held ...farm since the early ...war. With it arises a ...of delivery and ...if this year's ...as present ...at this time.

It is hoped that more storage will be provided on the farm. To encourage this, Commodity Credit Corporation will pay 10 cents per bushel on corn resealed and stored on the farm until July 31, 1950.

For those who may need a loan for storage construction, loans will be available up to 85 percent of cost of construction, but not to exceed 45 cents per bushel of the capacity of the bin or crib. These loans will bear 4 percent interest per annum, for a maximum time of five years, payable in equal annual payments. The encouragement is primarily in the form of guaranteeing loans made by local banks to producers for the construction and acquisition of farm storage facilities. For more detailed information inquiry may be made at the AAA office.

Valuable Plat Book Reduced in Cost To Independent Subscribers in July

Will Sell for $1 With Two-Year New and Renewal Subscriptions

During the remainder of July the Independent office will offer, at a great reduction in price, a valuable up-to-date Wright County plat book, with new and renewal two-year subscriptions to the Independent. The book has been drawn, with high accuracy, by engineers from aerial photographs.

The plat book shows land owners on record in the Wright county auditor's office as of May 1, 1949. It includes the name of the owner of the farm, the number of acres, the location of the property, the name of the tenant, if any, postal address of the tenant or farm owner, and the shortest route to the farm dwelling.

It provides a complete mailing list by section, township or county, and is a highly accurate and convenient road map of the county. This book is also a good way to get acquainted, whether you are an "old-timer" who will want to know "new people" or whether you are classified among the "new people" who will want to become acquainted with "old-timers."

This book is being offered exclusively in this area and for the first time in Wright county by any newspaper by the Belmond Independent.

The price of the book, which may be purchased alone, is three dollars. However, for a limited time, it is also being offered to any old or new subscriber for a two-year new or renewal subscription at six dollars subscription price, plus one dollar, a total of seven dollars and a saving of two dollars.

The Belmond Tomahawks romped over the Clarion baseball team last Sunday by a 13 to 2 score. Nissen limited Clarion to five scattered hits, while the Tomahawks collected 14 safeties, including doubles from the offerings of Schutt of Clarion.

Biologists Will Start Fish Count on July 15

A fisheries survey of more than 75 natural and artificial lakes will begin July 15. Crews under the direction of commission biologists, equipped with fine mesh seines, pound nets, and laboratory equipment for various tests, will obtain information on fish population, species composition, rate of growth, abundance of rough fish, available food and other items of fish management importance.

The survey is a continuing inventory of fish population in the various lakes. The information furnished forms the basis on which seasons, stocking, rough fish removal and other fish producing management practices of the Conservation Commission are based.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Meyer and Patsy, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Johnson and Sandra and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Haupt and Cortland Haupt spent the 4th of July at the home of Mrs Erma Johnson.

Work Begun on Six-Lane Bowling Alley; Garage To Be Completed Soon

New business construction is booming at the corner of Second Street and First Avenue Southeast at Belmond with the erection of two new buildings.

The Belmond Recreation Association is putting up a new building which will house a six-lane bowling alley. The structure will occupy the south half of one lot, 130 feet east and west and and 40 feet north and south and will also house a sandwich and soft drink counter. It will have two plate glass windows—one in the front and one on the north side. The balance of the lot will be used for parking.

The bowling equipment in the building will be modern and all new with automatic pin-setters for each alley. Owners of this new business are Leo Gilligan of Sheffield, Bernold Kinseth and Jack Lansing of Belmond, and Anson Avery of Goodell.

Arlo and Henry Stoltenberg expect to have their new Kaiser-Frazer garage across the street from the bowling alley open for business by the middle of July. The building, 60 by 32 feet with an east front, will be constructed of insulated steel with concrete walls and foundation.

Combining service and a garage, the building will have four doors and a showroom. A heating system will be built within it.

According to Arlo Stoltenberg, a structure of this kind can be completed rapidly. The garage can be finished only five days after the arrival of the steel.

Inspector Warns Against Use of Rubber Boats

Use of rubber boats on deep waters may well become a factor in increased drownings in Iowa, according to Verne Petersen, State Boat Inspector of the Conservation Commission. "Rubber deteriorates very fast when exposed to the elements and there is no way of knowing just when or how a rubber boat or a craft of that type will suddenly give way." According to Petersen, the various types of rubber boats and rafts, now in use on many state waters, were made for the Army and Navy and were used during the war as emergency craft only. Because of the difficulty in examining the rubber in these crafts, Petersen advises that they be used with discretion and then only in shallow water.

18 Volumes Contain Much North Iowa Information

Mrs. Lloyd Patterson is showing the "World Book" encyclopedia for six weeks this summer in Belmond.

It is the first completely new post-war encyclopedia, published after a ten-year job of planning, under the supervision of an editorial advisory board of seven leading educators.

Accuracy of the text material was checked by experts in many fields. It has the well-deserved reputation of being one of the finest encyclopedias for students from first grade through high school, as well as an invaluable reference work for homes and offices.

The new set of the encyclopedia, which is made up of 18 volumes and a reading and study guide, devotes 18 pages to Iowa in an article packed with information by Doctor John E. Briggs, professor of political science at the State University of Iowa.

Scores of other facts about the history, industry, cultural development and prominent individuals in North Iowa are contained in the volumes of the set.

Pictures include that of the Little Brown Church in the Vale, near Nashua, which inspired William Pitts to write the song of the same name. There are also photographs of students at Iowa State College at Ames, Iowa's tall corn, and farm scenes.

More than 18,000 illustrations are used, including reproductions of many paintings in 6-color printing, drawings, photographs, sketches, and Hammond maps.

The latest information on such subjects as atomic energy, jet propulsion, aerodynamics, and the United Nations is presented.

Hog Wallows Suggested To Cool, And Control Lice

Farmers who fatten hogs during the summer months will find it pays to devise some method to keep them cool and to control lice and mange. One of the best ways of doing this is to build a portable hog wallow, says E. L. Quaife, extension animal husbandman at Iowa State College.

It is best to build two or three hog wallows rather than one large one. These can be moved when pastures are rotated and will prevent mudholes from forming.

Quaife suggests a wallow 4 by 8 feet or one 6 by 10 feet. These will handle 50 to 75 pigs.

Complete plans for building these wallows may be obtained from the Iowa State College Agricultural Extension Service.

Now Is Time To Spray Emerging Apple Maggots

Northern Iowa's most serious fruit pest, the apple maggot, also called railroad worms, is now emerging, and it is time to spray.

Aaron R. Bowman, county extension director, received this word together with recommended treatment this week from Ed Cott, extension horticulturist at Iowa State College.

Bowman says the adult fly of the apple maggot, which emerges in late June and early July, is rather easily killed. It is necessary to kill the adult before it lays eggs, since eggs are laid under apple skins and the maggots are hatched there where spray won't touch them.

Spray can be mixed in either 50-gallon or 3-gallon amounts, depending on the number of trees to spray. Ingredients needed for the 50-gallon amount are 1½ pounds of lead arsenate and 1½ pounds of hydrated lime, and if used, the quantity needed is 1 pound of 50 percent wettable powder.

If spray is to be mixed in 3-gallon quantities, add 6 tablespoons of lead arsenate and 6 tablespoons of hydrated lime to 3 gallons of water. Here again DDT may be used in place of hydrated lime. If used, 4 tablespoons of 50 percent DDT wettable powder is the amount.

A second application should be made about 10 days after the first. Do not apply the second spray to varieties ripening before Wealthy unless the fruit is washed thoroughly before using.

Big Double Cannon Act Will Be Circus Feature At Iowa State Fair

A big three-ring circus, featuring the world's first double cannon act, will be an added attraction every day during the Iowa State Fair, August 26 through September 2, exposition officials announced here today.

In the cannon thriller, the Zacchini sisters, Duina and Victoria, are both shot from a big gun at the same time. In their flight through space, the sisters reach a height of 70 feet, landing in a net 175 feet from the cannon's muzzle.

Stars of the big top will entertain grandstand crowds every afternoon to augment race and thrill show programs and at night they will be seen between scenes of the State Fair musical extravaganza.

Faulhabers Own Mystery Farm Have Made Improvements

Mr. and Mrs. Porter Faulhaber are the occupants of Mystery Farm 41, which appeared in the June 30 issue of the Independent. They bought the 105-acre farm, which is on a gravel road one-half mile north of Belmond, from Nell Delaney three years ago.

The Faulhabers have made a number of improvements. They installed a water system and an all-modern kitchen in the house. A new chicken house and a new milk house have also been built. One small building was moved to a better location and made into a tool shed.

The Faulhabers do general farming. Mrs. Faulhaber estimated that the farm contained aboout 23 acres of pasture, the rest of it being planted in oats and corn. They have 12 milk cows and 71 spring pigs. She cares for 325 pullets.

Although they have no children of their own, the Faulhabers enjoy caring for their nephew's baby, Stanley Dean Busick, 2. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Burdell Busick of Belmond.

Mrs. Faulhaber sews and crochets in her free time. She has lived her entire life in the Belmond area, while her husband spent his early life in Dubuque.

Ames Men Observe Twin Jersey Heifer Calves

A party of six, including two professors and four foreign students from Iowa State College, stopped at the H. D. Tudor farm near Rowan last Monday to take pictures and observe the pair of identical registered Jersey heifer calves.

The state college men, who were en route to a dairy meeting in St. Paul, are making a study of identical twins in cattle. This includes a study of their habits and actions, as well as pictures.

E. G. Walton, who manages the farm for Tudor, reported that a Professor Lush was in charge of the party. Three of the four foreign students came from India, New Zealand, and Australia; the fourth, a dark-skinned man, perhaps from Cuba.

Over-Exposure To Sun Is Danegeous, Warns State Health Dept.

"Iowa people are fortunate to have an abundant supply of health-giving sunshine," said the Iowa State Department of Health this week. Sunshine which irradiates bodies gives small children protection against rickets, a disease which causes bone malformations. For people of all ages, it helps build up resistance to colds and other infections.

In getting a healthy coat of tan, it is wise to start the process gradually, avoiding sunburn, which is uncomfortable in mild cases and in severe burns can cause serious illness. Use special caution in exposing babies and young children to the sun, starting with a few minutes and gradually increasing the time each day. Always protect a baby's eyes from direct sunlight.

People who work indoors, or older persons who lead quiet lives, should make a point of getting outdoors into the sunshine a part of every day, and spend a good share of the weekend outdoors.

Iowa sunshine gives an extra health dividend because it irradiates so many of the foods eaten and gives superior quality to milk, eggs and other such products.

Most persons like to get lots of summer sun, but those who do not tan should protect themselves against over-exposure. Tan is nature's way of protection from too many of the sun's ultraviolet rays.

Vitamins stored up between the months of April and October will mean fewer colds and other infection next winter. A golden coat of tan not only looks smart—it is smart, but don't try to put it on in one day

Marines Again Accepting Enlistments for Three And Four Year Intervals

Captain Harry B. Persinger, Jr., Officer in charge of recruiting for the state of Iowa, has announced that the Marine Corps is again accepting men who can qualify for three and four year enlistments.

As in the past, this district has a maximum quota for each month and judging from inquiries the past few months it behooves all those men interested in the Corps to get in touch with their nearest Marine representative as soon as practicable, to be certain of being included in these limited quotas.

The one-year program for 18 year-olds is still in effect, and all men in this age group thinking of getting into the Marine Corps should find out the advantages this program offers them.

Women are still being accepted for enlistment. The Marine Corps has recently opened up the way for women who meet requirements to be regular Marines with all benefits given the men in regards to promotion, pay, clothing etc.

Largest Iowa Telescope Will Be At Morningside

A new observatory housing the largest telescope in Iowa will be constructed next spring at Morningside college, Sioux City, Iowa.

The observatory will be erected under terms of a trust fund established by Dr. Arch F. O'Donoghue of Sioux City, in honor of his father, Dr. James H. O'Donoghue of Storm Lake, Iowa.

A 12-inch reflecting telescope will be mounted in a revolving turret in the ultra-modern observatory. Special photographic and darkroom equipment will be used to record pictorially the study of the stars.

There are only two other telescopes of size in Iowa. The largest, which is in use at the University of Iowa, Iowa City, has an 11-inch lens. The other, at Drake University in Des Moines, measures only 8¼ inches.

4-H CLUB BOYS ATTEND SHORT COURSE AT I. S. C.

Byron Koenen, Belmond, was one of six Wright county 4-H club boys attending the annual short course held at Ames from June 27 to 30.

Other boys attending were Willis Muhlenbruch, county president, Clarion; Jerry Helmke, Renwick; Bill Barz, Dows; Bob Ketchum, Rowan; and Richard Lindvall, Clarion.

They heard talks and discussions on the theme "Better Living for a Better World." They toured the agriculture farm, where they viewed test plots for comparing crop varieties, dates of planting, and fertilizer application. They also heard discussions of soils and crop rotations.

At the agriculture engineering building they saw demonstrations on sprayer adjustments, building construction, tractor carburetor setting to save fuel and also viewed colored slides on new methods of hay making. One afternoon was spent looking over much of the college livestock and observing their rations.

One of the highlights of the short course was an exhibition of Border Collie dogs working sheep. Everyone marveled at the uncanny ability of the dogs to drive and load sheep.

Group recreation and music also played a part in the day's program.

Many Communities Develop Interest In Industries

The farm has historically supported life in Iowa and still does to a large extent. But things are speeding up, and each community must be part of a balanced whole in order to maintain itself at a reasonably prosperous level. For this reason many Iowa communities have begun to realize that industry within them has many benefits.

Farsighted communities realize that industrial promotion can produce wonderful results in a reasonable guarantee of full employment, bigger payrolls and increased buying power, increased revenue, and a better market.

A news report released by the Iowa Development Commission states that 21 Waukon businessmen last fall donated a considerable sum of money to secure property for an industry to manufacture there. Early this year Oelwein was tireless in efforts to get a suitable site for the expansion program of Belmond Radio Corporation.

Forest City, Belmond's northern neighbor, went through the fuss of bringing in industry and solved it by allowing that industry a probationary period to see if the community wanted it. In just a short time a permanent permit for operations was granted the industry.

Industry has been looking to the rich lands of the Middle West. Spurred by the war, it has brought great field plants to Iowa. Belmond residents here before the advent of the General Mills plant and the Thompson Hybrid Corn Company speak highly of the advantages brought to the town by the two industries.

Belmond is ideally located for factories which process agricultural products. It is in the heart of a rich farming areas and, at the same time, has adequate transportation facilities for moving both raw materials and the finished products.

1949 AUTO DEATH RATE

Published elsewhere in this paper is a report from the Safety Director of the Motor Club of Iowa stating that the 1948 automobile death rate per one hundred million miles was the lowest on record, only 8.1 percent.

Safety activities and education, especially the work of the school safety patrol boards and the trend for inserting driver training programs for young people into the school curricula is credited. (Belmond High School will start such a course with the opening of the next school year in September.)

Any record as good as Iowa's 1948 one, the lowest in history is certainly worth working on, in an effort to reduce it still further. However 26 more people have already been killed in auto accidents this year than at the same time last year. Six people were killed last Tuesday in a 24-hour period.

Perhaps reasons for this increase can be found in the large number of vacationers this year and in the much higher accident rate among teen-age drivers.

Today's teen-agers have better autos and better roads on which to drive them than those young people who learned to drive 15 and 20 years ago, but maybe that in itself is a cause of increased accidents. They have had no occasion or need to learn to drive carefully on bad roads; good highways prevent that. Because highway driving is comparatively so easy, many of them have lately inventted ways to make it more interesting, such as the tragic game of "chicken." In this, the driver takes his hands from the wheel and pushes down on the accelerator. The first one to reach for the wheel or brake earns the name of "chicken."

The number increased tragically over the last weekend.

Let's start NOW to drive more carefully than ever before. There's still a chance the 1949 auto death rate CAN be lower than last year's.

Editorially Speaking--

BUDGET TIME NEAR

The board of directors of all of our school districts of the current year will have one of their most important meetings on July 1, or soon thereafter, and this is true of all levying bodies who must certify their budgets.

The business that will concern school boards most at this July meetings will be to decide how much money will be needed to operate the schools next year.

There should be little increase in operating costs of schools the next year over the past year. If the costs are no higher, school taxes should be substantially lower as the state allotment funds are about 50 percent more than they were before. State aid for the town schools will show a larger increase for the rural schools. (This may be one consolation, even though it means further regimentation for the state department of education and centralization in Washington, D. C.)

With less tax money needed to operate our schools next year and with a considerable increase in the property valuation in towns, it should be possible to cut the town school tax levy a goodly amount. The levies are figured out by the county auditor and they are based on property values and estimated school costs.

Although valuations are higher it doesn't mean that taxes will be higher. If budgets are not increased, the levy will decrease in proportion to the valuation increase. Consequently, it is suggested that you make a study of your taxing area's needs, the budgets as they are filed and published, compare them with previous expenditures—if you think there are changes to be made—then voice your thoughts at budget time—as the budgets adopted are YOURS as well as the tax levying body—so it is up to you. The budget hearings are public—why not attend them?—The Garner Leader.

Driver's License Law Changed To Limit Tractor Use On Roads

A change made in the driver's license law by the last general assembly became effective the first of this week. It strictly limits the use of tractors and prohibits the operation of road machines on public highways by unlicensed drivers.

According to the state safety department, the substance of the new provision as it refers to tractors is this:

An unlicensed driver may no longer operate a tractor on any public road unless that tractor is being driven "from the home farm buildings to adjacent or nearby fields."

The department said that the new limitation in the law is aparentaly aimed at:

1. The person whose driver's license is suspended or revoked for traffic offenses but who attempts to avoid his penalty by driving a farm tractor to and from town on personal business.

2. Underage children who have been allowed to drive tractors on "joy rides." The department has had reports of thirteen and fourteen-year-old tractor drivers disrupting town traffic and running tractor races on public roads.

Previous to the re-wording of the law, anyone could drive a farm tractor anywhere without a driver's license. That was the loophole being used by some suspended or revoked drivers.

Now, however, anyone convicted of driving a tractor beyond the limits set down by the law while his license is suspended or revoked will face definite penalties.

The law provides a mandatory jail sentence of not less than two days for this offense. A new provision also requires that the original time of suspension or revocation be extended for a like period—just doubled.

These penalties apply to any driver who operates a motor vehicle after his license has been suspended by law. They are not aimed solely at offending tractor operators.

"The change in the law is a logical one," state safety commissioner Alfred Kahl said. "It doesn't follow that a person whose driving record is so poor that his license must be suspended should still be allowed to drive a heavy farm tractor anywhere he chooses."

Referring to the underage tractor drivers, Kahl said "we hope to move these youngsters out of danger with a warning and educational enforcement program." State safety department records show that seven farm tractors have been involved in fatal traffic accidents so far this year.

Soil Saving Job Is Up To Farmers

While every Iowan has an important stake in soil conservation and proper land use, the responsibility of getting the job done falls on the shoulders of the individual farmer, Dean H. H. Kildee, director of agriculture at Iowa State College, said this week.

Agencies and organizations can give educational and technical help, and town residents can offer encouragement. For example, the Iowa Agricultural Experiment Station conducts research on the problem; the Iowa State College Extension Service carries on an educational program; the Soil Conservation Service offers technical assistance, the Production and Marketing Administration encourages conservation throuogh conservation payments; and such organizations as chambers of commerce encourage farmers through contests and by other means.

Returns To Farmer

But in the final analysis, the farmer must make the decision as to whether he will or won't adopt a certain conservation practice on this farm, Kildee said. And he thinks that this is proper and necessary. While the public benefits from the greater production and from assurance that the land will continue to produce for the next generation, the farmer obtains immediate and long-time direct returns from soil conservation practices.

Raising livestock is basically a soil conservation practice. Iowa farmers, through livestock, can market profitably the increased acreages of hay and pasture necessary to fit rotations to the land, Kildee said.

Even a tenant who lives on a farm for only one year may expect an immediate return from contouring, use of fertilizer and manure, and draining wet lands. Kildee cited a 5-year study comparing yields of corn on the contour with those of corn planted up and down the hill. Corn yields on 250 farms have averaged 7 bushels more per acre on contoured fields.

Tenant Has Problem

A tenant with a short-time lease faces a problem when a shift is made, however—especially a shift in cropping systems, that may not give him a return before he moves from the farm. But in spite of this handicap, many renters are making the shift to rotations that fit the land, Kildee said. They are sure of having the satisfaction of being good farmers and being good tenants, of the land. And he pointed out that in many cases, landlords pay tenants for the unused value of conservation practices when they move from the farm. He said that the use of soil conservation lease riders is encouraging.

Kildee expressed confidence that Iowa's 204,000 farmers will continue to make great strides toward a permanent agriculture in the next few years.

Automobile Expert Warns Of Inferior Brake Fluids

A warning against the use of inferior brake fluids was issued today by J. D. Bray, Emergency Road Service Department Manager of the Motor Club of Iowa, affiliated with the American Automobile Association.

"In using inferior fluids, the motorist may find himself without brakes when he most needs them," Mr. Bray declared. "There are some such fluids now being sold, and it would pay the motorist to consult with a reliable service station or garage before making a purchase. Inferior fluids are apt to contain fast evaporating liquids. On occasions, particularly hot days, these liquids may boil in the wheel cylinders of the braking system. When this happens, there is usually only vapor in the cylinders. As a result, pressure on the brake pedal produces little or no effect. Your car has no brake power!"

Mr. Bray suggested that motorists use heavy duty or at least moderate duty brake fluid in their cars. He said the safest way is to use only those fluids which have been approved by the Society of Automotive Engineers.

"Although somewhat higher in price, heavy duty fluid is worth the difference in added safety" the official said. "It would be wise to discuss it with your service station manager the next time you drive in for gasoline."

County Ranks Above Average For Administrative Costs

Wright county ranks sixteenth in its population group of 50 counties in the combined costs of all administrative county offices for year 1947, according to a report released by the Iowa Taxpayers association.

The per person cost increased $.33, or to $3.02 from $2.69 the year before.

The report included combined cost by counties of board of supervisors, auditor, treasurer, clerk, recorder, sheriff, superintendent, attorney, and engineer.

For purposes of comparison the counties were divided into three population groups — those over 25,000; those between 15,000 and 25,000; and those under 15,000.

The five high counties in the first group are: Kossuth with a per person cost of $2.95; Mahaska, $2.75; Webster, $2.74; Dubuque, $2.73; Marshall, $2.68. The six low are: Linn, $1.89; Black Hawk, $1.96; Woodbury, $2.17; Jasper, $2.30; Story and Johnson, $2.34.

In the second group the five high counties are: Greene, $4.16; Franklin, $3.94; Jefferson, $3.79; Clay, $3.78; Mills, $3.76. The five low are: Delaware, $2.50; Appanoose, $2.63; Clayton, $2.70; Winneshiek, $2.73; Page, $2.75.

In the third group the five high counties are: Ida: $4.82; Clarke, $4.79; Audubon, $4.70; Osceola, $4.44; Adams, $4.44. The five low are: Monroe, $2,97; Lucas, $3.24; Adair, $3.40; Winnebago, $3.45; Fremont, $3.55.

If all counties in each classification had held their expense to the average of the low counties in their division total expense of administration would have been $6,261,754 instead of $7,362,080, a saving of $1,101,054 or 14.95 percent.

Donna Dempsey Married To Howard Boller Saturday

Donna Marie Dempsey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Dempsey and Howard C. Boller, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Boller, all of Goodell, were united in marriage Saturday morning, July 2, 1949, at 9 o'clock. The wedding service took place at St. Mary's Catholic church in Goodell, with the Rev. R .A. Ormsby of Belmond officiating at the double ring ceremony. The altar of the church was very beautifully decorated with baskets of white gladioli.

Nuptial music was played by Janyce Larson of Belmond, a former classmate of the bride.

The bride who was given in marriage by her father was attired in a white street length dress, and carried a white prayer book and an arm bouquet of pink roses and white carnations. She was attended by her sister, Betty Lou Dempsey, who wore a pink dress and also carried a pink and white bouquet. The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Darwin Boller, of Goodell. The bride's mother wore a black dress and the bridegroom's mother wore a figured print silk dress.

Mr. and Mrs. Boller are graduates of the Goodell High School. Mr. Boller served with the U. S. Army overseas during World War 2, and after his discharge has been connected with his father in the long distance trucking business and highway service station.

A reception was held at the Dempsey party room, for the members of the immediate families, following the wedding service.

After a short wedding trip the couple will be at home in Goodell, where a new house is being built for them.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Graeber, and their house guests, the John Socia family, enjoyed a trip to Nashua on Monday, where they visited the Little Brown Church and called on friends. Enroute home they visited the Cortland Buchanan family at Mason City. On Tuesday the group enjoyed a trip to West Bend where they visited the Grotto.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nolte had as their house guests from Saturday until Monday, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hamlin, son Burrell, and the latter's three little sons; Mrs. Marjorie Manie and granddaughter Dianna all of Minneapolis. Mrs. Hamlin and Mrs. Manie are sisters of Mr. Nolte.

Zelda Eimbrink who is doing full time religious work at Waterloo, is making a visit in the parental Wm. Eimbrink home.

Amos Hanson motored to Rochester, Minn., Friday morning to be present when Mrs. Hanson submitted to a major operation at St. Mary's hospital that day. Olive Butts has been with Mrs. Hanson since she went to the Mayo clinic.

Loretta and Ruth Ann Fuller were overnight visitors with the Wm. Gifford family the fore part of last week. The Giffords are spending a few weeks at a cottage on the south shore of Clear Lake. They recently returned from a trip which took them into northern Minnesota, and into several of the western states.

Specialist Lists Short Cuts In Preparing Meals

Jewel Graham, nutrition specialist at Iowa State College, has listed some short cuts to help homemakers prepare meals in record time during hot, sticky weather.

Clean vegetables over a newspaper, she suggests. Then the refuse is easily bundled up and put in the garbage.

Vegetable brushes save time in removing silks from corn; chore boys help on the potato scrubbing tasks. Cooking the potatoes with their jackets on saves both time and nutrients, she points out.

Use warm water to wash spinach and other greens, she advises. It removes the grit and sand faster. It's also a good idea to lift food out of the water when washing rather than draining off the water.

Lima beans pop right out of the shell if a thin strip is cut along the inner edge of the pod to which the beans are attached Use a sharp knife or potato peeler.

To remove skins on tomatoes and peaches. Miss Graham recommends scalding. When only a few tomatoes are needed for a meal, stick the tomato on a fork and hold it over a gas flame for a minute. It will peel easily.

Oranges and lemons are juiced in half the time if instead of squeezing each half separately, you slice a thin slice off the stem end and squeeze the orange or lemon all at once.

1948 Auto Death Rate Is Lowest On Record

The 1948 automobile death rate per one hundred million mile, was the lowest on record, 8.1 percent, according to Floyd L. Link, Safety Director of the Motor Club of Iowa, an affiliate of the American Automobile Association.

In crediting safety activities with the improvement, Mr. Link pointed out that despite an increase in miles traveled in 1948, motor car accidents dropped two percent throughout the nation. He believes this improvement is excellent testimony for the effectiveness of current campaigns aimed at pedestrian and motoring safety.

In citing reasons for this improvement, the Motor Club safety director pointed out as particularly effective the increasing emphasis on safety education in the elementary and high school; the work of the school safety patrols; the growing awareness that driver education and training for young people is one of the answers to the traffic problem; and the importance being placed in cities and towns all over the country in new and improved methods of protecting the man afoot.

Last Thursday evening Wesley D. Pals had left his bay mare and single buggy hitched to the rack along the west side of Jacobson's store, and when at an hour later in the evening he went to go home his horse and rig were missing. Search and inquiry uncovered evidence that it was the work of some bold thief who had politely gotten in and driven away. Besides the loss of the mare and buggy Mr. Pals also lost a suit case containing a new suit of clothes.

A popular Belmond younge couple were married at the Congregational parsonage last Wednesday noon, Mr. Ray T. Brewer and Miss Emma L. Gealow.

A large proportion of Belmond's citizens following the rain last Thursday evening were well contented to spend the glorious Fourth of July at home. Numbers of others, however, made trips to surrounding towns which were making the eagle scream.

The "auto loafer" will also have to sit up and take notice, as he will be required to keep up a fifteen mile an hour gait in order not to blockade the traffic. The traffic is so heavy between the two towns that some speed ruling had to be made.

FORTY YEARS AGO—

Anyone who saw the ball game at Garner Tuesday between Belmond and Humboldt will know positively that Belmond has a good ball team and a good pitcher. They played a fine game; such a game as 19 times in 20 would be unbeatable. One thing is certain, any team that can beat the Belmond team when they are playing their best and in luck, is too good a team to be found in this neck of the woods.

—1909—

Some 50 or 60 people went to Garner Tuesday to attend the baseball tournament.

—1899—

F. O. Fitts is the champion chicken raiser of our town. With only a few hens to start with, he has at present 180 healthy chickens and has only lost one chick up to date and still has several hens setting.

—1899—

The ball game between Garner and Belmond last Thursday was very exciting. Both clubs put up very poor ball and it reminded the spectators of the time they used to play "town ball" when the score stood 60 to 80. Garner's umpire was rattled and gave a few rank decisions in favor of his team and at the close of the game was nearly mobbed by the small boys. The score stood 12 to 14 in favor of Garner.

OBITUARY

JOHN G. FREERKSEN

John G. Freerksen was born to George F. and Teetje Freerksen on a farm near Ackley, Iowa, in Hardin County on February 16, 1885.

In 1887 the family moved to Franklin County and five years later to Hancock County where the deceased spent the remainder of his life.

He was baptized at the Christian Reformed church at Kanawha, Iowa, on March 17, 1901, to which he remained faithful until the time of his passing.

On December 20, 1911, he was united in marriage to Miss Maude Ver Brugge of Renwick, Iowa. To this union was born one daughter, Adrianna Marie.

Mr. Freerksen was engaged in farming for many years until November of 1945, when he moved to Kanawha where he was employed at the Farmers Produce.

On February 16, 1949, Mr. Freerksen suffered a heart attack. Rest and medical care seemed to improve his condition for a time but early in the morning of June 20, 1949, he suffered another attack which proved fatal. He died at the age of 64 years, 4 months and 4 days.

He was preceded in death by one grandson, Dennis Eugene Nissen, his parents, one brother, Fred, and one sister, Mrs. George Abbas.

He leaves to mourn his passing his wife, his daughter, Mrs. Maurice Nissen of Corwith, Iowa, two granddaughters, Maurine and Marilyn; two brothers, Frank Freerksen of Britt and Theodore Freerksen of Kanawha, and a host of relatives and friends.

Funeral services were held at the Christian Reformed church at Kanawha Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, with Rev. Bert Vanden Brink officiating. Interment was made at Kanawha cemetery.

MRS. GEORGE ABBAS

Elizabeth Freerksen was born in Germany on April 23, 1876 to George and Teetje Freerksen. She was baptized in infancy. When a small child of three she came to America with her parents. They first settled at Iowa Falls, later moving to the Kanawha territory.

In March 1900 she was one of the small group who organized the Christian Reformed Church of Kanawha.

She was united in marriage with George Abbas on February 26, 1901. They moved to a farm northwest of Kanawha, later moving southwest of Kanawha, and then to their present home in Kanawha in 1930.

To this union were born seven children.

Mrs. Abbas had been in failing health for the past four years, suffering from a heart ailment. On May 14, 1949, she entered the Mercy hospital at Mason City Iowa, suffering with double pneumonia. Hopes were held for a time for her recovery but on June 16 her condition became serious and death came late June 19. She was a patient sufferer at all times.

She was preceded in death by one daughter, Fannie and one brother, Fred. Her brother, John passed away a few hours after her death. Two grand children also preceded her in death.

She leaves to mourn her passing her husband, six children: Tillie (Mrs. John Smidt of Blooming Prairie, Minn.; Mrs. Cora Smidt of Britt; Bernard of Kanawha; George of Goldfield; Florence (Mrs. Ben Ruiter) of Kanawha; also two brothers, Freerk Freerksen of Britt and Theodore Freerksen of Kanawha; and 17 children and two great grandchildren.

Funeral services were held on Tuesday afternoon, June 21, at the local Christian Reformed Church with Rev. B. Vanden Brink officiating. Burial was made in the Kanawha cemetery.

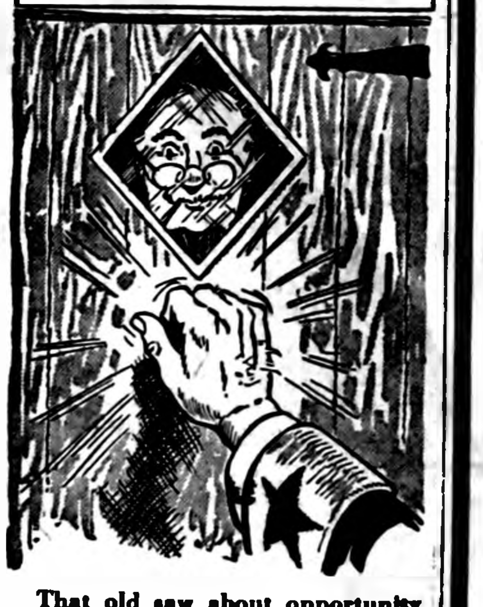
Uncle Sam Says



That old saw about opportunity must be revised. The new version is—Opportunity Knocks but Once—a Week. Every payday you have the opportunity to do something about those things you want in the future. All it takes is a little slice of that paycheck invested regularly in U. S. Savings Bonds. There are two ways to make that future secure—the Payroll Savings Plan where you work or, if self-employed, the Bond-a-Month Plan where you bank. In ten years, every $3 invested brings back $4.

MAIN STREET

By George C. Hansen

Your truly is taking his first tended vacation since the war; therefore, Main Street will be eliminated next week.

It occurred to me that it might be interesting to find out what some of the various businessmen and women on Main Street have done or are planning to do for their vacations.

The first person we contacted, although he's not strictly Main Street, was Don Faris. Said the superintendent, "I'll be lucky if I get out of town."

It was almost noon and only Fred Dahm and Gladys Christians were at Woodward's when we arrived. Fred said, "Mrs. Dahm is taking my vacation at Rochester. I can't go; I have no one to take over." Gladys, who teaches at [illegible]nt Township No. 8 during the school year, said she'd had no vacation but planned to go to Cedar Falls for a week-end.

We found Ed Spurling talking to some friends in the cafe. "Vacation!" he exclaimed. "I can't afford one! Why, I can't even afford to walk down to the river with a 10-cent fish-line!"

We crossed over to the Candy [illegible] and were talking to Pete [illegible] when the lights in his back room went out. (From what we hear a power line was being repaired.) Pete's vacation is a little uncertain; he's planning one but doesn't know just when he'll take off.

Herman Schultz smiled as he explained that he's been on a "half-vacation" for the last couple of weeks at the Outing Club in Clear Lake and was planning to leave again soon to spend the rest of this week.

George Heginger and Louis Tekman of the Belmond Auto Company really decided to take off and see the country this year. Louis is leaving tomorrow with his son Leon for a two-weeks trip to California.

George, who recently came back from a month's trip, says, "I started out for Hot Springs, Arkansas, and ended up in Miami." He went through Arkansas and Georgia, then down to the Florida Everglades, and on to Cuba by plane.

The Waddingtons are scheduled to go north later in the summer. They had to cancel the fishing trip they planned for June.

Ted Behrends, Ted's Shoe Shop, plan to leave this week on a fishing and visiting trip. The missus will accompany Ted. He told us that he heard that man and wife alone on a trip can really have fun together—way up north—so it's 'Canada-way' they are head-

Dutch Thompsen greeted us with, "Why, did you want to go along?" when we interrupted his conversation with a salesman. The Thompsens plan a vacation about the last week of July.

New Methodist Minister Preaches First Sermons

The Rev. J. Heber Miller, who came to Belmond a week ago as new pastor of the Methodist church, preached his second sermon here Sunday.

He succeeds the Rev. W. H. [illegible], who was transferred to Brandon.

Mr. Miller, a native of Beaver, [illegible], attended high school there. He graduated from Southwestern College at Winfield, Kansas, and received his seminary training at Garrett Biblical Institute, Evanston, Ill.

The Millers came from Graettinger, his first charge. They have two daughters, Judy, five years of age, and Linda, fifteen months.

HOSPITAL NOTES

Mrs. Harriett Keith of Rowan entered July 7 for surgery.

Mrs. Robert Dempsey entered July 9 for surgery.

Mrs. Carl Handt entered July [illegible] for surgery.

Baby Jimmy Davids of Kanawha entered July 12 for surgery.

County Completes 125.86 % Quota In Opportunity Drive

State Tops Bond Quota

By Almost $800,000

Wright county has risen to thirteenth place among Iowa counties in completing and topping its quota for the Opportunity Drive, according to Clark H McNeal of Belmond, county committee chairman. The county's sales now stand at $592,434, 125.86 percent of its quota.

Iowa topped its $50-million Opportunity drive quota last week by almost $800,000 to reach 101.59 percent of the campaign goal, with two week's sales still to be reported, Roger F. Warin, state director of the savings bonds division, advised the Wright county committee.

For the second time since the Opportunity drive opened May 16, Story and Taylor counties stepped ahead of Sioux county, which was the first in the state to attain its drive quota.

Warin told the committee that 48 counties now have exceeded their drive quotas, and predicted most of the others would reach the 100 percent mark if all sales are reported by the end of the official accounting period. He urged all issuing agents to send transmittal letters, with stubs, or orders to the Federal Reserve Bank at the close of the business day Saturday, July 16.

In a last-minute plea to prospective investors, he asked them to buy extra bonds before the deadline so that their purchases can be credited toward county and state quotas.

Services Held for Mrs. Dave Finn Saturday, July 9

Funral services for Mrs. Dave Finn, 86, who died July 7 at her home in Belmond were held at 9:00 a. m. Saturday from St. Francis church. Rev. R. A. Ormsby sang the requiem high mass, with Father Nicholas Steffen of Ames in the sanctuary.

Mrs. Finn's grandson, Donald Dominy of Estherville, sang the "Ave Maris Stella" at the offertory. Burial was in St. Francis cemetery, Belmond. The Fulton Funeral home was in charge of arrangements.

Catharine O'Shea Sullivan was born on June 10, 1863, in County Cork, Ireland. At an early age she came to American to make her home with a sister in Bridgeport, Connecticut. Later she made her home in Nebraska and Iowa City, Iowa, coming to Belmond in 1888 to live with another sister, the late Mrs. Pat Sullivan.

On April 29, 1890, she was married to Dave T. Finn in St. Francis Church by Father John Eagen. They made their home on a farm three miles east of Belmond for nine years. From there they moved to Goodell, Iowa, where they lived until the fall of 1933 when they moved to their present home in Belmond.

Mrs. Finn leaves her husband and eight children: Julia, Mrs. H. L. Dominy, Estherville; Joseph V. of Okaloosa; Marie, Mrs. A. T. Donohue, Milwaukee; Leo R. of Clarion; Lillian, Mrs. M. E. Casey of Davenport; Ray of Harlan; Veronica, Mrs. James Barry of Belmond; Viola, Mrs. Henry Kepper, Renwick; thirteen grandchildren, three great grandchildren, and several nieces and nephews.

She was preceded in death by Mary Margaret Donohue, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. T. Donohue.

Out-of-town relatives attending the funeral were: Rev. Nicholas Steffen, Ames; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Dominy, Cedar Falls; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Steiner and Mr.

CORRECTION

It was erroneously stated last week that Rowat and Murray, local engineers, were low bidders on the Jenison Drainage Ditch. They were appointed by the Board of Supervisors to supervise construction.

IS THIS A RECORD?

Mr. and Mrs. Hilko Pals, farmers living north of Alexander, wonder if they have established some sort of record. They have raised a flock of New Hampshire pullets that are in production at five months. One of these pullets laid an egg about the size of an average duck egg. Upon opening it, Mr. and Mrs. Pals found that it contained four fully developed yolks.

Salvation Army Warns Against Contributions To Local Solicitation

The chairman of the Salvation Army Rural Service Unit Committee at Belmond asks all local citizens to refrain from contributing to uniformed Salvationists conducting tambourine or envelope collections in this community. Both these practices are prohibited in Iowa and officials of The Salvation Army request all local friends to make their contribution through the local committee, at the time of the annual Service Unit Campaign.

The Service Unit committee and Salvation Army officials also request the cooperation of the local police in questioning all Salvationists soliciting and reporting any person or persons collecting with tambourines, envelopes, or any other device to secure local funds and report such cases to the Salvation Army, State Headquarters, Des Moines, Iowa.

Right of Way Given To Coming Vehicles

An amended Iowa traffic law now requires that a driver bring his vehicle to a complete stop before entering or crossing any public highway from a private road or drive the state safety department reminded today.

The amendment passed by the last general assembly became law early this month. In effect, it places a "stop sign" at the end of every farm lane and private drive way which opens upon a public road.

The law further requires that the driver entering the highway remain stopped long enough to yield the right of way to any approaching vehicle.

According to state safety commissioner Alfred Kahl, enforcement of the new law will be the same as that which now applies to actual stop sign violators. All vehicles, including tractors, horse drawn vehicles and farm machinery as well as motor vehicles come under the new "stop" restriction.

The law is apparently designed to reduce accidents often caused when drivers move directly into traveled highways from lanes and roads concealed by heavy summer foliage.

Also effective this month are changes made by the assembly in the traffic laws governing:

1. Maximum length. It is now against the law to drive on the highways any combination of coupled vehicles which exceeds 45 feet in length from front to rear.

2. And control of vehicle. All drivers are now required to reduce speed "to a reasonable and proper rate" when approaching a fusee, flare, reflector or any warning device displayed on the highway.

Detasseling Is Under Way in Thompson's Seed Corn Fields

SPECIAL RATE STANDS UNTIL AUGUST FIRST

Independent subscribers can save two dollars up until August first by buying Wright county plat books with new and renewal two-year subscriptions to the Independent.

The highly-accurate plat books may be purchased alone for three dollars. However, with two-year subscriptions, the cost is reduced to one dollar.

The book has been drawn by engineers from aerial photographs and is being offered exclusively in this area and for the first time in Wright county by any newspaper by the Belmond Independent.

The book is a convenient road map of the county and provides a complete mailing list by section, township or county. It shows the location of the farm, the owner, the number of acres, the postal address, the shortest route to the farm buildings, and other valuable information.

Check Fields for Grasshoppers Now

Farmers wishing to keep grasshoppers from damaging clover, alfalfa, and corn fields should check infestation on their farms now, treating if necessary, according to H. M. Harris, head of the Zoology and Entomology Department at Iowa State college.

Farmers should inspect roadsides and field margins before cutting oats. Areas having unusually large numbers of grasshoppers can be spot-treated with good results. It is not always necessary to treat entire fields.

It is best not to treat legumes in blossom. However, if essential, application should be made late in the day when bees and other pollinating insects are inactive. The crop should be cut except for strips to serve as traps in cases of heavy general infestation in legumes. Insecticide is to be applied when grasshoppers have moved into these strips.

Two chemicals, chlordane and toxaphene, are recommended for grasshopper control. These insecticides may be used as spray or dust, and either method will give quick, effective results.

One pound of actual chlrodane per acre should be applied when using it as a spray put it on at a rate of one and one-half pounds of the actual chemical per acre, and if it is applied as dust the rate is two pounds per acre. When preparing either chemical as spray, use the wettable powder or the emulsion concentrate.

Harris cautioned against careless handling of these insecticides because they are poison. He also warned against feeding treated foliage to dairy cattle.

Clarion Farm Loan Corp. Pays 5 Percent Dividend

Payment of a 5 percent regular dividend by the Cornbelt National Farm Loan Association of Clarion, Iowa, was announced this week by Jay Vendelboe, Secretary-Treasurer .

Checks totaling $6482.00 were mailed to 300 Wright and Hancock County farmers, the association's stockholders.

All farmers who obtain Federal Land Bank loans through the cooperative association become members and owners of the association by purchasing capital stock.

The dividend was made possible by payment of a dividend to the association by the Federal Land Bank of Omaha, which is owned entirely by the National Farm Loan Association in a four-state area.

Only a few spotted locations near groves were worked the first of the week, and large crews will not be called out for two or three days. First fields to be detasseled locally were on the Dick Kalkwarf, John Suntken, Gene Wilmarth, Ira J. Studebaker, and Archie Stockseth farms.

About 700 detasselers will be used in local fields in the next two or three weeks. Help is obtained from Belmond, Good , Klemme, Garner, Forest Ci , Clear Lake, Mason City, Thornton, Meservey, Rowan, and Do

Ten school buses from Hamp and Colesburg are being used addition to a number of tru and pickups to haul the work to and from the fields. Twe detasseling machines are us During the peak of the seas two shifts of workers will used on the machines in order keep them going from dayli t to dark.

In 1948, Thompson detasselers earned over $50,000.00, or an average of approximately $70.00 each. In doing so, they helped produce seed enough (with yields as estimated by the USDA) to produce over thirty million bushels of this year's corn crop.

Safety Goal Fulfillment Depends on Our Nation's Highway Modernizatian

ainment of the goal of only auto fatalities per 100 million of travel, set at the recent ident's Highway Safety Con- in the face of the 1948 ord of 8.1 deaths "depends tly on the desire of the pub- to bring the nation's war-de- riorated highways up to date."

This statement was made here today by Charles M. Upham, engineer-director of the American Road Builders' Association, in an analysis of safety data which, he said, indicated highway fatalities are decreasing in proportion to the degree in which recommendations of the Conference have been applied in various states.

"This has been due to the remarkable work of the Action Program of the Conference, in which it was shown that had there been no such concerted effort, the highway death rate of the nation last year would have been 48,000 instead of 32,000,' Mr. Upham said. "As General Philip B. Fleming, general chairman of the Conference pointed out, 'partial failures really reflect a failure to apply the Action Program and the program has not spread far enough into the grass roots.' "

Citing records of the Automotive Safety Foundation, Mr. Upham pointed out that six states which diligently have followed the program lead in the decrease of traffic deaths in 1948. Rhode Island, he said, heads the list by a wide margin, with an exceptional record of 2.7 auto deaths per 100 million miles of travel, nearly one-third less than the goal of 6 sets in 1946.

The other five states are Massachusetts, 3.8; North Dakota, 4; New Jersey, 4.2; Connecticut, 4.3; and New Hampshire, 5.

"On the other hand," Mr. Upham said, "New Mexico has a death rate of 12.1, approximately six times that of Rhode Island, or twice the amount of the set goal."

"The goal of 6 set by the Highway Safety Conference in 1946 has not been met, the average being 8.1.

Again referring to the 32,000 deaths in 1948 in comparison with the possible 48,00 except for the efforts of the Action Program, Mr. Upham said:

"This record is even more remarkable than the figures indicate in the face of the deplorable condition of our highways. First the depression and then the war deterred the states in their subdivisions in their efforts to keep our highways abreast of the times. Inadequate funds, resulting in large measure from the postwar inflation, have compelled us to resort to makeshift and piecemeal procedures and are preventing us from executing the well-planned highway program we so obviously need."

Cedar River Fishways Installation Finished

Installation of new fishways has been completed in dams on the Cedar River at Charles City, Waverly, Cedar Rapids and Waterloo by Conservation Commission fisheries crews. The new installations will not only make it possible for game fish to negotiate the dam, but will enable fisheries employees to remove large numbers of rough fish and study migratory habits of game fish in the Cedar.

Each of the new fishways is fitted with large live traps at the upper end and all fish using the fishways will be trapped at the completion of their upstream journey. Rough fish will be removed from the traps and sold or destroyed. The game fish will be weighed, measured, finclipped for later identification, and released above the dam.

The Truth About Electric Appliance Prices

Are Prices Too High? Are You Getting the New Features and Quality You Expected in Post-war Appliances?

If your family has been thinking of buying a new appliance, you may be confused by conflicting stories about today's prices and values.

The fact is, there is no purchase you can make at this time that brings you more real value for your money than a good electric appliance. While the cost of living is up 70 percent over 1939, according to government statistics, the average price increase of ranges, refrigerators, washing machines ,water heaters and dishwashers is only a little more than HALF that!

For example, today you can buy a brand new 1949 Hotpoint Refrigerator for $189.75—only $10 more than the same kind and size cost in 1939—and this is a lot better refrigerator and has many improved features. When you consider that the dollar today is worth just 60 percent of its 1939 value, you must agree that this new, vastly-improved Hotpoint post-war refrigerator actually costs a lot less.

Compare this with the price increase in automobiles, houses or almost anything you buy—up from 50 to more than 100 percent.

We see no reason for you to wait to buy a new appliance. At today's new low appliance prices you get the greatest dollar-for-dollar values we have ever been able to offer. We say this knowing full well that our future depends on satisfying you. We sell a lot of things — everything for the complete electric kitchen and home laundry—so we can't afford to lose you as a future customer when you buy any one of our appliances.

"You can Look to Hotpoint for the Finest—FIRST" is no idle statement. We mean it. So, we back it up with the greatest dollar-for-dollar value in quality appliances ever offered—RIGHT NOW!

Health Insurance Plan

President Truman's proposed health insurance plan has been the subject of much comment and discussion. Attackers of the plan are vigorous in their efforts, while its proponents support it just as violently.

The plan proposed for this country seems to occupy middle ground between "socialized" medicine or dentistry and "state" medicine or dentistry as practiced in Russia.

Socialized medicine and dentistry have long been practiced in some form in this country. An example of it is a school dental program sponsored by the PTA and managed by the community's dentists. The Russian plan goes to the other extreme; the government has absolute control over the doctor or dentist and the patient.

Those in favor of the plan entitle it "prepaid personal health insurance benefits" or "free medicine" and "free dentistry." They maintain that it will raise the standards of the nation's health, that medical and dental costs per person will be lowered, and that the population group which has been able to pay so little of their own medical expenses willl be benefited and cared for through payroll deduction taxes.

They also state that patients will not be subjected to such outrageously high charges as many of them are today; and, of course, that the plan is comparatively "free", since it has been prepaid.

Opponents of the plan label it "federal compulsory health insurance." Many Americans don't like the term "compulsory," and that helps immediately in their condemnation of it. Americans dislike being compelled to do anything, and they have no desire to be COMPELLED to submit to a monthly deduction from their paycheck by the federal government.

Those oposing the plan also say that the payroll tax will deduct $144 from the first $4,800 earned each year, and that this rate has every chance of going higher. They say that the personal relation between doctor and patient, which means so much, will be completely destroyed, for a doctor who agrees to work under the government scheme must be chosen —not one who has a personal interest in the patient.

They believe that treatment is emphasized under compulsory health insurance, not the prevention and control of disease which are the chief targets of any health profession; then they maintain this treatment system is not good, for it's based on the false assumption that health will never be any better than it is today.

Before anyone makes up his mind definitely about such a plan of health insurance, every available source of information should be investigated. Check with your doctor and dentist on the program; talk to other people; keep informed through newspapers and magazines; read about the British plan; check into impartial studies of the problem. Study the voluntary prepaid hospital and medical care plans in which over 50,000,000 Americans are now enrolled, deciding whether you prefer them to a Federal plan.

Then, when you've fully made up your mind as to the desirability or nondesirability of the plan, write to your Congressman and let him know your attitude!

THREE-MEMBER BOARD OF SUPERVISORS

Currently there is considerable agitation over Wright county for an action that would seem quite worth while. It is suggested that a change be made so that in the future Wright county should operate with a three-member board mond, Clarion and other communities of the

Over the past several weeks persons in Belmond, Clarion and other communitie of the county have been discussing such action, and pointing out that many Iowa counties, including a large number far more largely-populated than Wright, operate with a three-man board. And most efficiently, too. It would create a considerable saving in the expenditure of tax money.

Within the state, more than half the counties operate under the three-man board system, while in 1948 there were but 23 five-member boards. The law provides for "three or more."

Just how and when the five-member board in Wright county came about seems to be beyond the memory of most local citizens, and is unimportant anyway. It is logical to assume that the suggested smaller number could serve just as efficiently, perhaps more so. Certainly it would be less expensive to the taxpayers in the reduced form, elminating considerable needless cost of county government.

An examination of the code discloses that any movement looking toward establishing the supervisor board in the three-member bracket necessitates a petition asking such action. The petition to be presented to the board would require the signature of 10 percent of the qualified voters of the county. Upon presentation, the board would find it mandatory to present the question to the voters at the next following general election.

In the light of recent disclosures about the cost of operation under the five-man board system in Wright county, in which it was shown graphically that with our small population the five-man board is an expensive luxury, the petition seems in order.—The Wright County Monitor.

SWITZER CAN'T WIN

This appointment of Carroll Switzer as a Federal District judge has been kicked around now until he can't win even if he gets the appointment over Gillette's objections.

The prestige of our courts is one thing that needs to be carefully maintained and Switzer could never command the respect which that office demands. It is going to be a bitter pill to swallow for the administration forces but they better take it and pretend to like it. — Eagle Grove Eagle.

Testing the D. H. I. A. Way

Nearly fifty years ago in this great land of ours,
Some farmers joined together so they could test their cows.
They wanted to improve their herds, every cow to pay her way,
And out of this was bred and born our first D. H. I. A.

In the early years of effort profits jumped by leaps and bounds
As the tester did his duty and made his scheduled rounds.
From the year of 1905 until our present day and age,

There's no substitute for records; for a time a guess may serve,
But for dairy herd improvement we must never toss a curve.
It takes long years of effort to breed a high-producing cow;

Much the same as keeping posted or what we call well read.
There never was a herd so good it couldn't be improved
For we often have a cow or two that ought to be removed.

There is no finer method for you to learn the score
Than to join a testing unit as others gone before.
It will furnish you with data, give you facts with which to plan,
Put more money in your pocket and more milk in every can.

If you fail to use the records you'll be missing quite a bet
For unless you face the figures smaller profits are your net.
Remember, too, that records tell a story on your sire,
And we dare not overlook this as we labor for our hire.

Throughout the years of testing many cows have taken leave,
All because they were not wanted in the herds to make believe
Consequently, on the average we have better herds today

SAFETY DIRECTOR PRAISES SCHOOL DRIVING PROGRAMS

This year's crop of high school graduates throughout the nation will include approximately 300,-car without stripping the gears car withou tstripping the gears and stop it without stripping the tires, according to Floyd L. Link, Safety Dirtctor of the Motor Club of Iowa, affiliated with the American Automobile Association.

"Some three thousand schools throughout the United States," he said, "have been taught behind-the-wheel operation of a car and the rudiments of safe and economical driving the two semesters ending this past February and this June. They have not only learned how to tell the differential from the transmission, and mastered the difficult art of parking a car without denting bumpers, but they have been taught sportsmanlike driving.

"It will not be many years," Mr. Link continued, "before the effect of this improvement and reliability on the part of young men and women who have been trained competently will be felt on the accident statistics and charts."

The Motor Club Safety Director said that the greater contribution "these young people will make to our street and highway effort will be the proof—in a short space of time — that this type of practical instruction, in the high schools, as part of the educational curriculum, will pay astoundingly large dividends. Our rising problem has been with the youth of the nation, for they have in the past been the ones whose per mile records exhibited the worst traits of reckleckness, overspeding and selfish carelessness in driving habits of any age surveyed."

27,000 Pheasants and Quail To Be Stocked . . .

Fifty-three sportsmen's groups cooperating with the State Conservation Commission have received 18,000 two-week-old pheasant chicks and 9,000 two-week-old quail chicks for stocking in 40 counties. Pheasants will be released in the pheasant territory, quail in the southern counties.

The birds were hatched at the State Game Farm near Boone and were distributed at two weeks of age to cooperating sportsmen's groups. Young birds are to be held by the groups until they are eight weeks of age. They will then be released on farms in the vicinity. Particular attention is being given to food and cover conditions on the farms where the birds are to be released, and no birds are released except in areas where seedstocks are low.

All birds will be banded, and anyone finding banded birds is requested to send the band number to the State Conservation Commission.

Iowa Leads Kentucky In Blue Grass Seeds

Kentucky may have more mint juleps, but Iowa has more blue grass and produces more blue grass seed than does the so-called "Blue Grass State", reports Wallaces' Farmer and Iowa Homestead.

Blue grass has replaced native prairie grasses as Iowa's chief pasture crop. And the Hawkeye State often leads the nation in blue grass production—in 1947, the state harvested more than 12 million pounds of cured seed.

Iowa's 1949 blue grass seed harvest, centering in the south-central part of the state, now is getting under way.

State Operation Stressed In Motor Truck Industry

America's 7,000,000 motor trucks of all types and sizes are now performing nearly 80,000,000,000 ton-miles of service annually and carrying about 60 per cent of the total tonnage moved in the nation's commerce, according to a recent New York Times editorial.

Safe operation is constantly emphasized in the trucking industry. The American Trucking Associations carry on an intensive campaign to educate owners and drivers in their responsibilities on the road. The courteous and sportsmanlike attitude is encouraged by a broad system of awards for safe operation and by emphasis on the importance of good preventive maintenance to assure safe mechanical conditions.

IOWA FAIR TO HAVE LONGEST AUTO RACE IN ITS HISTORY

The longest auto race in the history of the Iowa State Fair was announced here today as a new, super-thrill event which will headline the inauguration of a new type of "stock" passenger car racing at this year's Iowa exposition in August.

The event will mark the first stock car races ever held at the State Fair, which will feature the program Thursday afternoon, September 1, Secretary L. B. Cunningham announced.

The big race will be for 100 miles, 200 laps around the fair's half-mile dirt track.

"This will be one of the longest dirt track automobile races in the United States this year, and and by far the longest ever held at the Fair,' Secretary Cunningham said today.

The stock car races at the state fair will be open to all standard American passenger cars from 1939 through 1949, with experienced drivers at the wheel. Drivers who have had previous experience in hot rod, stock, midget, or big car racing will be eligible to enter.

Entry blanks for the event and prize lists may be had by writing the fair board in Des Moines.

Survey Shows Average SUI Coed Walks About 4 Miles A Day For Classes

The average woman student attending the State University of Iowa walks three and eight-tenths miles per day between classes.

And Junior and senior women do more necessary walking than sophomores and freshmen, a study made by Dorothy Copony for her master thesis at the university reveals. Dr. Roland Rooks, associate professor of hygiene and preventive medicine, assisted with the study.

By means of a pedometer the basic walking load of university women as they attended classes was measured. An attempt was made to exclude measurement of walking during leisure-time activity.

The average walking load was determined on one hundred subjects. Each woman wore the pedometer for one week. Eighty-three percent of the women in the study were housed in the same dormitory. The subjects represented a wide variety of fields of study.

The necessary walking for class attendance took these students to all parts of the campus. One ambitious girl followed a study schedule which required her to walk eight and four-tenths miles per day.

It was found that juniors and seniors exceed four miles per day of necessary walking. There was a marked difference, however, in the individual necessary walking loads due to differences in class schedules.

Visiting around Iowa

by Joe Marsh

Summer in Iowa

Drive through the country these July days. What a sight . . those miles of rich, green corn fields.

Ed made an interesting point as we were driving along the other day.

"Next year, lots of that corn will be helping feed starving people all over the world", Ed said. "Folks of different creeds and colors, different beliefs and habits. But they're our neighbors, and we're going to help them."

That's a wonderful thing about America. Our neighborliness. Respect for the dignity of the individual . . no matter whether he happens to think or act just the way we do.

It applies here in our own communities, too. One man may own a bicycle, another a limousine. We respect him just the same. One may prefer a moderate glass of beer or ale . . . another lemonade or ice tea. Each has his right of choice. That's the American way.

We're good neighbors to the world, and here at home, too . . and we can all be justly proud of it.

Alike—yet so different

Comparing the telephone industry with other free American industries is a lot like comparing twin brothers. They look alike on the outside, but they're oh, so different on the inside. To begin with, a telephone company's profits are strictly limited by law to a very low rate. Many other phases of telephone operation are equally strictly regulated. Then, too, a telephone company must provide efficient service 24 hours a day where practically any other business decides its own number of working hours. These are but a few of the many ways in which telephone companies differ from other forms of American free enterprise.

Gadget-Minded Farmers To Compete In Special State Fair Contest

Exposition officials announced a new contest for Iowa farmers today—covering all types of home-made gadgets thought up by farmers to ease their work, speed their work, or help do a better job on the average farm.

Farmers will be invited to send their home-made gadgets to a statewide Farm Gadget Show to be held at the Iowa State Fair here August 26-September 2. Cash prizes of $600 will be paid by the fair for the best gadgets in various categories. There will be no entry fee. Any farmer in the state will be eligible to compete for the prizes, and for the statewide "gadget championship."

The event will be under joint sponsorship of the Iowa State Fair and Radio Station WMT, which started the contests of this type in the state several years ago.

Two main classes of competition have been announced. One will be for complete machines, including heavy equipment which will be shown in an open-air tract. Another will be for smaller devices, home conveniences and attachments, which will be displayed in the state agricultural show. Additional prizes will also be offered Iowa farmers for inventions that are novel or promote farm safety.

To keep the show on a strictly amateur basis, inventions which are being sold commercially will not be allowed, but patented gadgets will be eligible. Closing date for entries will be midnight, August 8. Rules and entry blanks may be obtained from the State Fair Board, Des Moines.

Alfalfa And Red Clover For Seed This Year

Supplies of alfalfa and red clover seed this year in the United States are likely to be extremely short, and farmers are are urged to save for seed as much of these crops as their management practices will justify, I. J. Johnson, head of farm crops at Iowa State [illegible] this week.

Alfalfa seed [illegible] be most critical. [illegible] cause of the [illegible] weather conditions [illegible] western states where [illegible] of the legume seed is [illegible] duced.

For Iowa farmers wi[illegible] harvest legume seed, H. [illegible] ris, head of the Zoology and [illegible] tomology Department at the [illegible] lege, has these recom[illegible] on alfalfa. DDT is [illegible] seed production because it [illegible] control insects that reduce [illegible] vigor or destroy blossoms [illegible] they open. Spraying or [illegible] must be done before [illegible] comes into bloom to [illegible] damage to pollinating insects. [illegible] best results, two applications [illegible] needed. The first should be [illegible] plied when the second crop [illegible] alfalfa is 4 to 5 inches high, [illegible] second just before blooming. Rate of application is 1 pound of actual DDT per acre.

Experiments, cooperative between agronomists and entomologists, have shown that in [illegible] years the use of DDT (1 [illegible] actual DDT per acre) resulted in the production of 200 pounds of alfalfa seed per acre as compared with 100 pounds per acre where DDT was not used. As for red clover, using DDT is recommended for increasing [illegible] yields, Harris pointed out.

MAIN STREET

By George C. Hansen

The regular author of "Main Street" told you it would be eliminated this week. However, we decided not to leave it out, and to do the best we could with what has happened.

—M-S—

"Bathing is dangerous," says Fred Dahm of Woodward's. One of his employees, Mrs. H. E. Hemmingsen, was unable to work Monday, because of a toe broken while taking a bath. In getting out of the tub, she slipped and caught it on a bathroom fixture.

This isn't quite as bad as the thing that happened just recently to a former Belmond resident now living in Cedar Rapids. He stubbed his toe and broke it on a "Keep Off the Grass" sign while walking across the lawn on his way to a swimming pool!

—M-S—

Good News Department:

Below is printed in its entirety an item from the Des Moines Register.

"The Iowa State commerce commission Thursday ordered the Chicago Great Western railroad to provide sanitary facilities in 25 cabooses it used in Iowa traffic. The railroad is given until Nov. 1 to comply. The action came after protest by two railway operating brotherhoods."

If any more passenger trains are taken off, we may have to ride in those cabooses—and we want 'em sanitary.

—M-S—

Belmond now has two mayors, according to city council proceedings published last week. A. J. Meints was appointed mayor pro tem. He's certainly modest about it; he even voted against approving his choice for the office!

Lodges Install Officers Jointly ✓

The Odd Fellow and Rebekah Lodges had joint installation on Tuesday evening, July 12. The following officers were installed for the coming term:

Noble Grands, William Meints and Bessie Thompson; Vice Grands, Glen Thompson and Ruth Luick; Recording Secretaries, Otto Hanson and Lucille Luick; Treasurers, Floyd Doctor and Dorothy Helland; financial secretaries, Harley Thompson and Marie Thompson.

District Deputy Grand Master Friend Bras and District Deputy Grand President Cecil Coburn were installing officers. They were assisted by the Grand Marshals, Otto Hanson and Leona Bras.

Lunch was served after the ceremonies.

McBride Visits Here; Has Civil Service Job

Bill McBride, accompanied by his wife and mother, visited in Belmond for a short time Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill McBride have just returned from Los Angeles, where they have been following his graduation from the State University of Iowa. They will soon be leaving for Camp Lee, Petersburg, Virginia, where he has accepted a civil service position as information specialist. The job consists of editing and publishing army journals and books for extension courses.

Belmond Girls Win Scout Camp Awards

Barbara Mariga, Pat Tracy, [illegible] Halfpap and Margo Gowdy returned Saturday from the Girl Scout Island Camp at Clear Lake where they had spent a week. Each of the four girls was awarded an Island Honor which she earned by five hours camp service, learning the names of all the girls at the camp and obeying the camp rules.

HAROLD JENSEN FINED

A case involving Melvin McManus and Harold Jensen was heard in mayor's court on Monday, July 11. The defendant, Jensen, was fined $5.00 and costs of $3.85 on a charge of disturbing the peace.

County Fills 129.29 Percent of Opportunity Drive Quota

Wright county filled 129.29 percent of its quota in the Opportunity Drive, according to the tenth report released from the office of the state director.

Credit for Iowa's outstanding record in the drive was given to newspapers, broadcasting stations, and other advertising media, as well as to issuing agents and other volunteers, by Roger Warin, state director of the savings bonds division.

INTERVIEWS

This week's question:

If you had your choice of going anywhere in the world for a vacation and had no need to worry about the expense, where would you go and what would you do?

Arthur Van Gerpen, high school sophomore—To Germany and look at all the different buildings.

Mrs. J. E. Wallace, librarian—See the United States first and then go to England. I've always wished very much to go there.

Owen Sullivan, retired—To the richest country in the world, Ireland, because its capital is Dublin (doublin').

Duane Cunning, band director—Directly from here to the Riviera in southern France and from there to the Alpine Ski Lodge at Badtoltz, Germany.

Charles Studebaker, junior clerk at the post office — See America first, and then if time permitted (seeing expenses didn't matter), I'd travel abroad. I'd like to see a lot of these things you hear our foreign news correspondents talking and writing about. Then, too, I'd take in a few major sporting events, and all during this "Dream Vacation" I'd have my eye peeled for a good place to fish.

Mrs. Vern Trees, housewife—To some place where it isn't so warm and where there is food comparable to that in Iowa—both quality and quantity. I think I'd like to go to a mountain camp; you could do your own cooking and fishing and enjoy yourself without getting too warm.

Joe Mosbrucker, real estate—To Europe, sightseeing.

Ben Blake, salesman—As long as there's no expense, I'd tour all of Europe, but I'd rather go by sea than by plane.

ALGONA LEGION POST DEVELOPS FREAK CAR

The American Legion post at Algona has developed a new and unusual "car" to take to the state American Legion convention in Des Moines in August.

They started with a Model T. First of all, separate brakes were installed for each of the rear wheels. With careful manipulation of these brakes, the car will move in circles. All the wheels were put off center by one inch. The gas tank was moved under the hood of the car. It holds only four gallons of gas, but the Legion Post has yet to find someone who can use up all four gallons in a sitting.

So far, only one man has been able to drive this freak, and it's reported he can make it do everything but roll over and bark.

Fred Gordon, Belmond, advanced to the semifinals of the Iowa Amateur Golf tournament in Fort Dodge before being defeated Friday by Don Webb of Spirit Lake, 2 and 1.

Gordon's most spectacular golf was played Thursday afternoon when he fought through six extra holes with Art Koch of Waterloo before reaching a decision. The regulation 18-hole match went to 24 holes before Gordon won, 1 up.

Iowa golf experts say that Thursday's duel, for prolonged pressure and possibly for the excellence of play, rates with the toughest matches ever played in the state tournament. It resulted in a tournament record. No other Iowa Amateur match has gone more than four extra holes.

The match went into overtime after the eighteenth hole where Koch put a long second in a trap and came out with a recovery that stopped 18 inches from the hole. Gordon came back by almost holding a chip shot from the bottom corner of the green.

On the twenty-fourth hole Koch's ball bounced into a growth of vines and fell into a lie under the vegetation. Koch took his penalty and played the second ball. It cost him the match.

Gordon was one over par for the 24 holes. He was four over for the 39 holes he played during the day, having eliminated Pat Barry of Muscatine in a morning match, 5-3.

Gordon squeezed in front of Don Webb by a 1-up margin three times in Friday morning's semi-final match. However, Webb never trailed after the tenth hole, and they were all square when resting at noon.

Webb had a 3-up lead which Gordon cut to 1 up at the twelfth hole. But the comeback stopped there. At the thirty-fourth hole Gordon was again 2 down. The match was over when they halved the thirty-fifth.

Glen Thompsons Are Spending Seventh Year on Mystery Farm

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Thompson and two of their three children are spending their seventh year on Mystery Farm 42 which appeared in the July 7 issue of the Independent.

The 160-acre farm, which Thompson owns, is located two and one-half miles southeast of Belmond.

The most recent large improvement on the farm has been a new garage, built a couple of years ago.

Mr. Thompson and his two sons are farming a total of 590 acres among them. Duane, who graduated from Belmond high school in 1947, is farming one and one-half miles south and east of the home farm. Don, 18, a 1948 graduate, helps both his father and brother. The Thompsons also have a daughter, Darlene, who will be a junior in Belmond high school this fall.

The Thompsons do general farming. They have 330 acres of corn and beans together and about 100 acres of oats. The remaining acreage is permanent pasture and hay ground.

Much of the milk from their 54 head of Holstein cattle is sold to the dairy. Duane and his dad have about 90 pigs. Mrs. Thompson cares for 400 young chickens and about 300 hens.

Mr. Thompson's hobby is fishing, and about once a year he tries to go north to Minnesota or Canada for a week or so. Mrs. Thompson usually accompanies him. When asked about his luck last year, he commented that it was "Pretty fair."

FARM SAFETY WEEK
JULY 24-30

Consider The Safety Of Your Dairy Cows

When you follow the suggestions being made during National Farm Safety Week, and start looking for hazards around your farm buildings, consider the safety of your livestock as well as yourself and family.

Broken stanchions, nails that need driving in or pulling out, and various other hazards that can be found around your dairy barn should be removed. A little time and perhaps a bit of lumber will be cheaper, as well as better, than having a valuable cow injured so her milk production is cut down.

Your dairy cows are valuable property—look after the things that will prevent accidents that might cause them injury.

Ignorance, Not Science, May Destroy Man

In recent years the world has become dangerously confused. Unknowing people have blended the fear of war, the fear of atomic bombs, and the fear of science into one.

Gerald Wendt, writing in Science Illustrated, says that certainly power may destroy civilization. So might engines and chemicals and even materialism. But none of these are science, for taken altogether they are just a little more than a good beginning of man's study of nature. If they destroy mankind, it will be only because man has not learned enough about nature. He must learn more quickly, especially about human nature, the nature that has begun to fear the works of science.

Man is in danger, not from too much knowledge, but from too little, for science is still too young. But lately, again and again, has come the accusation that science is responsible for the present state of the world.

According to Science Illustrated, Charles Lindbergh, the man who depended on science to fly him across the Atlantic, has even been finding that despair. He's afraid of more power in the future and sickened by the destruction of that power he once worshipped.

When Lindbergh says the "worship of science" brought on two world wars and will bring another he shows his ignorance. For him, too, a little science is a dangerous thing.

We in the United States lack no moral sense; we have proved that by offering to give the power of atomic knowledge freely to the world, asking only reasonable assurance that it will not be used against us.

Americans are confident the power gained through science can be used for human good. But now in Russia, as in the Germany of 10 years ago, lust for power overrules everything.

Hitler began World War II because he worshipped power, not science. He liquidated all science except military research, and certainly the Nazi racial doctrines were thoroughly anti-scientific. Now Russian science is ruled by ignorance in its regimentation of scientific research and opinion.

Today science is still an infant, for it has been delayed so many centuries. Material and mechanical products are its outstanding results up to now. Beyond these are bichemistry, physiology, and medicine, and even beyond them psychology and psychiatry. We cannot understand groups, societies, and nations until we have developed a science of human behavior.

The questions of 10 years ago: What makes Hitler that way? And how does he get away with it? are still unanswered and more urgent, for Stalin has replaced Hitler. Because science is so far behind, the use of inanimate power far exceeds the ability to understand human beings and nations.

The world needs more science and needs to speed its growth into mental, human, and social fields. There is not time to lose, for ignorance, or lack of a mature science, may destroy the race.

THE THREE MAN BOARD

There is agitation in Wright county to change from a five-man boardour Board of Supervisors to a three-man board. Lou Papes started the ball rolling in his Clarion Monitor two weeks ago. The idea has gained strength and we understand that a petition is being passed to bring the proposal to a vote.

The idea of a three man Board of Supervisors elected at large and responsible to the whole county instead of just one supervisor district has been gaining popularity all over the state. It has gained enough headway that Papes states in his column that over half of our counties now operate under that system.

The new system purportedly eliminates the log rolling that is inherent in the supervisor district system. The three supervisors are generally hired on a full time basis at a fixed salary and are responsible to the entire county at each election. Economy and efficiency of operation are the arguments most often advanced supporting this method of county government.

As we see it, however, it has some glaring weaknesses. For instance, in a county such as Wright it would be possible for the larger towns to elect each one of the supervisors, leaving the farm population out in the cold as far as representation on the board is concerned. It might even be possible for a coalition of two towns to elect all three men.

We are also constitutionally opposed to the trend toward centralization of power. The supervisors spend a lot of money and we have always felt it was wise to have a larger group rather than a smaller group in charge of spending public funds.

The move toward the three man board is definitely on in Wright County, however, and the voters will have a chance to voice an opinion on it. We are not well enough informed on the problem to take a stand on this one but will pass the information on as it is presented.—The Eagle Grove Eagle.

NOTHING IS FREE

The word "free" is being carelessly used in government circles. In many instances it is used incorrectly.

There is nothing free in government. The word has become so abused that people are paying little attention to how meaningless it is.

Stress is laid in the capital on "free" medicine "free" hospitals, "free" pensions, "free" security. There is no free anything.

It's paid for out of the individual citizen's pocketbook, in some form of taxation.

If this illusion that all these things marked "free" can be had for nothing, our existence as a free nation is in grave peril.—Bulletin-Journal, Independence, Iowa.

BRITAIN SHOWS SOCIALISM'S FAILURE

Great Britain's current financial crisis should prove to every American citizen that our private capitalistic system is the best in the world and is worth preserving.

In the years since the conclusion of World War II, a socialistic Labor party has been in control of the British government. Under this party's control one industry after another has been brought under government control—banks, coal, railroads, and other manufacturers.

Once the government has taken over, the production curve in each industry has started to sag until now the British miner produces less than one-fourth the amount produced by the average American coal miner and other industrial workers are similarly inefficient.

England depends upon the exports of manufactured goods to sustain its economy. It imports raw materials and exports finished products. With this lagging production efficiency, British industry has not been able to produce a sufficient volume of goods nor have they been able to compete on a price basis with other exporting countries.

As a result it finds itself in a near bankrupt condition—and to whom does it turn? To the United States, of course.

Iowa Farms Need Storage Structures

Series Of Illustrated Stories Will Be Run Weekly By Independent

Grain storage again this year gets high priority on Iowa farms. More than 1.8 billion bushels of corn were on hand in the United States in April. This is almost a billion bushels more than last year. In addition, storage space for the 1949 small grain harvest will further tax facilities.

To help farmers select suitable corn cribs and storage bins, the Belmond Independent will carry a series of illustrated stories on grain storage structures.

For the convenience of Wright County farmers the County Extension Office at Clarion has copies of a catalog of grain storage building plans and a complete set of the plans. Persons wishing to look these over may do so by calling at the Extension Office.

Orders for the plans may be placed through the County Extension Office or sent direct to the Agricultural Extension Service, Iowa State College, Ames. A charge of 15 cents per sheet will be made for the detailed plans of the building. Some plans consist of more than one sheet. Remittances should accompany the order.

Copies of the plan catalog may also be purchased for 25 cents a copy.

Plans are prepared by the Midwest Plan Service, an activity of 14 Land Grant colleges in the Midwest including Iowa State College, and the U. S. Department of Agriculture. It is a nonprofit activity but self-sustaining through the sale of illustrated catalogs and plans. Its principal function is to help improve farm building construction by means of plans which incorporate the results of latest research relating to building requirements and construction methods.

The Plan Service covers the full range of farm buildings and equipment. Illustrated catalogs and plans are being prepared for sections on farm houses, barns, swine and poultry structures, grain storage structures, miscellaneous buildings and miscellaneous equipment.

The section on grain storage is being made available first. At the request of the Production and Marketing Administration specialists in grain storage have selected and revised plans for 30 structures. These include cribs, granaries, combination cribs and granaries, drying buildings and also some buildings which can be used temporarily for grain storage but converted for other uses later.

Ira Studebakers Have Lived 29 years on Mystery Farm 43

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Studebaker and their daughter, Virignia live on Mystery Farm 43, which appeared in last week's issue of the Independent.

The 360-acre farm, located two miles straight east of Belmond, is owned by C. P. Luick. The Studebakers have rented it for 29 years.

They have another daughter, Marguerite, who makes her home with them. She teaches second grade at Lafayette school in Waterloo and is at present attending summer school at Creighton university and working on her master's degree.

The Studebaker's have seven children and 24 grandchildren. Their children are (Irene Mrs. Joe Reiland) Clarion; Marion (Mrs. Paul Lee) Mason City; Marguerite, Waterloo; and Ira, Jr., Charles, Josephine Mrs. Tom Quigley) and Virgina, all of Belmond.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Quigley and their family have lived in the tenant house and have assisted in operation of the farm for 10 years.

The Quigley's have eight children: Nancy, 17; Pat, 14; Jerry, 12; Eugene, 10; Tommy, 7; Theresa, 4; Rose Ellen, 2; and Frances, 2 months. Nancy will be a senior in Belmond high school, while Pat will be a freshman. The other children attend school at Pleasant No. 4.

Many improvements have been made on the farm in the past few years. Last year a new chicken house was built and all the outdoor buildings and the house were painted. A new brick foundation was put under the barn when it was improved three years ago.

General farming is emphasized. Virginia Studebaker estimated that about 250 acres are planted in corn and beans and about 40 acres in oats. Five hundred and fifty chickens are cared for on the farm. Of these 400, are baby chickens and 150 are pullets. There are 150 spring pigs.

Virginia explained that the farm's large garden might be called a hobby. Mr. Studebaker is, of course, very much interested in the farm work and crops and has devoted his hobby time to that.

Hay and Straw Removed From Irish Man's Stomach

A man in Ireland who underwent stomach surgery for the removal of a "gastric bezoar" of hay and straw that weighed nearly two pounds drew special comment from a veterinary medical journal.

"Veterinarians are never surprised to find all sorts of indigestible material rolled up in the digestive reservoirs of farm animals. But in a human being, such an occurrence is definitely news," the Journal of the American Veterinary Medical Association remarked.

NUTRITIONIST URGES FREEZING OR CANNING OF GARDEN GREENS

Can or freeze some of your garden greens—kale, spinach, mustard or turnip greens and chard—as a store of vitamins and minerals for family meals next winter.

It's important to put them up properly, says Margaret Kagarice, Iowa State College nutritionist. For example, when you freeze greens, one of the "musts" to preserve the most vitamin value is to freeze them at zero degrees or lower and then hold them there.

Whether you can or freeze, harvest the greens while they're still tender and before seed stalks appear. It's all right to harvest the entire spinach plant, but just use the tender center leaves from mustard plants or kale.

Warm water is good for washing the leaves. It gets rid of the grit and sand easier than cold water.

Trim leaves off the center stalk, trim off the large midribs on leaf stems. Discard the insect-eaten or injured leaves. Scald the greens for two minutes in boiling water, stirring them once while they're scalding to keep them from matting together. Pack them firmly into containers, and be sure to get rid of all the air. There's no brine to bother about, Miss Kagarice says.

To can greens, first wilt them by steaming or heating in a covered kettle in just enough water to prevent burning. Pack them hot and not too solidly into the jars, cut them through with a sharp knife to take out the air and cover with boiling water. Process pints for 45 minutes and quarts for 70 minutes.

CROWN RUST INFESTS CLINTON OATS FIELDS

Most farmers in this area are finding Clinton oats fields heavily infested with a crown rust this year, according to Duane Sandage, local vocational agriculture instructor.

Although Clinton oats is resistant to 82 of the 87 races of crown rust, it is susceptible to race 45. This rust winters in Florida, according to Dr. Murray of Iowa State College who talked at a field demonstration at the Kanawha Experimental Farm last week.

Sandage says that the last winter presented ideal climatic conditions for the rust. If these conditions prevail during the coming winter it might be wise for farmers to turn to varieties that are not susceptible to this race of crown rust, even though these varieties may not be as good in yield under normal conditions.

Some of these varieties are Marion, which is later than Clinton, Cherokee, somewhat earlier than Clinton, and Colo, which is resistant to this rust but has a weak straw.

A new oat, Shelby, will be released this year for the first time. This oat has proved to out-yield Clinton on three experimental farms over a three-year average. It is resistant to race 45 crown rust, is a little later than Clinton , and has a weaker straw.

Sandage reports that about 98 percent of the total oat acreage in Iowa this year is Clinton.

Fern Poisoning Can Be Summer Cattle Problem

Fern poisoning is likely to be a problem where cattle are grazing dried-out or overstocked pastures. Having no other forage, they may consume enough ferns to be fatally poisoned.

Veterinarians report that cows usually develop this trouble suddenly, being apparently normal at one milking and very ill the next. Nearly all affected animals die within one to ten days. If prompt steps are taken to supply an abundance of good forage as soon as the first animals show signs of illness, additional cases may be avoided.

Iowans Have Close To Three Billion Dollars In Life Insurance Now

Iowa families owned $2,811,000,000 of life insurance at the start of last year, according to the 1949 Life Insurance Fact Book, published by the Institute of Life Insurance and released today.

This represented an increase of $550,000,000 over the ownership reported in this state two years before.

During 1948 the people of this state purchased 270,000,000 of new ordinary life insurance, the Fact Book also shows.

Death benefit payments in Iowa during 1948 are reported as $19,306,000 under 11,852 policies.

In a table listing the location of the 584 legal reserve companies in the U. S. this state is listed with 14 companies whose head offices are here.

"For policyholders, as for the companies," the yearbook says, "the 1948 highlights of the U. S. life insurance business were: first, the investment earning rate went up; second, more families had more life insurance protection than ever before; and third, purchase of new life insurance stayed near the very high level of the past three years.

"Probably the most important single development was the upturn of the investment earning rate on life insurance funds after a decline of about 20 years. The rate in 1948 was 2.96 percent, up from 2.88 percent in 1947.

ISC To Give Display At Nat'l. Barrow Show

Iowa State College will present a display at the 1949 National Barrow Show, to be held in Austin, Minnesota, on September 14-17.

The display will attempt to answer the question, 'How heavy should I feed my hogs?"

Displays will be presented by other colleges and universities, by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, the National Livestock and Meat Board, the National Livestock Loss Prevention Board and the Extension Division of several land grant colleges.

The U. S. D. A. exhibit will emphasize, by means of a live hog, and displayed hog carcasses, the superior value of the "meat hog."

City Will Be Debt-Free November 1

MAIN STREET

By George C. Hansen

"Tomahawk" is more than a trade name for the hybrid seed corn raised and sold by the Thompson Hybrid Corn Company. Thompson's entertained their dealers at a picnic in the City Park on Sunday, July 17. One of their dealers, L. Tripp of Somers, Iowa, has a son-in-law who has both the last name of Hawk and a three and one-half month old boy named Tommy. One of these days Tommy Hawk may be selling "Tomahawk" seed corn.

—M-S—

Tried a few days of fishing during our vacation in Minnesota last week. It was real hard work, fishing for several hours with only one or two PIKE to show for our efforts at the end of the day.

Then, as we were ready to give up and come on home, we ran into Harve and Christine Petersen. They were just on their way to Sunset Beach on Portage Lake, following an accident which badly wrecked their car the day before. Am glad to report to their friends at home that neither suffered injuries and were in good spirits, in spite of the misfortune.

They asked us why we didn't stay another day or two and go fishing with them, Harve saying he was sure he could find us a spot on Leech Lake where we could catch some nice big fish. And we did much better than during previous efforts, in spite of rough water and the fact that July isn't considered the best fishing time in those parts.

Pulling up to an island to eat our sack lunch at noon, Harve, in the habit of keeping grandchildren amused, happy, and contented, told our son, Jeff, a little about the exploits of Minnesota's Paul Bunyan, and then proceeded to demonstrate the strength of the powerful man by pushing over a tree of considerable height and girth. (The fact that the tree was a dead one did not lessen the thrill for the boy).

Back at our camp that night, I was almost forced to break up a fight when Jeff told the new friends he had made among the children there about the tree episode and they called him a liar.

Later on the same evening I overheard him bragging to the same gang about his dad having a friend who owned most of the theatres in the United States, a fellow by the name of Leo "The Fox" Gilligan.

—M-S—

The installation of an air conditioning unit in the First State Bank has led to a few witticisms by some of the Main Street wags, such as: "Do your banking here and receive a cool reception," and, "Bank with us, put your dollars in cold storage."

Seriously though, it's a wonderfully cool and refreshing place on a hot day and the first day the unit was in operation the temperature was set for 77 degrees although it was a few degrees higher because of the constant opening and closing of the door. It's possible, we were told to make the bank even cooler, although not cool enough to become a deep freeze.

ROBERTSON INJURED IN ACCIDENT SUNDAY

Tom Robertson of Belmond, who works as hired man for Peter Bohning, received a broken left shoulder as a result of an accident about 5:15 Sunday afternoon. He lost control of his car on the loose gravel six miles south and one and one-half miles west of Belmond.

Dr. Leinbach was called to treat the patient and Sheriff Wilson to investigate the accident.

Farmers Report Wide Range In Grain Yields

According to reports from the farmers' elevator, grain yields in the Belmond area have been varying widely, ranging all the way from 40 to 70 bushels per acre.

Farmers Tuesday gave [illegible] which checked with those from the elevator. The [illegible] Studebaker, Sr., farm reported yields of 55 bushels to the acre, while the Glen [illegible] had around 70 bushels per acre.

A great share of the combining in this area has been [illegible], but most of the [illegible] remains to be done.

Pupation Count Indicates Heavy Second-Brood of Corn Borers

Pupation of second brood corn borers is now in progress, and the moths will be flying by July 27 or 28, Aaron R. Bowman, county extension director, said this week.

Bowman, reporting information received from Harold Gunderson, extension entomologist at Iowa State College, said that these moths will look for late-planted fields to lay their eggs. Eggs from the second brood are laid primarily on the developing ear and the leaves above and below the ear.

In warm August weather these eggs will hatch in three or four days, then the worms will bore into the ears, shanks, and stalks. Damage per borer is about equal to that of the first brood.

Bowman suggests that any farmer having late-planted corn should examine it for egg masses each day starting August 1, continuing to about August 20. When 100 egg masses per 100 plants are found the field should be treated with one and one-half pounds of actual DDT per acre. A single treatment is recommended, and spraying is preferred.

Since the corn is tall, high clearance equipment or airplanes will have to be used. Spray should be concentrated in the area of the ear, using 7 to 15 gallons per acre and three nozzles per row. Higher volumes of spray will give better control. If it is possible, apply 25 to 50 gallons per acre, putting on three pounds of 50 percent DDT wettable powder.

Farmers not able to put on that volume will have to depend upon either the emulsified concentrate or colloidal DDT. Airplane spraying generally gives poorer control than ground equipment, according to Gunderson.

There are many uneven fields where part was damaged by cutworms and replanted, but which was hit by borers. In this case many plants will be susceptible to second brood borers. It will pay to spray, Gunderson thinks, if 25 percent or more is late planted corn. However, if the entire field was attacked by first-brood borers, treatment will not be necessary. As a general rule, corn is susceptible to only one brood.

A single treatment is recommended for the second brood of borers. In early planted corn, a second spraying sometimes was necessary because new leaves were developing rapidly which, if untreated, would harbor borer. No new leaves are being developed in late-planted corn.

1950 County Budget Estimate Drops $18,000 from this Year

Drops of $18,000 in the total proposed Wright County expenditures and of $7.17 per $1,000 of assessed value are shown in the county budget estimate proposed for the fiscal year beginning January 1, 1950.

The budget proposes a total of $653,000 in estimated expenditures, as compared with the $671,000 asked in 1949. The estimated taxes per $1,000 of assessed value are $9.00; the 1949 estimate was $16.17.

Amounts asked for each itemized expenditure have been increased except that for Eagle Grove College. The college appropriation was decreased $500.

Largest increases have come in the amounts asked for soldiers' relief, $13,000; state institutions, $12,000; general funds, $5,000; Iowa Old Age and Survivors' Insurance, $3,500; and Bangs Disease, $3,000.

Since the 1947 budget estimates were prepared, there have been increases in all expenditures except those for county schools and for Eagle Grove Junior College. The amount spent for schools has decreased $539, while the college appropriation has decreased $689.

Taxpayers will be heard for or against the budget estimate of expenditures at a hearing conducted at the board of supervisors meeting at 10:00 a. m., August 12, at the courthouse in Clarion.

Belmond romped over Clear Lake on their field 21 to 6 last Sunday. Four Clear Lake pitchers gave up a total of 19 hits to the Tomahawks. Walt Larson, local right fielder, banged out three triples and two singles out of six times up. Lowell Gaetzke, Tomahawk left fielder, hit a home run and two singles. Bud Nissen also rapped out three hits. Nissen went the route on the pitcher's mound for Belmond and allowed seven hits. Clear Lake bunched three of their hits with a walk and an error to gain all of their runs in the seventh inning.

In other league games Sunday, Garner toppled Corwith, 2 to 1, and Sheffield defeated Rockwell 9 to 3.

Mary Gordon Wins First Match in Women's Tourney

Mary Gordon, who is playing in the Iowa Women's Golf Tournament in Davenport this week, outshot Mrs. C. P. Conrad of Davenport, 7 and 5, in Tuesday's first round match. She grabbed a 6-up lead through the outside in spite of trouble which forced her to pick up at No. 8.

Mrs. Gordon was to meet Mrs. H. R. Staats of Davenport, medalist and the ranking Davenport favorite, on Wednesday morning.

She qualified Monday when she divided eighth place with Mrs. R. B. VonMaur of Davenport and Mrs. Ed Schoede of Rock Island. The three had 87 totals.

Sunday dinner guests at the Dale Busick home were Mr. and Mrs. Orick Busick and Charles Steinlich of Dayton, Oregon, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Schmalle, Charles McMannus and Harley Thayer.

Most of $1335 Reduction in Budget Estimate Caused By Lack of Bond Fund Levy

Belmond will become one of the very few cities or towns within the state of Iowa to be completely out of debt on November 1 when the last $1,000 of water bonds will become due and payable.

The budget estimate for the coming year of 1950 is $1,335 less than the 1949 budget. The reduction has not been accomplished by reason of increased valuation, but constitutes an actual reduction in the dollars to be spent by the city for the coming year.

One prime factor in the reduction is the fact that it is no longer necessary to levy in the bond fund because the bonds will be paid in full November 1.

The proposed city expenditures for 1950-51 will total $43,628. Of this amount. $18,116 will be raised by taxation. There is an unencumbered balance of $5,387, and the total amount to be raised by income other than taxation will be $21,125.

The estimated taxes per $1,000 of assessed value in the new budget are $9.06, just six cents more than the county millage rate.

The largest amounts to be raised by taxation during the coming year will be $3,600 for the general fund, $2,500 for light, $2,000 for the library, and $1,750 for garbage disposal.

The largest proposed city expenditures will be $13,000 for water or waterworks, $8,900 for the general fund, $3,500 for street construction, and $3,000 apiece for library and sewer.

The budget estimate is published in this week's issue of the Independent and will merit the attention and study of each and every taxpayer.

The final hearing on the budget will be held at the City Hall on Monday, August 8, at 8:00 p. m., at which time taxpayers may be heard either for or against the proposed budget.

FARMHOUSE TOTALLY DESTROYED BY FIRE

Fire Monday morning at 11:30 completely destroyed the house on the farm owned by Mrs. Martha Loats and occupied by tenant Junior Barkema. The farm is located three miles east and one-half mile south of Belmond.

No one was at the home when the blaze started. By the time firemen arrived the house was partially destroyed and they were unable to save the property because of this head start and because of the lack of an adequate water supply.

The house, a total loss with damage estimated at $4.000, had a $1500 insurance coverage. The household furnishings, also a total loss, likewise had a $1500 coverage.

Origin of the fire has not been determined.

40 To Be X-rayed for Tuberculosis

The eighth annual search for tuberculosis cases among persons known to have had close contact with the disease will end, with the x-raying of 40 persons at a conference to be held Wednesday morning, August 3 at Clarion on the east side of the courthouse.

The announcement was made by Mr. C. W. Sankey, President of the Wright County Tuberculosis and Health Association.

Alice Moore, public health nurse, has been interviewing and inviting these persons to have skin tests and, if necessary, chest x-rays, to learn if they have contracted this infectious disease.

The x-rays, she explained, will be given only to those persons recommended by their physicians. The x-ray films will be interpreted by the State Health Department and findings will be sent to the physicians where the persons x-rayed may receive their reports.

"Practically everyone I visited was willing to be tested. It is this kind of cooperation which will lead to the ultimate eradication of tuberculosis," the public health nurse said in expressing her gratitude for the response she had received.

This tuberculosis case finding program is sponsored by the Wright County Medical Society, Wright County Tuberculosis Association, the Iowa Tuberculosis and Health Association and the Iowa Department of Health. Christmas Seal funds help meet the costs.

Machine Shed Can Be Changed To Ear Corn Storage Building

Feature of this round-roof machine shed is that it can be easily converted to a 4,000-bushel ear corn storage building or ear corn dryer.

Equipped with an air tunnel system built in sections, the building can be used both to dry and store damp corn. A portable drying unit can be hooked on to reduce the moisture content of the damp corn for safe storage. Corn that is dry enough for ordinary safe storage can be stored in the building without further drying.

The tunnels are built in sections so that they are easily removed when the building is used for storing machinery. The building can be used for storing ear corn this year for a machine shed for several, and again for storing ear corn when needed. Engineers say that converting the building from machine shed to ear corn storage building or back to a machine shed is very simple.

The building is 32 feet long and has a 16-foot radius laminated wood arch. The floor is concrete; the walls are corrugated steel over shiplap sheathing; and the roof is corrugated steel over nailing girts.

A working plan for this building may be seen at the county extension office. It is Midwest plan No. 74133. The plan comes on four sheets at a cost of 60 cents. Copies may be ordered throughout the county extension office or from the Agricultural Extension Service, Iowa State College, Ames.

A catalog listing 30 other plans for grain storage building also is available for inspection at the county office. It may be purchased for 25 cents.

The Midwest Plan Service is an activity of 14 Land Grant Colleges, including Iowa State College, and the U. S Department of Agriculture. It is a non-profit organization but self-sustaining through the sale of catalogs and plans at cost.

Record Low Reported For 1948 Forest Fires

The Department of the Interior reports a record low for forest fires during the calendar year 1948. Man-made fires continue to be the major cause, contributing 67.2 percent of the total, lightning caused 32.8 percent.

During the year 1,972 fires were reported which burned some 320,646 acres, compared to an average of 2,861 fires burning 1,433,715 acres in the six-year period 1942-1947.

Of the total area burned, 22.0 percent was typed as forest land, 32.7 percent as brush land, 42.8 percent as grass land and 2.5 percent as other types

A bus driver and a passenger ran circles around one another while going through Algona recently. The bus stopped; the passenger got out and the bus went on without him, so he caught a taxi to catch the bus. Meanwhile the bus driver counted noses, found he had left a man behind so looped his bus around the block to pick up the absentee. They finally made connections some miles down the line at Wesley.

Bowman Directs Control Of Three Garden Pests

Information on how to control three garden pests, four-spotted fungus beetle, corn earworm and corn borer, was received this week by Aaron R. Bowman, County Extension Director, from Harold Gunderson, Extension Entomologist at Iowa State College.

Small black beetles with four yellow spots on their backs attacking raspberries, tomatoes, corn and apples at places injured by hail, wind and corn borers can be controlled with DDT, Bowman said.

Either dust or spray applications may be used to kill these beetles. If dust is used, it should be five percent DDT. Persons wishing to spray should use two to four tablespoons of 50 percent wettable powder per gallon of water. These DDT applications should not be made on fruits or vegetables that may be eaten without washing. A repellent that will give satisfactory results and will not hurt humans is one percent rotenone dust applied every five to seven days.

To control corn earworm, in late-planted corn, use mineral oil containing pyrethrins. When the silks wilt, but before they turn brown, inject a few drops of this oil into the tip of each ear, using an oil can. This won't stop corn borers, Bowman pointed out. To control borers use DDT or spray when 25 egg masses per 100 plants are found on sweet corn.

Judges Say Juvenile Cases Most Difficult

Juvenile cases are a judge's most difficult responsibility. That is the opinion of many of Iowa's judges according to the results of a survey reported in the current issue of the Iowa Law Review by F. James Davis, formerly of the State University of Iowa department of sociology. The Review is a publication of the university college of law.

One judge stated, "I worry more about one juvenile case than several dozen regular law suits, because all the latter concern is dollars and cents, but in the juvenile courts we are dealing with our kids."

Of the 73 Iowa judges having juvenile jurisdiction, 60 answered the survey questionnaire or were interviewed. Nearly two-thirds believe that a youngster who is in trouble should not be sent to a correctional institution except as a last resort.

The 2 girls on the winning 4-H girls' demonstration team and the top 4-H and FFA judges in the market livestock grading contests will be awarded expense paid trips to the International Livestock exposition in Chicago, the last week in November, by station KGLO.

In addition the North Iowa Fair board is awarding round trip tickets on the special train to Chicago to the 10 leaders of boys' or girls' 4-H clubs having the highest score as exhibitors at the fair.

The Northwest Distributing company and the Farmers Elevator of Mason City will each award 2 round trips on the special train, 1 each to the 4 best long time records in the purebred pig club showing at the North Iowa Fair.

The Mason City Chamber of Commerce agriculture committee will award 2 round trip tickets, 1 each to the top winners in the purebred dairy club and the purebred beef club.

The result of these awards is expected to be an all-time high for entries in the junior district livestock shows. Entertainment features also will help swell attendance.

"Frankly, I Didn't Realize the Importance of Using Milk Produced In The Belmond Farming Area

Those were the words of a prominent Belmond woman, spoken in a conversation this week with one of the many producers of milk in this area. Like many other women and men in Belmond and Wright county, she is anxious to see our section developed wisely and well.

"I haven't paid a great deal of attention to the milk we buy," she continued, explaining that she usually bought milk from her food merchant, "but from now on, I intend to demand milk that has been produced in this area and processed by the Belmond Cooperative Creamery.

"And," she continued, "I have gotten down my cook book and intend to prepare more and more dishes which require milk. I have always known that milk is our best food, and in addition to drinking a normal amount of it, I intend for my family to get even more of the Belmond Creamery pasteurized and homogenized milk and the tasty dishes which can be prepared with it."

"You can count on me joining in the rapidly spreading movement to help ourselves by buying milk produced and processed in this Belmond farming area."

Our many thanks for this statement by this loyal Belmond woman and housewife.

Plan Proposed To Legislate Unfit Drivers From Highways

In the first six months of 1949 the number of highway victims increased by 28, even though the number of fatal accidents increased by just five.

Fatal accidents at railroad crossings almost doubled, and deaths resulting from these accidents nearly tripled over those in the same period last year.

The remainder of the Iowa fatality increase seems to result, directly, or indirectly, from high speeds and crashes on county and rural roads.

Then, also, motor vehicle accidents are the principal cause of accidental death among teen-agers and young adults. In 1948 one-fifth of the 10,000 pedestrians killed were children under 15.

Something must be done about this increasing toll, and there is beginning to be a growing feeling that the only way traffic is ever going to be made safe and sane in this country is to legislate from the highways those unfit to drive an automobile.

One way to do this is to suspend driver's licenses of careless and unsafe drivers. Unless and until this is done, we are going to continue to see 90 percent of the traffic accidents caused by 10 percent of the unfit drivers.

A plan has been suggested that is meeting with much favor. It provides that for the first accident the license shall be suspended for a year. If the same person is involved in another accident, his license shall be suspended for two years, for a third accident, four years, and so on. In this way a driver is given a chance to correct his careless driving habits, and if he doesn't he is automatically barred from driving at all. It sounds drastic, but it is a drastic situation which must be met.

Community Effort

Last Tuesday the state board of the Iowa department of health approved the application for the construction of a $275,000 memorial hospital in Clarion.

The projected hospital is a good example of what coordinated community spirit can do. An extensive drive for funds has been in progress since January 1. The lots on which the building will be constructed were donated by O. A. Buchan.

Evidently the people of Clarion decided just what community project they wanted to undertake first and then enthusiastically set out to accomplish it. The drive and its realization can well afford an example for other Iowa towns.

Jake's Prediction

Jake Bird, 47-year-old ax-murderer who was finally hanged in Washington last week made an ominous prediction which seems to have come partly true.

He said that, as a result of his "hex," most of the officials working on his case would be "waitin' at the pearly gates" when he showed up. At least six of them actually did die of various causes while he lived on in the death house.

Could it have been that the deaths were natural and would have gone unnoticed except for the fact that Jake's prediction turned the spotlight on the officials? Perhaps Jake was a smarter man than he seemed; even if they professed they were not superstitious, many a judge or policeman might feel uneasy at the thought of that prophecy.

Editorially Speaking--

On Tolerance

The following item by Earl Riney, in Church Management is worth clipping and pasting over your desk, phone, mirror or what have you that you look at every day.

BE TOLERANT: Accept people as they are: try to bring out in them that type of behavior which is best for you both. Put up with them, remember that they have to put up with you.

It is tolerance of others which causes most of our problems and heart aches. As peculiar as we are it takes all of us to make up a world and each has as much right to his peculiarities as the other.—Eagle Grove Eagle.

"Hello" You Say

Where does Hello get you and who does Hello get you, asks the telephone company? Think of valuable telephone time lost every day by saying "hello" and then finding out who has answered. The telephone company suggests we save time by saying "Mr. Jones" or even just "Jones." They haven't conputed the time lost when, after answering with the "hello" the caller puts you through the third degree with "Guess who this is talking!" There is such a thing as phone manners as well as phone efficiency. We might improve telephone voices by pleasant overtones, cheery greetings rather than a grunt or grumble. We might start brushing up on our telephone etiquette the next time the bell rings.—Pocahontas Record-Democrat.

Another Chest Organized

Residents of Sac City have organized a community chest after holding meetings for some time to discuss the various angles of the plan.

Apparently there has never been any questian as to its desirability. People wanted it from the start, but they moved slowly in order to build the organization on a firm foundation.

The Sac Sun sums it up in this paragraph: "The community chest has been formed in Sac City to alleviate the pressure which so many continued drives have placed upon the residents. Officials hope that they may have complete cooperation from all citizens, and they in turn will do all within their power to make the community chest a going concern.

Laurens, too, needs a community chest "to alleviate the pressure" of continued drives. There is no reason why one "all out" canvass cannot cover the whole program of appeals. It's time for us to get going with the chest program. —The Laurens Sun.

It Pays To Check

In almost every community, and ours is no exception, people are finding out that strangers who seek money are not always what they claim to be. Whether they are begging or selling, it pays to check up before you reach for your pocketbook.

Magazine salesmen, both male and female, posing as college students "working their way through school" or using other rackets, often collect for magazines that are never delivered. Sometimes they profit still further by raising the amounts of checks received from their customers.

There are plenty of other racketeers preying on the public today. They're after your money. Of course, there are plenty of honest salesmen, too, but the percentage of crooks working from door to door makes it dangerous to deal with a transient peddler without making a thorough investigation.

The honest stranger will welcome your investigation. So be sure to check up before you spend your hard-earned cash. In fact, it would not harm to ask each one if he or she has the consent of the Garner Chamber of Commerce to solicit, whenever they come to your door.—The Garner Leader.

A Filipino school teacher, dissatisfied with existing conditions, wrote the following letter of resignation to the American superintendent in her best Inglez:

"I wish to resignate. My works are too many and my salaries are too few.

Tests have shown that dairy cows which have fresh water before them at all times produce about 7 percent more milk than those watered only once a day.

The difference: The other day a train crashed into an automobile and demolished it. The engineer had been driving an engine for twenty-three years and it was his first accident. The auto driver had been driving a car three months and this was his fourth accident.

Soybean Growers Urged To Enter Local Contests

Some record yields should be established in Iowa soybean fields this year, said Joe L. Robinson, secretary of the Iowa Corn and Small Grain Growers Association, today in urging soybean growers who have not yet done so to complete their entries in local Master Soybean Growers Contests.

"Soybean fields never looked better," said Robinson. "All Iowa yield records may be shattered this year. We want the best fields to be entered in the contests." All-time Iowa yield record is 52.26 bushels per acre made by John Knudson of Albia in 1946.

Contests have been set up in many localities, according to Robinson. He urged soybean growers who wish to enter a contest to contact their local chamber of commerce or service club secretary, county agent, Smith-Hughes instructor or the nearest grain dealer or soybean processing plant. These men have full information concerning the contests and also entry blanks.

Entrance deadline is August 31. By that time entry fees and blanks must be forwarded from local sponsoring organizations to Robinson.

Modernized Home, New Hog House and Granary Added in Last 10 Years

Earl Jenison owns Mystery Farm 44 which was pictured in last week's issue of the Independent. The 120-acre farm is located two miles north of Belmond.

Several improvements have been made in the past 10 years. The home has been modernized, and a new hog house and granary have been added.

Two of the Jenison children, Robert, 17, and Elna, 11, are still at home. Robert (Bob) will be a senior in Belmond high school next fall, and Elna attends school at Pleasant No. 4.

The four other Jenison children include, George, clerk at the post office; Leland and Arnold, both of whom attend Iowa State College; and Ardeth, a graduate nurse at Methodist hospital in Des Moines. (Arnold is working for a Des Moines construction company this summer but will return to college in the fall).

The Jenisons do general farming. This year they had 55 acres of corn, 12 acres of beans, 10 acres of hay, and 20 acres of oats. They have 10 milk cows and 109 pigs.

OBITUARY

JOHN O. ELIASON

John O. Eliason was born on November 7, 1871, at Varo Sonfjord, Norway, to Ole and Petrina Eliason. He was baptized and confirmed in the Lutheran faith. As a young man, he emigrated to the United States and came directly to this vicinity.

On February 29, 1896, he was united in marriage to Malene Knutson. The first five years of their married life were spent on a farm three miles west and one mile north of Kanawha. In 1902, they moved to the farm in Norway township which they later purchased. They were members of the St. Olaf Lutheran Church.

To Mr. and Mrs. Eliason were born eleven children, four of whom died in infancy. In 1920, Alma, their oldest daughter, died after a year of illness. Mrs. Eliason passed away in August, 1936, after a lingering illness. In the fall of 1944 Mr. Eliason retired from active farming and moved to Belmond.

This spring his health failed rapidly, he became bedridden on June 20, and died on July 14. The immediate cause of his death was cancer.

Mourning his departure are six children: Mabel (Mrs. William Johnson), Judith (Mrs. A. P. Lonning), Orville and Eldon, all of Kanawha; Gladys, Belmond; and Bertha, Chicago. Fifteen grandchildren and two great grandchildren also survive. His four brothers and his sister preceded him in death.

CATALOG FOR GRAIN STORAGE BUILDINGS AT COUNTY OFFICE

Wright county farmers now can inspect the Midwest Plan Service's catalog of grain storage plans at the county extension office, it was announced this week by Aaron R. Bowman, county extension director.

The catalog is illustrated with drawings of 30 different grain storage buildings. Each building is described briefly. Buildings included are cribs, granaries combination cribs and granaries, and buildings that can be used temporarily for grain storage but can be converted later for other uses.

Bowmna said that the county extension office also has a working plan of each of the buildings illustrated. Copies of the plans may be ordered through the county extension office or from the Agriculture Extension Service, Iowa State College, Ames. Plans come in one or more sheets at a cost of 15 cents per sheet. A catalog may be purchased for 25 cents.

TWENTY YEARS AGO—

One of the largest crowds Belmond has entertained for a long time gathered here Legion Day, last week Thursday. The day was ideal and everything went off as scheduled. The crowd was very orderly, no rowdyism or drunkenness were in evidence and of this fact the Legion and city officials can well be proud.

—1929—

A week or so ago the proprietor of the merry-go-round at Eldridge Park, Lake Cornelia, was testing his apparatus when a swarm of bees appeared and the queen bee straightway made for the hollow wooden body of a tiger, the other bees following in rapid succession.

For four or five days all attemps to dislodge them were of no avail. Finally someone was found to smoke them out.

Last week there was a rumor in Belmond that a gentleman was looking over the town for a location for a canning factory. The rumor could not be verified. However, with the construction of the Beet Sugar factory and the railroad facilities that Belmond possesses it has become an ideal location for a canning factory and no doubt some man interested in that line of work will be considering this place as a location. It would be a good thing for Belmond and would undoubtedly meet with much encouragement from local people in any such event.

R. E. Webb's horse, Charley R., was raced at Ogden, Iowa, last week and took second money. However, his trainer did not desire a better place in that race as is indicated by the fact that Charley R. took first in the first heat and in doing so lowered the track record by two seconds.

VOL. 30 NO. 42 OFFICIAL CITY PAPER Belmond, Wright County Iowa Thursday, August 4, 1949 OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER The Family Newspaper

MAIN STREET

By George C. Hansen

Last week a group of local businessmen traveled to Granite Falls, Minnesota, to look over the city and pay Theodore and Leonard Johnson a visit. The former Belmonders are in the food business and have a very up-to-date cafe.

Granite Falls is a city of some 2600 people and is located around 100 miles north of Estherville. It is a very scenic community. The local group was surprised at the efforts and cooperation of the citizens, who had accomplished so much by planning for the future. Granite Falls definitely shows the results of civic pride.

It has a municipally-owned hospital and light company. The streets are all curbed and guttered with major streets paved. The park is kept cleaned with all the necessary facilities. The city hall, built in 1942, has an auditorium that handles all the community functions The school system is one of the best in Minnesota. According to Theo., plans are in the making to get a swimming pool underway.

Yes. when talking to individuals of Granite Falls, they are willing to tell you with great pride,— "We are proud of our little city." Of course, back of their program, is serious thinking and planning—"What can we do to improve Granite Falls."

The hospital is owned by the city and operated by a hospital board, appointed by the city council. According to one informant, the hospital showed a net profit, in June of over $1400. It has been in operation for 14 months.

Not too far in the future Belmond will be in the need of a fire-proof hospital.

Belmond is definitely in order for a program similar to the one in operation at Granite Falls. It is my personal belief that we have at least four major problems confronting us: 1. Hospital, 2. Disposal and sewerage plant, 3. Street improvements, and last but not least, 4. Enlarging our school facilities. Some citizens will have the re-action, now that we are practically debt-free, why go back into debt? To me this is being penny-wise and pound foolish — Belmond should start planning.

As to going into debt, reminds me of the words of a pastor some years back, "As long as I can keep my congregation in debt—they will work and the church will continue to take the leadership."

This remark holds true with most progressive businesses.

I sincerely advocate a planning board to work harmoniously with the city "Dads". The members could be elected at the regular city election with terms of two, four and six years or appointed by the council with the same term of years.

—M-S—

In renewing her subscription, Mrs. Ed Carlston, Galesburg, Ill., writes of the Independent, "It is a household necessity in our house. We enjoy your paper very much."

It's nice to be appreciated, especially by someone in another state.

Sheriff Reports Several Arrests

Last Saturday night Thomas Thygesen was arrested east of Clarion on Highway 3 by the highway patrol. Charged with driving while intoxicated he was bound over to the grand jury. He is at liberty under $500 bond.

Stanley Griffith, Goldfield, was arrested Monday night by the highway patrol and a deputy sheriff. Charged with driving while intoxicated, he was in jail pending a hearing Tuesday.

Boxes Put in Business Places For Contributions To Jr. Barkema Family

Boxes have been placed in the First State Bank and the Koppernagel Recreation Parlor for contributions to the Junior Barkema family.

A fire last Monday morning, July 25, completely destroyed the home and household furnishings of the Barkemas on the Mrs. Martha Loats farm three miles east of Belmond.

The boxes will be gathered up on Monday morning. They were set up by friends and neighbors of the Barkemas, and contributions will be appreciated.

SHERIFF CAUTIONS PUBLIC ON HIGHWAY TRACTOR DRIVING

Sheriff Wilson has requested this paper to warn the public regarding driving tractors on the highway. A tractor is classified the same as any other motor vehicle as far as the driver's license law is concerned, with but one exception.

The exception, contained in an act passed by the Fifty-third General Assembly, took effect July 4, 1949. It provides that an unlicensed driver may no longer operate a tractor or other implement of husbandry on a public road unless that tractor is being driven to or from the home farm buildings to any nearby or adjacent farm land for the exclusive purpose of conducting farm operations.

All teen-age drivers are required to have a driver's license.

Previous to the re-wording of the law, anyone could drive a farm tractor anywhere without a driver's license. That was the loophole being used by some suspended or revoked drivers.

Now however, anyone convicted of driving a tractor beyond the limits set down by the law while his license is suspended or revoked will face definite penalties.

The new law was explained in the July 7 issue of the Independent. According to Sheriff Wilson and Highway Patrolman Joe Dixon it will be enforced to the fullest extent.

Mary Gordon Defeated In Second Round Play In Women's Tournament

Mary Gordon, Belmond, was defeated in the second round of the Iowa Women's Golf Tournament in Davenport last week by Mrs. H. R. Staats of Davenport, 6 and 5.

Mrs. Staats, tournament medalist, made on outgoing 42 count for a 5-up lead over Mrs. Gordon and went on to win. She had an advantage in her ability to reach the greens ahead of her Belmond opponent.

RECREATION PROGRAM TO END ON SATURDAY

Belmond's first summer recreational program will be concluded this Saturday.

The project, sponsored and financed by the Belmond Parent Teachers Association, began June 13, and has continued for eight weeks, Monday through Saturday.

Mrs. Fred Pals, chairman of the program, wishes to thank the committee members who worked with her in planning it and also the two directors, Coach Lloyd Patterson and Miss Mary Louise Hardwick.

Fishermen Enjoy Fun and Freedom

Two young men caught by the Independent photographer as they fished below the dam on the Iowa river at the Main street bridge last Saturday are on the left, David Long, age 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lem Long, and Larry Larson, age 12, son of Dr. and Mrs. A. M. Larson.

The boys' heads are resting on their hands as they gaze pensively at the water. They might be thinking of many things—of the fish they hope to catch, of their next day's plans, or even of how to get the most fun from the remaining days in their carefree summer vacation.

After all, there isn't much time left! School opens on August 29, according to an announcement made today by Superintendent Don Faris.

He had delivered a couple of wagons at the George Braun farm four miles east of Belmond and was heading south on the way to his own home west of Belmond when the accident occurred.

Wright County Farm Sports Festival To Be Highlighted by Pistol Marksmanship Display

Representative Dolliver And 4-H Club Founder Will Attend and Speak

The appearance of two nationally-known persons and a pistol marksmanship exhibition by Sgt. and Mrs. Leo Allstot of Mason City will highlight the two-day Wright County Farm Sports Festival to be held at the Clarion Recreation Park Tuesday and Wednesday, August 9-10.

Rep. James L. Dolliver of the sixth Iowa District and O. H. Benson, who is credited with founding the 4-H club idea, will both attend the festival. Representative Dolliver will speak briefly to the guests during the picnic lunch Wednesday. Mrs. Dolliver will accompany her husband to Clarion and both will be guests of the co-sponsors, the Wright County Farm Bureau and the Clarion Chamber of Commerce.

Benson will be presented during the program Wednesday evening. It was while serving as superintendent of schools in this county that he organized and developed the 4-H club idea and emblem.

The pistol shooting of the Allstots is labeled as one of the most outstanding acts of its kind in the country today, a masterpiece of championship shooting, without a possible chance for faking a single shot.

The couple goes into difficult feats of marksmanship, with the sergeant shooting the well-known Necco candy wafers, the size of a quarter from his wife's hands, chalk from her mouth, and doing other rare shots, such as cutting a common playing card placed edgewise with a single shot, shattering a swinging target before the back stop and shooting chalk from his wife's hand rapid fire.

Besides the appearance of Representative Dolliver, Benson and the Allstots, the sponsors have arranged a complete series of athletic events in which everyone in the county may compete. Several other events are open only to 4-H boys and girls.

The two highest ranking Farm Bureau members competing in each event will be eligible to compete in the State Sports Festival at Ames, September 8-10, even though they may not have placed first and second in the county events open to non-members of the Farm Bureau.

Aaron R. Bowman and Thomas O. Cooper, representing the Farm Bureau and the Clarion Chamber of Commerce cautioned high school students who plan to enter the competition at the Festival that they must secure the permission from their coaches or superintendents beforehand in order to protect their high school athletic eligibility under the rules of the Iowa High School Athletic Association.

A huge picnic dinner will be held at noon on the second day of the Festival with the sponsors supplying free watermelon and coffee to all guests. Everyone must bring their own food and utensils. Spokesmen for the sponsor emphasize that the Festival is for persons living in the towns and cities of this county as well as the rural families.

Programs will be presented both nights of the Festival. There will be a swimming meet Tuesday evening at 7 p. m. between teams representing Clarion and Eagle Grove at the Clarion Municipal Pool. Diving exhibitions by Marjorie and Jim Hudelson of Des Moines will highlight the meet.

The Wednesday evening program will begin at 8 p. m., and will be held in front of the stands at the Clarion athletic field. The program includes numbers by the Rural Women's Chorus; introduction of Charlene Edwards, winner of the state 4-H girls' better grooming contest; numbers by the Girls' 4-H Chorus; selected vocal numbers; interview with O. H. Benson; pistol exhibition

Kyseth and Dougherty of Clarion To Open Jewelry Store Here Soon

George Kyseth and Russell Dougherty of Clarion soon will open a new jewelry store and gift shop in Belmond in the building now occupied by the Johnson Grocery.

Dougherty will manage the store here, and Mr. Kyseth, his partner, will continue to operate his store at Clarion.

Dougnerty, who announced the completion of the business transaction Thursday, also reported that remodeling will be done as soon as the building is available. Mahogany fixtures will be installed, and the store will open as soon as possible thereafter.

The new business will be very similar to the Kyseth Jewelry Store at Clarion. It will carry a complete line of merchandise, with standard brands of sterling, china, and jewelry, including Syracuse and Haviland china and Fostoria glassware; Gorham, International, and possibly Towle sterling; and Elgin and Hamilton watches.

The three men have all been working in the store at Clarion. Kyseth has operated it for 25 years, and Dougherty has been working with him for about four years of that time. Littlefield has been employed about a year.

Dougherty and Littlefield are both married, and Dougherty has one child. They plan to move to Belmond as soon as living quarters are available. All three are war veterans, Kyseth of World War I, and Dougherty and Littlefield of World War II.

Programs will be given at 3:00 and in the evening, and there will be many educational booths and free materials. The Brownie Scouts will have charge of a candy booth. Competent girls will care for the children at the school house.

Tea will be served to all who attend.

Second Flight of Corn Borer Moths Started Sunday

Heavy flights of corn borer moths began in the Belmond area again Sunday night, according to Chuck Wilmarth, research director for the Thompson Hybrid Corn Company.

Wilmarth, who reported that Belmond had its heaviest flight on Tuesday night, said that the peak of the egg laying will probably be reached within the next week.

The later corn is most susceptible to corn borer damage at this time. Seventy-five percent of the eggs will be laid in the vicinity of the ear, either on the ear itself or on the leaf above or below it.

Control measures recommend one and one-half pounds of actual DDT per acre, applied when a count of 100 egg masses per 100 plants is reached. Cost per acre is three dollars—the same as the cost for the first spraying. One spraying should be sufficient this second time.

Wilmarth will check egg masses for anyone who wants counts made and will also line up planes for spraying, most of which will have to be done by plane because of lack of high clearance equipment.

ANNEX BEING BUILT TO OLAF ELEVATOR

Tomahawks Play Leland Tomorrow at Forest City

The Belmond Tomahawk baseball team plays Leland tomorrow night, Friday, under the lights at Forest City. Game time is 8:15 p. m.

Leland is one of the leaders in the Border Line League. Several Forest City players are in the Leland line-up, including Herb Thompson, one of the leading sluggers in the loop. The Tomahawks travel to Corwith Sunday for a North Iowa League game.

The Tomahawks downed Kanawha, 5-3, Sunday on the local diamond. Kanawha out-hit the locals, five to three. However, a streak of wildness by Larson, starting Kanawha pitcher, proved costly to the visitors. Dean Medgaarden took over on the mound with two runs in, the bases loaded, and nobody out and allowed only one more run that inning.

Bud Nissen pitched the full game for the locals with Bud Boelman behind the plate. Lowell Gaetzke had two of Belmond's three hits. Wes Boller had the other hit—a ringing double past the left fielder. The Tomahawks have yet to be defeated on their home field this year.

In other league games Sunday Sheffield defeated Corwith, 5 to 3, and Rockwell downed Garner, 3 to 1.

Belmond	8-1
Rockwell	5-4
Garner	4-4
Corwith	4-5
Sheffield	4-5
Kanawha	3-5

Increase in Fatal Iowa Accidents Occurs on Local and County Roads

The entire increase in fatal accidents during the first half of this year occurred on Iowa's local and county roads, according to the semi-annual traffic summary compiled by the state safety department.

The report shows that the 91 fatal crashes on state and federal highways in six months this year were one less than in 1948. The 58 urban fatal accidents recorded in the current summary equalled last year's total.

On local and county roads, however, fatal traffic accidents increased almost 17 percent, 42 by the end of June this year compared to 36 a year ago.

In the same period, death crashes at rural intersections jumped 61 per cent, from 13 last year to 21 in six months this year, according to the summary.

In all, there has been a 22 percent rise in fatal accidents on unpaved roads including those within city limits. The report lists 46 such accidents to June this year as against 38 last year.

Commenting on the report, state safety commissioner Alfred Kahl warned that "the rural intersection, when hidden by tall corn or weeds, has proved to be a virtual death trap for the driver who speeds on our county and local roads."

He pointed out that the "back roads" locality of such accidents makes it impossible for local police or the highway patrol to conduct any effective enforcement supervision.

"The unprecedented increase in local and county road and rural intersection fatalities is direct warning to all motorists that they must enforce extra caution on themselves when driving the country roads," Kahl said.

COUNTY REPAYS MORE THAN 12 PERCENT OF STATE SCHOOL COSTS

Residents of Wright County repaid 12.38 percent of the expense for care and training in state institutions and schools for the blind and the deaf in 1947, according to a report released by the Iowa Taxpayers Association this week.

This was a drop of 3.44 percent from the average percent expense repaid in the years of 1944, 1945 and 1946.

During 1947 the county paid $35,359 toward the expenses of these institutions, and $4,379 was repaid by estates and relatives.

Iowa counties paid a total $4,446,575 to the expense of state institutions and schools for the blind and deaf in 1947. This is an increase of $726,925, or 19.54 percent, over the $3,719,650 paid in 1946.

These payments consisted of insane and inebriate support at Cherokee, Clarinda, Independence and Mount Pleasant; support for the epileptic and feeble minded at Woodward; clothing, repairs to clothing and incidentals for feeble minded at Glenwood; the same at the school for the deaf at Council Bluffs, and for the blind at Vinton; support at tuberculosis sanitorium at Oakdale; partial support for children at orphan's home at Davenport, and juvenile home at Toledo. Counties are required by law to collect from the persons benefited the amount paid out if it can be done without imposing undue burdens.

Total collections by all counties in 1947 were $816,303, or 18.35 percent of payments to the state.

$1.20 Is Wright County Per Person Cost of Poor Outside County Homes

The per person cost of caring for the poor outside county homes in Wright County for 1947 was $1.20, exactly the same as the per person cost for 1946.

For the entire state of Iowa the cost of the poor outside county homes was $3,725,917 for the the year 1947, an increase of $592,183, or 18.9 percent, as compared with 1946 costs of $3,133,734.

The average cost to each person living in Iowa was $1.47, as compared with $1.23 in 1946 and $1.08 in 1945.

Clarion Hospital Approved by Iowa Board of Health

The state board of health recently approved Clarion's appication for a $275,000 memorial hospital. All the members of the hospital commission and three members of fund-raising committee met with the state group.

The state approval of the application and plans means that the community has qualified for federal aid. The federal government will pay one-third of the total estimated cost.

The architectural firm of Morgan and Gelatt, Burlington, is now preparing the final specifications. Bids will probably be taken within six or eight weeks. Contract letting will be held in Clarion.

The new hospital will have a 28-bed capacity with laboratory, x-ray, surgery, and obstetric service.

It is hoped that the outer shell can be erected soon enough to allow the construction crew to work throughout the winter on the hospital.

Blueprints and specifications for the structure in every way fill the requirements of the law passed by the 52nd General Assembly. Patients having hospital insurance will also be certified by the state.

Clarion met its share of the estimated cost during the last few days of the campaign when business men and farmers underwrote the balance of the sum needed.

About 10 memorial rooms have been donated and contributed by families in the area.

Members of the commission and fund-raising committee who met with the state board Tuesday were H. O. Salisbury, William McCormick, O. B. Buchan, Max Sheldon, C. J. Christiansen, George Kyseth, Dr. Robert Eaton, and Dr. R. L. Gorrell.

Humboldt Man's Boat Is Chewed By Beavers

Eddie Olson has a nice boat which he keeps in a boat house north of the dam in Humboldt. But Eddie isn't sure that keeping the boat there is such a good idea for when he opened his boat house the other day he discovered that the beavers had chewed four holes in it.

The holes were not clear through the sides but were so deep that it required a lot of repair work to keep the boat usable. Eddie further states that the beavers must have lined up in formation to do their chewing, for the three holes on one side were spaced as evenly apart as though three beavers had sat there and chewed. The one hole on the other side was directly opposite a hole on the first side.

Now Eddie is wondering whether or not the beavers are wards of the state, for if they are he thinks the state owes him a new boat.

Other boat owners have reported that beavers have chewed their boats, too, although not to the extent which Olson's boat was damaged.

State Department of Safety Analyzes Traffic Conditions

Iowa traffic conditions which in the first six months of this year killed 231 persons were analyzed today by the state safety department in a semi-annual fatality summary.

Comparing the first half of this year with last, the number of highway victims increased by 28, though the number of fatal accidents increased by only five, the report states.

A major portion of this fatality increase was apparently "inherited" from the first three months of this year when 24 more persons were killed in traffic than in the first quarter of 1948.

This points up the now unseasonable but tragic fact that fatal crashes on icy roads during those early months increased by more than 100 percent over last year—38 to 18, according to the report.

1. Railroad crossing fatal accidents almost doubled and resultant deaths nearly tripled over the first six months of last year. At the end of this June, 35 persons had died in train-car crashes compared to 13 last year.

2. Fatal accidents occurring at speeds ranging from 50 to 70 miles per hour and over increased 75 percent. In the 60 to 70 mile an hour speed range alone, the increase was better than 200 percent, five such accidents in six months last year, 19 by the end of June this year.

3. Death crashes on county and rural roads rose 16 percent over last year, though the 91 fatal accidents on state and federal highways were one under the mark for the first half of 1948.

4. The number of out-of-state drivers involved in fatal Iowa accidents increased exactly 100 per cent. By the end of June, 44 non-resident motorists had become fatally involved on the state's highways compared to 22 last year.

Veterans Are Delaying Themselves In Obtaining War Bonus Payments

Veterans living in states within the Ninth Naval District where bonuses have been voted for World War II service, are causing themselves a great deal of unnecessary delay in obtaining payments, according to reports reaching the Commandant at Great Lakes, Ill.

Main source of the difficulty lies in the fact that veterans are not following the proper procedure outlined by the individual state laws creating their bonuses.

In a statement issued today to all Navy veterans by Rear Admiral J. Cary Jones, USN, Ninth Naval District Commandant, he pointed out that any veteran who is eligible for a bonus payment from his state should make application through his own state bonus agency. Information required should be provided by the veteran to the best of his own personal knowledge. A Veteran Service Officer is to be found in virtually every county seat, where the applicant may obtain advice and assistance in getting his bonus.

Where documentary proof is required, and the veteran has lost his papers, he may write to the Commandant, Headquarters, Ninth Naval District, Great Lakes, for a copy of his notice of separation Form 553.

It was emphasized by the Commandant that requests for detailed information from service records should NOT be addressed to the Navy Department in Washington, since such action simply creates undue delay in processing the bonus applications.

Auxiliary Announces Purchase of Hospital Beds And Audiometer

In order that the people of the various communities may be most conveniently served, these portable equipments will be housed with the county health nurse at the court house in Clarion, and will be free of use to any one in the community.

The Wright County American Legion Auxiliary wishes to thank all those who through their magazine subscriptions made this worth-while project possible.

Our Lost American Initiative

We as Americans have lost our initiative and purpose by adopting and choosing a policy of resistance to Communism rather than by finding an alternative to it.

In the current Atlantic, Archibald MacLeish, famous author and poet, states his belief that we have forgotten to USE our freedom, as we did in the old days, but have begun to DEFEND it. He says that an American once was a man bound to his country and people by a belief in something that he loved, not by common hatred of something approaching that he feared.

He believes that we have been dominated completely by the Russian people during the past years from 1946 to 1949. At the close of the war we needed to declare a free man's solution to our problems, but instead we chose to fight Communism. As he looks back on American policy from a future vantage point of the 1980's, he sees that our policy became an image of Russian foreign policy with just one difference; whatever the Russians did, we did in reverse. American education became Russian education backward; the first qualification asked of a teacher was that he should not be a Communist himself and should never have read books which could tell him what Communism is.

Writers stopped writing and met at expensive hotels to talk about Russia for days at a time, and our culture became just reflections of the problems of Russian culture.

And all this didn't take place in a time of weakness, but at the moment when the United States, having won a brilliant victory in the greatest war of all time, stood at the highest point of world power. Our standard of living was ahead of any other country in the world, including the Russian. Our products were so superior that they were used and copied everywhere on earth, and we were ahead industrially.

We were not a weak people when we gave up our independent mind and threw away our initiative. We were the most powerful people in the world—a nation which was famous because it saw its present not in terms of its past but in its future.

McLeish believes that we are unable to think and to understand the role we should have played. We have always been FOR something, not simply AGAINST something. We were a new nation of discoverers and inventors who were never satisfied to leave things as they were, not an old nation whose main idea is to keep things as they used to be.

If we can see our unity only in opposition to another people; if we see our purpose only in resistance to another purpose, we have no unity or purpose of our own. And we are not great in spite of our power or wealth.

No person, considering all the intelligence and resources of the United States, can say that a solution is impossible. If we decided that our one objective was a free society, and that nothing would stop us from attaining it, it certainly would be accomplished. Technical, political, and industrial difficulties are not insoluble.

Our only real obstacle for substituting individual freedom for communism is our will to do it. If we do not, those who come after us "will say we did not wish sufficiently for freedom. And they will say the truth."

Financial Problem Faced by S. U. I.

In excerpts taken from The Iowa Alumni Review, the state university has reported on the financial problem it is facing during the biennum of 1949-51 because of cuts in its budget askings made by the General Assembly.

According to the bulletin, the legislature appropriated only 65 percent of the University's operational askings and only 7 percent of its asking for capital improvements near the end of a biennium which was expected to leave a surplus in the neighborhood of $96,000,000 in the state treasury.

The University had requested $12,762,500 for operational expenses and $11,517,500 for capital improvements. These amounts were cut to $8,246,750 and $810,000.

The alumni review states that the amount asked represented money considered necessary to continue operations at present post-war levels, to improve existing programs, to undertake new programs made necessary by new fields of activity, and to adjust salary and wage schedules so the institution can compete more effectively in the market for faculty and staff members.

The difference between the stated needs and final appropriations won't be reflected by the closing of areas in the University during the next two years. But it will be reflected in ways just as important to the state:

(3) In limitations on the types and extent of research which can be undertaken at the University.

(4) In limitations on service functions established and maintained for the direct benefit of the people of Iowa.

The bulletin states that the main problem of the State University in the next two years is to acquire active support of the people of Iowa. Also, any state university can continue to operate on restricted budgets in inadequate physical plants, but no such university will be a great and leading institution, nor will it provide the caliber of teaching which the citizens of its state expect for their sons and daughters; research which raises the real wealth of the people; and the direct service functions which it needs.

BELMOND LOCALS

Plain Talk About
TELEPHONE TAXES

Federal excise taxes are increasing your telephone bill—in some cases as much as 25%. There is a flat 15% Federal tax on local service. On long distance service where the charge is 25c or over, the tax is 25%. Other forms of telephone service are taxed from 8 to 25%. This tax is imposed directly upon you as a telephone user. Your telephone company, as its own expense, acts as a tax collector.

These excise taxes, levied directly upon you as a user, are in addition to the corporation income taxes which the company pays to the government. These taxes must be included in the company's cost of business and must, therefore, act to increase your telephone bill as a sort of hidden sales tax.

Telephone service is generally regarded as a necessity. Yet the 25% tax on long distance and other service is higher than the 20% luxury tax for jewelry and furs.

We are sure your Senators and Representatives in Congress would welcome your views as a taxpayer and citizen in helping them to guide future action on this unusual peacetime tax on a necessity.

Wright County Reaches Almost 150 Percent of Drive Quota

The final report of the Opportunity drive shows Iowa at 130.71 per cent of its 50-million dollar quota for Series E, F, and G savings bonds with total sales of $65,356,158.

Clark H. McNeal of Belmond, Wright county chairman, announced that this county finished with sales of $702,993 for 149.35 percent of its drive quota.

The last week of the accounting period saw the highest investment in savings bonds since the Victory Loan drive in 1945 with E, F, and G sales reaching almost 12 million dollars. This increase of 24 percent over the previous report carried 36 new counties over their quotas.

Taylor county ended the drive with the highest score, climbing to 194.08 percent of its quota. Close contenders were Story, Sioux, Pocahontas counties, all with more than 100 percent of their goals.

"The response during the Opportunity drive proved that advertising, frequent newspaper stories, radio program, and other promotional efforts serve as reminders to invest safely, and bond sales increase,' the county chairman said.

"I want to thank those who helped to make the drive a success, and commend the bond buyers who are providing personal security and purchasing power for the future."

Murray Outlines Requirements of '48 Selective Service Act

Calling attention to the fact that failure to register is a violation of law and makes the delinquent liable to penalty, Laurence W. Murray, Secretary of the Wright County Local Board, today outlined registration requirements under the Selective Service Act of 1948, which he said he believed were not thoroughly understood by all of the general public.

"The obligation to register," Murray said, "is a continuing obligation and must be fulfilled regardless of whether men are being inducted into the armed forces under the Selective Service Act. The obligation to register is imposed by the Act on every male citizen or resident, in the United States between the ages of 18 and 26, with only the general exception of members of the armed forces on active duty and certain aliens.

The young man who becomes 18 is required to register at a local board office within five days of the date of his eighteenth birthday, Murray explained, but if he happens to be away from home he need not return; he may register at the nearest local board convenient to him, giving his bona fide home address as his place of residence, and the record will be sent to the local board having jurisdiction, even thought it is in another state. After he registers, it is mandatory that a registrant keep his local board informed of any change in his address or change in status. This applies after he becomes 26 as well as before.

Questioned concerning the man who did not register during the designated registration days—August 30 to September 18, 1948—because he was then on active duty in the armed forces, Murray explained that he is required to register within 30 days of the time he was separated from the armed forces.

"Any person who changes from a status which did not require his registration to a status which does require it must register promptly to be within the law," Murray said, adding that those who were out of the country on the registration days must register within five days following the date they reenter the United States, which includes Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

Murray said that non-citizens entering the United States for the first time are required to register at a local board within six months following the date of their entry.

The maximum penalty for violation of any of the 'provisions of the Selective Service Act of 1948, Murray pointed out, is five years in prison or a fine of $10,000 or both.

McAlpines Do General Farming on Mystery Farm Near Rowan

Mystery Farm 44, of which Francis and Melvin McAlpine are co-owners, is located one and one-half miles north and two miles west of Rowan.

Occupants of the 80-acre farm are Mr. and Mrs. Francis McAlpine, their 17 months old son, and Melvin McAlpine.

Several buildings on the farm, which was pictured in last week's issue of the Independent, have been recently moved. These include all three hog houses and the brooder house.

The McAlpines do general farming. They have 20 acres of oats and 28 acres of corn. The rest of the 80 acres is pasture and hay.

They have about 18 head of Angus cattle and about 325 pigs. The farm has a total of 800 chickens, with about 500 chicks and about 300 laying hens.

Fishing is the family hobby. Both Melvin and Francis enjoy it. Mrs. McAlpine likes to travel and has crossed the United States a couple of times. She and her husband made a trip to Canada in 1947.

The mystery farm this week is being co-sponsored by the A. C. Hanson Agency and the Belmond Independent.

I stands for INCOME—almost the most important word in the English language, without it everything stops.

F stands for FAMILY PLANS — every single hope and ambition you have for your family rests on future income.

E stands for EARNING POWER — the most important asset any man has and yet the most easily destroyed.

Life insurance provides that INCOME to complete your PLANS even though your EARNING power has been stopped by either of the two inevitable events—you live too long or die too soon.

Scout Camp to Feature Dad and Lad Weekends in August

With Camp Roosevelt still going at full capacity in providing an unusually fine and complete program for Boy Scouts of the Winnebago Council, Cub Scout Dads and Lads are looking forward to the big "Dad and Lad Weekends" in August.

This year three of these weekends are planned, August 6-7, August 20-21, and August 27-28. In prior years only two "Weekends" were conducted. Although the events are several weeks away, more than 150 dads and lads are already registered.

Glenn Gilbert, Council Commissioner of Cub Scouting and Chairman of the "Dad and Lad Weekends" announced today that a better program than ever has been planned. A meeting was held recently with a large number of Cubmasters and Pack Committeemen. Out of this meeting came some new and excellent ideas for programs. On each Saturday participants will check in and make camp. There will be a swim period under the direction of several trained waterfront men.

After a supper and singing period, the group will participate in the big midway. The evening program will have a huge campfire. Each Pack will provide a three-minute stunt for the program, with singing and other good fellowship.

As a special feature, all eleven-year-olds will receive a special recognition ceremony in honor of their graduation into Scouting. Protestant boys will attend services at camp on Sunday morning, and Catholic boys will attend in a neighboring town. If they desire, packs may have picnic dinners Sunday noon. For those who wish it, dinner will be served in the dining hall.

Rules for participation are that no dad may bring more than two Cubs, and it is hoped that every Cub will have his own dad in attendance. Each group is to bring as many tents and cots as possible, for the camp facilities do not allow for more than 125 participants. It is expected that about 200 persons will participate each weekend. Den Chiefs, also invited to attend, must all bring their own bedding, soap, towels, swim trunks, and poncho or raincoat.

Although eight-years-olds will be eligible to become Cub Scouts on September 1, participation is limited to the current duly registered age group of 9, 10, and 11 year old boys. A Cub who has become 12 this summer, but has not had the opportunity to transfer to a troop and has not attended Council Camp may attend with his fellow Cub Scouts.

SAYS SHE: "This dress cleaned beautifully. It was so soiled. How did you clean it?"

SAYS HE: "We WET CLEANED this dress for you, Mrs. Jones."

WHEN IS "WETCLEANING" NECESSARY?

Any garment containing moisture-borne soil such as perspiration, beverages, fruit juices, or fabrics with deeply imbedded soil, that cannot be removed in dry cleaning or local spotting must be cleaned by immersion in water. Likewise any garment with a large stained area, and any garment which requires a bleaching treatment, must be wetcleaned.

WHAT IS WETCLEANING?

Wetcleaning is a process of cleansing garments with water and mild detergents, using precautions to prevent shrinkage, loss of color and fabric distortion.

IS WETCLEANING A RECOGNIZED PRACTICE?

Yes, the National Bureau of Standards recognizes wetcleaning as an accepted procedure for cleansing fabrics. These are test procedures which manufacturers may use to test and label fabrics for performance to Wetcleaning.

HOW DOES WETCLEANING DIFFER FROM WASHING?

- Garments are drycleaned before they are wet cleaned.
- Garments are measured before wet cleaning.
- Fugitive dyestuffs are set with special agents.
- Garments are given individual treatment according to fabric construction.
- Garments are hand brushed in Wetcleaning and thus not subjected to severe mechanical action as would be encountered in ordinary washing.

VOL. 30 NO. 43 OFFICIAL CITY PAPER Belmond, Wright County Iowa Thursday, August 11, 1949 OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER The Family Newspaper

MAIN STREET

By George C. Hansen

We had the pleasure of attending part of the Governor's Day celebration at Clear Lake when we were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Schultz at the Water Show Saturday evening.

We particularly enjoyed the Venetian Nights parade consisting of 22 lovely floating floats, each adorned by a lovely young lady. Belmond was well represented among the beauties competing for the title of "Miss Governor's Days" with Dixie Carstens and Joyce Waddington among the 22 from Mason City, Clear Lake, and surrounding towns.

Incidentally, the winner, Miss Nancy Koerber of Mason City, was the one Herman and I had decided—before the judges' decision was announced—was the most perfect of all the lovelies introduced under the floodlight after the parade.

TWO FOR THE PRICE OF ONE

Both William Vierkant and Clarence Vestweber of Alexander agree that Belmond Independent classified advertising is fast and inexpensive. On July 7 Vierkant advertised a binder for sale and sold it the same day. Vestweber called him and asked if he had sold it, and when Vierkant replied in the affirmative, Clarence said he had forgotten to advertise his for sale and asked Bill to send up any others who called, which Bill did and Clarence sold his from the same 45c ad.

This issue's "Question of the Week" was to deal with the advisability of a city planning commission for Belmond. Upon checking the Code of Iowa, however, it is found that at least seven members of a city plan commission are to be appointed by the mayor, subject to the approval of the council.

They are not to hold any elective office in the municipal government and are to be qualified by knowledge and experience to act in city planning matters. The terms of members are to be five years, and the mayor is to appoint a successor for any vacancy.

According to the Code of Iowa, an elective planning board is out. Belmond residents who realize the need of a long-range planning program for the city, as set up by a planning board, should be abel to think of a solution.

Littlefield Will Be Watchmaker in Store

The name of Phil Littlefield was omitted in last week's story on the new jewelry store soon to be opened in Belmond. Littlefield, who has been employed by Kyseth Jewelers in Clarion as a watchmaker for the past 18 months, will come to Belmond in a similar capacity.

He is married and will move to Belmond as soon as housing becomes available. He is a veteran of World War II.

AYERS TO BECOME WRIGHT CONSERVATION OFFICER

Effective September 1, W. E. Ayers, formerly stationed in Benton and Tama counties, will become the new Iowa State Conservation officer in Wright and Hancock counties.

New Tuition Rates for Elementary and Secondary Pupils Computed

$16.65 and $29.10 Per Month To Be Maximum

An elementary tuition rate of $16.65 per month and a secondary tuition rate of $29.10 per month have been computed as the legal maximum in tuition rates for the school year beginning this fall (August or September, 1949) and ending next spring (May or June, 1950).

The tuition rate for schools whose per pupil cost is lower than these legal maximums is determined in the same manner as always; that is, the receiving district shall charge the actual per pupil cost for both elementary and secondary pupils up to $16.65 per month for elementary tuition and $29.10 per month for secondary tuition.

If the costs are higher than these maximums, the receiving district cannot exceed these amounts in their askings. However, the law further provides that although the receiving district cannot ask more than the legal maximums set by the State Superintendent, there is nothing in the law to prevent the sending district from paying more than these maximums if the actual per pupil cost is greater and the board (or parents in individual cases) chooses to do so.

The former maximum rates for tuition for non-resident pupils of $17 per month per high school pupil and $10 per month per elementary pupil have been repealed by the Fifty-third General Assembly. The State Superintendent of Public Instruction was required to compute the new rate from a selected group of schools.

Hotvet Becomes New GMI Plant Superintendent

Walter Hotvet, who has held the position of Refinery Supervisor for the past year, has been promoted to Plant Superintendent. In his new position Walter will have full responsibility for supervision of all plant manufacturing operations. His new responsibilities will include the hiring of wage employees and the handling of all labor relations problems.

Raymond Karinen has moved up from his trainee work to assume the duties and responsibilities of Refinery Supervisor.

Hubert Colby has been transferred from the laboratory to a position in the elevator office where he will handle the clerical duties.

All soybean buying activities in the future will be handled by Gene Woolley, Plant Manager. Henry Stokke has been given the assignment of Assistant Soybean Buyer, in addition to his regular Office Manager duties.

Students Will Meet in Pastel Colored Classrooms August 29

The high school principal's office has now become the "Blue Room"—a statement which may give the little office a double meaning to some high school students. Anyway, its walls have been painted a light blue, and the ceiling has been finished in white.

Repainting of many of the classrooms in pastel colors with white ceilings which reflect the light down is just one of the many redecorating and renovating projects completed in the Belmond schools during the long summer vacation. Formerly, room walls in the entire building were a creamish tan.

The assembly and the English room have been painted a pale green. The sixth grade room is also a light green, but with a different variation—the south wall has been made darker green in order to stop light reflections.

The hot lunch rooms also have light green walls, with darker green trimming along the baseboards. Walls in the seventh grade and junior high rooms have been finished in a greenish-gray color, while the fourth and fifth grade room has lavender walls.

Because of overcrowded conditions in the school, two new grade classrooms have been added. Third and fourth grade room, finished in knotty pine and with light green walls, has been made from the old manual training room.

Last year's vocal music room will be used for a classroom, and the old locker room will be redecorated and refurnished to accommodate part of the vocal music department.

All floors and halls in the school building have been refinished. The hallways have been repaired with a special material, Mastid, which covers worn spots in the cement.

All walls have been brushed down, windows have been washed, and woodwork has been varnished. The lower grade rooms have been cleaned. Assembly desk tops have been resanded, and the auditorium curtains have been cleaned.

New fluorescent lights have been added to the first and fifth grade rooms, and lockers have been put in the boys' dressing room.

Most of the work has been done by Milo Lauffer and Herman Meinders. Mr. Lauffer is a junior high instructor, and Mr. Meinders is a janitor at the school.

Classes will begin on Monday, August 29.

DOUBLE ELIMINATION SOFTBALL TOURNEY TO BE PLAYED HERE

A double elimination tournament will be played by the six local softball teams at the General Mills field next week. Each team will play at least twice before being eliminated from tournament play.

All games will begin promptly at 8:00 p. m. Monday's two games will be played between the Mello Maid and Helland and Long and between General Mills and John Deere. The V. F. W. and Elliott's will play Wednesday evening's first game, and the second game will be played by the winners of Monday night's contest.

2nd Brood Corn Borers Ready For Treatment

Treatment for second brood corn borers should probably begin this Friday and continue through the end of this week and to the middle of next week, said Charles Wilmarth, research director for the Thompson Hybrid Corn Company Wednesday.

In emphasizing that the critical period of egg laying has been reached, Wilmarth stated that the egg counts on fields being tested jumped as much as 60 egg masses per 100 plants between Monday and Tuesday and probably may still be increasing at that rate for several days.

Egg counts on late planted fields have so far run between 200 and 400 egg masses per 100 plants, and around 60 per cent of the moths have emerged. Spray should be applied when a count of 100 egg masses per 100 plants is reached.

Any corn planted after May 20 seems particularly suceptible to the borers. Earlier reports indicated that most egg masses would be found on the two or three leaves around the ear, but they have been appearing most anywhere, especially on the little shoot flags on the ears.

P and G GROCERY OPENS

Grain Storage To Be Discussed Here on Tuesday

A meeting to acquaint farmers with the surplus grain problems in Wright County and the building construction that will be suitable for grain storage will be held at the Belmond high school auditorium at 8:00 p. m. next Tuesday evening, August 16.

Speakers for the meeting will be C. H. VanVlack, Agricultural Extension Engineer of Iowa State College, and Oscar Hanson, Chairman of the Wright County P M A.

C. H. VanVlack will discuss grain storage building and construction. He will also discuss the construction of buildings to use them temporarily for corn storage and later for other uses.

Oscar Hanson will explain the terminal storage available in the county, the need for it, and also government rules and regulations of the triple A program.

All farmers and landlords are invited to attend the meeting. Ample time will be available for questions.

A similar meeting is to be held at Eagle Grove on Monday evening, August 15, at the high school auditorium. Only the two meetings will be held in the county.

The meetings are arranged by Aaron R. Bowman, County Extension Director, cooperating with the P. M. A. official and the Vocational Agriculture teachers of the county.

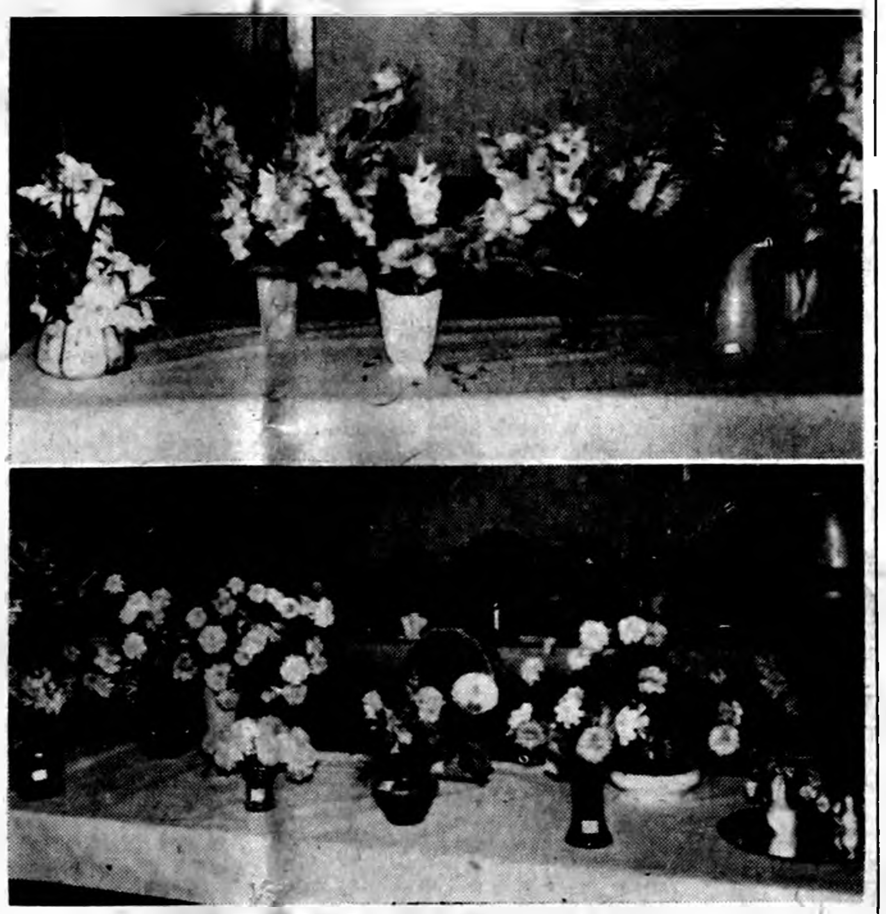
Just a Few of Flower Show Entries



Shown in the above pictures are just a few of the 206 entries in the Belmond Flower show held Wednes- August 3, in the Congregational Church parlors under the sponsorship of Progress Club, Century Club and Culture Study Club.

Well over 300 persons attended Belmond's first community flower show held last Wednesday, August 3, in the Congregational church parlors, not only to enjoy the large variety displayed in the 206 entries, but also to choose the best entries by audience ballot.

Winning second was Mrs. Ira Studebaker's (Jr.) formal arrangement of deep coral gladioli and vines; third, Belmond township 4-H Girls' formal arrangement of gladioli (mixed colors). Fourth resulted in a tie between Mrs. Inga Steele's pastel green zinnias and Mrs. Alan M. Nelson's arrangement of lavender and purple scabiosa.

Others winning high votes for honorable mention were Mrs. Daniel Boone's mixed flowers arranged in swan vases on mirror; Miss Adele Fetrow's and Miss Ethel Brunes' wild flowers arrangement of cat tails and brown-eyed Susans; Mrs. R. B. Thompson's arrangement of tiger lilies and purple balloon flowers on silver plate.

Flowers were divided into eight classes: gladiolus, zinnias, marigolds, dahlias, phlox, asters, snapdragons and unusual flowers. Types of arrangement were low bowl, vase, basket, miniature, wild flower, children's, and men's.

Organ and piano selections were played during the show by Mrs. R. W. Courson, Mrs. Paul Jenison and Daryl Hanson.

Refreshments of punch, cookies, and nuts were served. Mrs. E. W. Luick, Mrs. Herman Schultz, and Mrs. Clair Bonte poured.

The flower show — sponsored by Belmond's three study clubs: Century club, Culture Study Club and Progress Club — culminated a summer of local flower consciousness, attention, to which was called regularly through the "Garden Lovers' Corner" which has appeared weekly in the Independent since the last week in May.

The general committee in charge of plans and arrangement wished to express appreciation to the Congregational church for use of the parlors for the show, to the artists who furnished music, and to all others who cooperated in various capacities to make this first community flower show a success.

General committee includes Mrs. Inga Steele, Ella Luick, Mrs. Blanche Foss, Mrs. Kenneth LaVelle, Mrs. Gordon Kessler, and Miss Matilda Skhovlin.

Other committees were as follows:

HOUSE ARRANGEMENTS: Mesdames Preston Tyrrell, R. G. Packard, Ed Kennedy, Rex Hawley, Clair Bonte, Mrs. Ella Luick, Mrs. Inga Steele, Mrs. Blanche Foss, Miss Matilda Skovlin, and Miss Henrietta Pals.

The registration book showed many visitors from outside the Belmond vicinity including Rowan, Goodell, Kanawha, Ackley, Forest City, Clarion, Alexander, Wellman, Meservey; Mankato, Minnesota and St. Paul, Minn.; Ellensburg, Washington; Chicago, Ill.; Hurley, South Dakota; San Diego, California; and Lakeland, Florida.

Services To Be This Afternoon for Mrs. Gowdy

Funeral services will be held Thursday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock at the Methodist church for Mrs. H. L. Gowdy, who died at the Steele Memorial Hospital, Monday, August 8, at the age of 72 years and five months.

Mrs. Gowdy became ill suddenly Monday morning, was taken to the hospital about noon, and death came suddenly early in the evening, caused by coronary thrombosis. The Reverend J. Heber Miller will officiate at the service, and burial will be in the family lot at the Belmond Cemetery with Boone Funeral Home in charge.

Edith Gaskill was born in Wyannette, Illinois, March 19, 1877. She moved with her parents to Corwith, Iowa, in the early 80's, finished her schooling in that community, and worked for several years with a real estate agency. She was married to Dr. H. L. Gowdy at Corwith September 6, 1906, and moved to Belmond where Dr. Gowdy had established his practice in 1905. She was among the few older residents of this community.

She is survived by her husband, three children: Richard H. Gowdy, Harriett (Mrs. Charles Hecklinger) of Waterloo; James Gowdy of Clarendon Hills, Ill., and one brother, E. G. Gaskill of Corwith.

Belmond - Garner Tied for Second Play Here Sunday

The Garner baseball team will meet the Belmond Tomahawks on the local field Sunday afternoon. Garner is currently tied for second place in the league and was the only league team to down the Tomahawks in the first half of the season. The Tomahawks will be out for revenge after the 4-2 set-back at Garner. They will also be striving to uphold their record of not being defeated on the home field this season.

Belmond divided two games in the past week, edging out Leland 7-6 under the lights at Forest City on Friday night, and dropping a game to Corwith 14-3 at Corwith Sunday.

Nissen hurled the full game at Leland and allowed seven hits Ostendorf started the game on the mound at Corwith but bacame over-heated in the third inning and had to be removed. Nissen finished the game.

In other league games last Sunday Garner defeated Clear Lake 13-6; Sheffield won from Kanawha 9-5.

Dial Equipment Installation Begun Monday

Personnel From Division Office Here This Week

Installation crews had the framework set up by Wednesday morning. Bays for the automatic switching equipment will be set up, and numerous wiring and soldering connections must be made. The job of assembling is expected to take about three weeks.

Men working on various phases of conversion include personnel from the division office at Sioux Falls, South Dakota. Mr. K. A. Young, division superintendent, is here this week with his installation crew of Frank Fachman, R. Martinson, F. Atnspeater, D. Duckett, and R. Graeber. The division commercial manager, Leonard Rhode; division traffic manager, H. Lindy; and telephone engineer, D. Edens have also been helping with installations and conversion.

School To Offer Driver's Training Course This Year

A new drivers' training course will be offered in the local high school with the beginning of the 1949-50 school year, August 29, according to an announcement by Superintendent Don Faris.

Edwin P. Bruner, faculty member who will be the course instructor, has completed a special drivers' training and safety education course at Iowa State Teachers College in Cedar Falls.

Registration will be limited to students becoming 16, probably including members of the freshman, sophomore, and junior high school classes. Students who already have drivers' licenses will be automatically excluded from the course.

The car to be used for driver training will be furnished by the Belmond Auto Company.

The trend for inserting driver training programs into H. school curricula has been credited with helping to make the 1948 Iowa auto death rate per one hundred million miles the lowest on record.

Highway Commission Tentatively Approves 3rd Street N.E. Paving

Plans submitted for the paving of 3rd St. NE have tentatively been approved by the Iowa Highway Commission, according to word received by P. T. Struck, County Engineer, and Alex Smith, local county supervisor.

The plans anticipate the construction of a seven inch reinforced concrete pavement 30 feet wide with intergal curb from Highway No. 69 East to and across the C R I RR tracks, and a 22 foot wide concrete pavement from the C R I RR tracks East to the Luick Lane corner.

As set up, Farm-to-Market funds would provide for all excavation and grading, the center 22 feet of pavement throughout, the gutter boxes on the widened portion West of the tracks and the drainage lines East of the tracks. The estimated cost of this Farm-to-Market portion of the work is $59,892.58.

The widening of the pavement from Highway No. 69 East across the RR tracks and the storm sewer construction East through 6th Ave. NE are set up to be provided by the adjoining and adjacent property owners and the city. The pavement widening and intersections are estimated at $18,482.82; the storm sewer, at $11.320 85.

The plan anticipates the construction of the storm sewer and any sanitary sewer extensions followed by the laying of the pavement.

Roy McClure Family Lives on 240 - Acre Mystery Farm

Mystery Farm 45, which is located one mile south and two and one-half miles west of Belmond, is owned by the Roy McClures. The 240-acre farm was pictured in last Thursday's issue of the Independent.

Since he bought the farm in 1940 and moved to it in the spring of 1941, McClure has made several improvements. A new barn has been built, and the house has been remodeled and made modern. A feeding floor has been laid and a feeding shed built.

The McClure family includes three boys, Robert, Donovan, and Max, and two girls, Joyce and Mary Ellen.

Of this year's crops, there are about 100 acres in corn, 45 in oats, and 30 in beans. The remainder has been put into hay and pasture.

The McClures have 50 head of feeding cattle and 200 head of pigs. They are now milking seven or eight cows. Mrs. McClure raised 350 White Rocks this year.

All the McClure children have attended the Belmond schools. The older three have graduated, and only Mary Ellen and Max are still in school. Both Bob and Donovan played football. Donovan, who graduated this spring, will attend Iowa State College in Ames this fall.

Four-H work might be called the family hobby. Both the parents and children are very much interested in the program and have spent a great deal of time on it.

This week's mystery farm picture is co-sponsored by Clarence Kirdendall, who represents State Farm Insurance companies in the Belmond area, and the Belmond Independent.

Many Improvements Made

Our fair city seems to have started on an improvement spree this fall. The Donald Hensels have a new Produce house under construction. This building is 40x 60 with cement floor. The interior will be of corrigated aluminum except the office which will be of light and dark mahogany finished wall board. The building is conveniently located at the south end of Main street for those who care to bring their own produce into town.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Showalter have built a new enclosed porch, a coat closet and new large bathroom and grade entrance on their house. The porch is finished with knotty pine ceiling and sides as in the closet and new grade entrance to the basement. The bathroom which will have all of the latest conveniences is finished with sheet rock. Linoleum will cover the floors in all rooms. The bathroom has one large window of glass block. The exterior of the entire house is covered with white asbestos shingles.

Mrs. Harm Suntken has added a large kitchen and bathroom to her home. The exterior is finished with siding to match the rest of the house and the interior is plastered. These rooms both will contain modern equipment thruout. The kitchen will have a wonderful assortment of cupboards and work tables. A cement porch and steps lead to her beautiful flower and vegetable garden at the rear. This flower garden is well worth viewing from the first flower in the spring until the last in the fall.

WORTH OF THE WHITE HOUSE

The White House is actually going to be repaired instead of replaced! That announcement was made last week by Senator McKellar, the chairman of an official commission on the project.

Certainly the residential part of it needs rebuilding or repair, one of the two: the East Room ceiling has been about to fall to the floor, there are fissures in the foundations and interior walls; holes appear in the floor.

It is somewhat surprising that there has been controversy on the subject. Certainly, it probably would be cheaper to rebuild it than to spend $5,400,000 to do repair work. But the question seems to be, Will five and one-half million dollars be wasted on the White House? And the answer seems to be evident.

The building itself is one of our oldest national tradiions. Every American honors it. Our Presidents have lived there for nearly 160 years, and chapters and chapters of American history have been written there.

President George Washington was keenly interested in the progress made on its construction. Mrs. John Adams dried the family washing in the East Room; Thomas Jefferson made it livable. Timbers were charred in 1814 when the British set fire to it, but Dolly Madison escaped with her picture of General Washington. Monroe signed the Monroe doctrine here. Abraham Lincoln signed the Emancipation Proclamation and wrote the Gettysburg address. Franklin Roosevelt's casket was placed in the East Room.

Are these traditions and many others worth the difference beween the costs of repair and rebuilding?

THE PRESIDENT'S "BOLD, NEW PROGRAM"

In his inaugural address President Truman called for a "bold new program" to banish hunger and despair from the free countries of the world. The President did not explain his plan, but it was clear that it would take many years to accomplish it and that the costs and problems would be huge.

Since that time the program has been discussed again and again. Some experts, who agree with the President's humanitarian purpose, have begun to think that these problems cannot be solved, and, in fact, that a solution isn't even to be desired.

One of these is William Vogt, the scientist who dealt with the exhaustion of natural resources in his challenging "Road to Survival," published a year ago.

Now he has considered Mr. Truman's proposed program in an important article in the July 23 Saturday Evening Post.

He points out that one and one-half billion people are concentrated in the undeveloped areas and that their living standards are far below ours. They know nothing of modern science and research, and a very high percentage are illiterate. Even if we should give them money, tools, and other assistance, we have no guarantee they would or COULD use the gifts in the right manner.

Mr. Vogt also believes that these lands are basically poor and would require "far greater investment of capital, labor, and management to produce a much smaller return than could be had in the United States."

Then, he points out, if we try to remake the world to fit our own image and picture, we may run into a much more difficult problem—"the faiths and traditions of proud peoples with cultures older than ours, who seem primitive in our eyes but not on their own." Mr. Vogt says, "We bring down prices by standardizing. A potter in Mexico's Tlaquepaque, on the other hand, with a distaste for monotony, charges more for standardized work. If we merchandize and standardize his work, change him from a creative artist to a machine tender, shall we be raising his standard of living, and will he like it?"

In other words, just because we believe we have the right answer for the problems of civilization, must everyone else share it?

FARM ACCIDENTS

Whether you realize it or not, a farm is just about the most dangerous place a family can live and work, according to safety experts, who report that about 18,00 farm persons are killed each year in work and home accidents and in automobile mishaps on farm roads. Thousands of others are injured. Non-fatal farm accidents cost 17,000,000 working days in 1948, according to safety experts, who report that about 18,000 farm persons are killed each year in work and home accidents and in automobile mishaps on farm roads. Thousands of others are injured. Non-fatal farm accidents cost 17,000,000 working days in 1948, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics. The cost for medical care, but not including the lost time, was $30,000,000.

THE THREE MAN BOARD AGAIN

Since our fence straddling item on the three man versus five man county board of supervisors we have been approached by several men who are prominent in county politics and who are promoting the three man board for Wright Co.

We have also learned that the three men can be elected from districts and thus eliminate part of the danger of having all three come from one section of the county.

We are now told that the counties operating under the three man boards are about equally split between those which elect them at large and those which elect them from districts. The district system just enlarges each supervisor's district and gives him a full time job.

The Eagle will gladly publish letters from anyone who wants to comment on the question or who has some good ideas concerning it.

BEST AT SINGING

Returning to his home town, Los Angeles, for an impressive homecoming, Ralph Bunche, famed as a peace-maker in Palestine, was asked to comment on another member of his race, Paul Robeson.

"Robeson and every other American," he said, "has a right to say what he thinks. But frankly, I think Paul is a better singer than social philosopher."

JOHN O. ELIASON

John O. Eliason was born on November 7, 1871, at Varo Sonfjord, Norway, to Ole and Petrina Eliason. As a young man, he emigrated to the United States and came directly to this vicinity. On February 29, 1896, he was married with Malene Knutson, and they spent their married life on farms near Kanawha and in Norway township. Mrs. Eliason died in 1936, and in 1944 Mr. Eliason retired from active farming and moved to Belmond.

Mr. Eliason passed away at his home in Belmond on July 14, 1949, cause of death being cancer. He was 78 years of age.

Funeral services were held at the St. Olaf Lutheran church at 2 p. m. Monday, July 18, with the Rev. O. M. Severseike offficiating. Burial was made in St. Olaf Cemetery.

Six children survive; Mabel (Mrs. Wiliam Johnson), Judith (Mrs. A. P. Lonning), Orville and Eldon of Kanawha, Gladys of Belmond, and Bertha of Chicago. He also leaves 15 grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

THEODORE FREERKSEN

Theodore Freerksen was born at Iowa Falls, Iowa, on September 28, 1888, to George and Teetje Freerksen. When a boy of three, he came with his parents to live a half mile south of Kanawha, now the Elmer Engstrom farm. He received his schooling in the Kanawha public schools and was engaged in active farming until recently.

He was united in marriage with Gladys McCarty on February 21, 1915, and to this union were born two children, Leona and Betty.

Mr. Freerksen had been in failing health for the last several years, suffering from cancer. On the morning of July 28, 1949, he awoke for a short time, then fell asleep and passed away suddenly.

He was preceded in death by his parents; one sister, Elizabeth; and two brothers, Fred and John.

He leaves to mourn his passing his wife, Gladys; two children, Leona (Mrs. Edwin Nash of St. Cloud, Minn.;); and Betty (Mrs. Lyle Ruka) of Kanawha; one brother, Freerk of Britt; and three grandchildren; Linda Nash, Vicki Jean and Vance Ruka.

Mr. Freerksen had several active interests and hobbies for which his family and friends will remember him. Among these, he especially enjoyed running a threshing machine and beautifying his home.

He loved the church and acted as usher for many years. He enjoyed the fellowship of the Odd Fellows Lodge, to which he has belonged for several years.

Funeral services were held at the Kanawha Methodist Church at 2:30 p. m., Saturday afternoon, with the Rev. R. D. Kitterman officiating. Music was furnished by the Methodist choir.

Interment was made in the Kanawha cemetery.

MRS. GEORGE ECKHOFF

Mrs. George Eckhoff was born in Wright county on September 23, 1897, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Schmidt. She passed away at the Mercy Hospital in Mason City Thursday afternoon at 3:45. In 1918 she was united in marriage with George Eckhoff. Three children, Raymond, Harold, and Mildred all at home, were born to this union.

She leaves to mourn her loss her husband and children; four brothers, Dick Schmidt, Alexander, Dan and John Schmidt of Meservey, and Ralph Schmidt of Latimer; two sisters, Mrs. Engel Stoffer and Mrs. Enno Suntken of Alexander. One sister preceded her in death.

Funeral services were held Monday at 1:30 at the home and 2:00 p. m. at the Reformed church. The Rev. B. T. Vander Woude, Jr. was assisted by the Rev. Johann Schmidt of Chapin.

Burial was made in the Alexander cemetery.

VALENTINE VOUGHT

Valentine V. Vought, son of Louis and Amanda Vought, was born on February 14, 1879, in Humboldt county at Livermore, Iowa. He grew to manhood on his folk's farm near Livermore, attending school in Delaware township, and later, business college at Humboldt.

On December 18, 1906, he was united in marriage to Miss Anna Tunison. To this union were born six children, three of whom preceded him in death.

Mr. Vought bought and farmed his parents' old homestead all of his life, with the exception of the years from 1917 to 1922. During these years he purchased a fruit ranch at Yanhill, Oregon, moved his family there, and lived on the ranch. In 1934 he moved to Belmond to become a Rawleigh salesman for this vicinity, and in 1939 he moved to Galt, where he lived and served his patrons until his passing.

Mr. Vought made confession of faith in the Livermore Methodist church and was member of the Congregational church of Galt and an active member of its board. He also was a member of the Masonic Lodge and the Eastern Star at Livermore.

Until about three weeks ago Mr. Vought had apparently been in good health, but at that time received a leg injury. Later he was stricken with acute leukemia, he suffered patiently and without complaint, until death brought release in the St. Joseph Mercy Hospital at Mason City, on July 23. He was approximately 70 years old.

He leaves to mourn him his wife, Anna; a son, Laurence W. Vought of Council Bluffs; two daughters, Laura, (Mrs. Robert Finn), Belmond, and Rita (Mrs. Floyd Hackbarth) of Waverly; two sisters, Mrs. Maria Boyle, Charles City, and Mrs Martha Brown of Livermore; and one brother, Hiram Vought of Evansville, Minn; seven grandchildren, nieces and nephews, and a host of friends who have known him through the years

Funeral services were held Tuesday, July 26, at 2:00 p. m. at the Congregational church in Galt. He was laid to rest in the Union Cemetery at Livermore with Masonic rites by the Livermore Jasper Lodge.

"We had a narrow escape"

Baby puts a button in her mouth and chokes on it. Mother, keeping her wits about her, telephones the doctor. Mother, working from doctor's telephone instructions, removes button lodged in baby's throat. No ill effects to baby, but, as mother gratefully tells doctor, "we had a narrow escape." What do you think mother's telephone was worth to her at that moment? For the answer, ask yourself, "What would it be worth to me?"

VOL. 30 NO. 44 OFFICIAL CITY PAPER Belmond, Wright County Iowa Thursday, August 18, 1949 OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER The Family Newspaper

MAIN STREET

By George C. Hansen

Dr. Paul A. Rietz submits the following narrative which has been making the "rounds" and which gives one side of a patient's visit to a doctor under a national health program. It happens in 1950, and it goes something like this:

One fellow says to his friend, "You look pale—you should see a doctor". The man looks in a mirror and agrees, saying, "I might as well—it doesn't cost me anything."

So, he goes to his doctor's office and finds two doors labeled "Over 21" and "Under 21." He selects the proper door and goes in to find himself in another room with two more doors labeled "Male" and "Female." He selects the proper door and finds himself in a third room with two doors labeled "Married" and "Unmarried."

Again, he selects the appropriate doors, only to enter a fourth room with two doors labeled "Republican" and Democrat." Well, he's a Republican, so he picks that door and goes in—only to find himself right out in the street again!

Oren Hanson, who lives in the north part of Belmond, thought last spring that the carp in the river were taking his corn. Sunday he discovered that something was cutting the trees along the river, so he supposed the carp were at it again. He called Cleatis Harty and Pink Walrod over, and they discovered that beavers had caused the trouble. Oren now thinks he'll move back East where it isn't so wild!

A 100-pound cake of ice has been frozen to the freezing unit of a Frigidaire in Elliott's hardware for the past two weeks.

According to Ellis Elliott of the store, the ice was frozen just to prove the Frigidaire capable of freezing a large cake of ice rather than a small cube and to show the extra capacity of the unit.

Trays were removed from the freezing unit of the Frigidaire, and a box placed around it, lined with wax paper, and filled with water. After about 30 hours, the box was taken off, leaving the cake of ice. Mr. Elliott estimated that the freezing could probably be done in 24 hours of ordinary weather.

The Missus innocently remarked after coming home from Clarmond Country Club Tuesday afternoon, "I didn't know before that Clark McNeal was such a good golfer." I asked her what she meant, and she replied, "His name is on the country club bulletin board as having qualified with a 78 in the men's golf tournament underway to place him in the Championship Flight." I told her I couldn't figure it out unless he forgot to turn in the last nine holes.

Rural Schools in County Will Open August 29

With few exceptions, the schools in Wright County will open Monday, August 29.

If teachers can be secured, sixty rural schools will operate. At the present time, Belmond township 3, 4, 9; Norway township 4, 5; Lake township 4; Troy township 4; and Dayton township 4, 6; have not been able to secure teachers.

Transportation laws were changed by the 53rd General Assembly to the effect that next year parents will pay none of the cost of tuition or transportation for properly designated pupils.

The state will pay $30.00 of the transportation costs; the local districts will pay the remainder. Last year the average cost of transportation in Wright County was $56.67.

Tuition costs are all paid by the local school districts for properly designated pupils. New maximum tuition charges as set by the 53rd General Assembly are $16.22 per month for grade school pupils and $29.00 per month for high school pupils. Last year's maximums were $10.00 for grade and $17.00 for high school.

More general aid to local school districts, from the state, is expected to largely take care of the higher tuition rates and added transportation burden.

In all town and city schools the rental system for books is used or books are furnished for pupils but in rural areas pupils are required to purchase their own text books.

New text books are sold at the Schultz Drug Company in Belmond; Kenefick's Pharmacy in Eagle Grove; Cunningham's in Goldfield, and the Corner Drug and Binkard Store in Clarion.

The office of the County Superintendent sells second-hand books for pupils. Any pupil wishing to sell his old books should bring them to the office as soon as possible.

Number of Teen-Age Drivers in Fatal Accidents Down 77 Percent

The number of teen-age drivers involved in fatal traffic accidents is down 77 percent compared to the first six months of last year, according to the state safety department's semi-annual fatality summary.

At the end of this June, 31 drivers ranging in age from 15 to 20 years had figured in fatal accidents, compared to 45 at the same time a year ago, the summary shows.

Though these young drivers hold only three percent of all drivers' licenses in Iowa, they made up 12 percent of the total drivers involved in death accidents during the first half of [illegible], the teen-age drivers comprised nearly 20 percent of all motorists involved in fatal crashes, according to the department.

While the younger drivers were bettering their record somewhat, the report shows that their slightly older brothers behind-the-wheel weren't doing as well.

During the first six months, 38 drivers in the 21 to 24 year age group drove into death accidents compared to 26 at this time a year ago—a 45 percent increase.

At the other end of the age list, 22 drivers 65 years old and over had fatal accidents this year, a 57 percent increase over the first half of last year.

$12,000,000 in Federal Funds Spent for Lunches in County

School children in Wright County benefitted to the extent of $11,981.68 in Federal funds used to help finance their noon lunches during the school year 1948-49, C. W. Sankey, County Superintendent of Schools, announced today.

Seven Wright county schools participated in the Iowa School Lunch Program during the past year. In these schools 193,609 Type A or complete lunches and 14,320 Type C lunches were served. The Type C lunch is a half-pint bottle of milk.) Of this number 6,807 lunches were served free to children unable to pay.

In addition to these funds, Mr. Sankey reports that the schools received without cost to them except for the transportation from the distribution center, a large variety of commodities, such as concentrated orange juice, peanut butter, cheese, canned tomatoes, dried fruit, honey, dried eggs, and potatoes for use in the program. These commodities are purchased partly through the U. S. Department of Agriculture's price support activities and partly with Federal school lunch funds.

Supt. Sankey said the money paid to participating schools in this county is part of the total of $879,286 allotted to the public schools of Iowa to help finance the lunch program in the 882 participating schools. That word comes from C. W. Bangs, Des Moines, the State Director of the School Lunch Division of the State Department of Public Instruction. This division administers both the school lunch program and the commodity distribution program in Iowa.

Bangs also reports that the total value of commodities distributed to schools and eligible institutions last year amounted to $857,988.00. Present indications are that a wider variety and larger quantities of U. S. D. A. commodities will be available this year.

Mr. Sankey says Bangs reports that an increased number of Iowa schools will participate in the School Lunch Program during the coming school year. Fifty or more additional schools have requested applications for participation in this year's program.

The National School Lunch Act, under which funds for the program are made available, was enacted in 1946. This Act has a two-fold purpose, to improve the health and nutritional standards of the Nation's school children and to provide expanded outlets for locally and nationally produced agricultural products. Congressional action makes $83,500,000 available in the United States for the present year. Funds for the administration of the program were appropriated by the General Assembly of Iowa. Local schools provide a part of the operating cost and part is paid by the school child in the form of a small charge for the lunch. Last year the average amount paid by children for the school lunch was 23 cents.

The amount of federal funds available in Iowa for the school lunch programs for the coming year is $1,163,762. Of this amount $1,050,714 is allocated to the public schools and $113,048 to the private schools.

TOMAHAWKS TO PLAY ROCKWELL SUNDAY IN LAST OF HOME GAMES

Rockwell is engaged in a hot struggle with four other league teams for a spot in the four-team league play-off starting September 4. The Tomahawks are the only league team assured of a place in the play-off.

Belmond downed Garner, 5-2, on the local diamond Sunday to keep their record intact of being undefeated this season on the local field. Bud Nissen was in good form on the pitcher's mound for the locals and allowed only four hits.

Bud Boelman did the receiving. The Tomahawks collected ten hits from the offerings of Joe Cookman. Ace Stoltenberg gathered two hits and a walk out of four times up. Wes Boller also rapped out two hits. Belmond scored first in the third inning on successive hits by Eggers, Russ Gaetzke and Lansing. In the sixth Larson singled, Boelman was on through an error, and Boller singled to load the bases. Stoltenberg then singled to drive in two runs. In an attempt to catch Boller going to third, Garner overthrew third base, allowing Boller to score. Stoltenberg went to third on the play at the plate and scored on Nissen's long fly to right field.

In other league games Sunday, Corwith defeated Clear Lake, 17 to 8, and Kanawha beat Rockwell, 13 to 3.

	W	L
Belmond	9	2
Corwith	6	5
Rockwell	5	5
Garner	5	5
Sheffield	5	5
Kanawha	4	6
Clear Lake	2	8

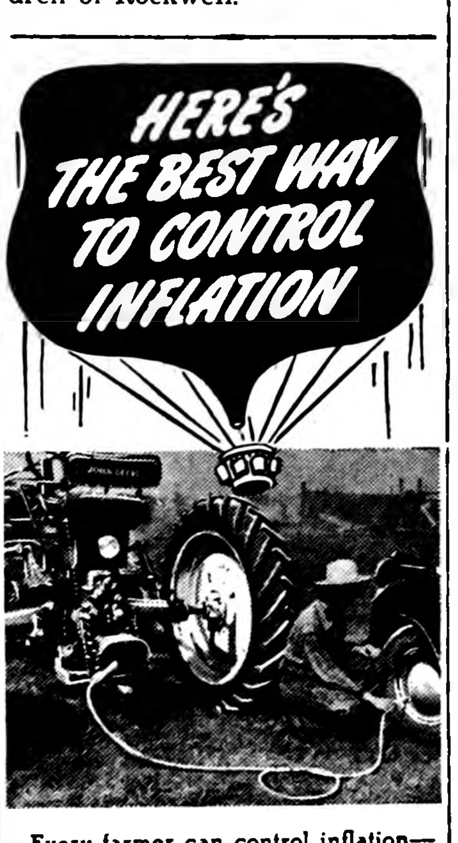
HERE'S THE BEST WAY TO CONTROL INFLATION



Every farmer can control inflation—of tires, that is—if he owns a reliable John Deere Tractor Tire Pump. It's the low-cost pump that solves every tire-pumping job on every farm.

Easy to operate? You bet! Simply attach the pump to the splined power take-off of any make of tractor . . . fasten the chains . . . and you're ready for work.

Keeping tires properly inflated will boost their wearing life as much as a third. Consider the extra service your tires will give you and you'll be convinced the John Deere is the pump you can't afford to be without!

S. U. I. GRADUATES 4 FROM WRIGHT COUNTY

Mrs. Hazen E. Moore, formerly Marlys Parker, daughter of Mrs. Viva Parker of Belmond, was one of four Wright county young people to receive degrees at the State University of Iowa Commencement on August 10.

Mrs. Moore received a G. N. degree. John E. Charlson of Dows received an M. A. degree, and Robert F. Schneider and Bennie V. Willie of Eagle Grove received B. A. degrees.

This year's summer class had a record-breaking 872 members. Almost half the class received advanced degrees. The previous summer Commencement record was set last August when 709 persons received degrees.

FEET NEED SPECIAL HOT WEATHER CARE

Pamper your feet a little these hot summer days, and you won't get tired so early. Frances Friedell, clothing specialist at Iowa State College, says foot comfort in hot weather is a matter of special care.

Your choice of footwear is all important, she says. You need comfortable shoes for work. Get the right size and a good style for support and protection. Have both feet fitted when you shop for them. Mrs. Friedell warns that it's always a mistake to "wear out" old dress shoes for work.

If foot perspiration is one of your problems, shoe choice is even more important. Avoid plastic or patent closed-style shoes which don't permit circulation of air inside. And look for hose with cotton feet, Mrs. Friedell says. Some nylons come that way. Now and then, sprinkle deodorant powder in your shoes. It's a good idea to have two pairs of everyday shoes and wear them on alternate days.

Do as much of your work sitting down as you can, and take time out once in a while to relax. While you are resting, put your feet up on a stool or pillow.

Cleanliness is a "must" for foot comfort, of course. That means more than just a quick once-over with your daily bath. Take time to be thorough about bathing and drying, and use plenty of powder after your foot bath.

A salt water bath is a good pick up after a hard day's work. Sit with your feet in salt water for about 10 minutes. Then rinse and dry your feet and give them a quick alcohol or witch hazel rub. This is a good time for some simple foot exercises to strengthen muscles and help prevent fatigue. Move your toes in a circle, without moving the rest of your foot, or try picking up marbles with your toes.

If callouses or corns are painful, consult a physician to discover the cause. And don't forget, when you give your fingernails their weekly manicure, give your toes attention too.

Alfalfa, Clover, Corn Fields Are Dangerous For Livestock In Summer

Corn fields, as well as clover and alfalfa pastures, are danger spots for livestock during August, the American Foundation for Animal Health warned today.

Severe losses occur because of bloat and impaction when cattle get into corn fields through gates carelessly left open or through fences. And clover and alfalfa pastures are dangerous at certain times after it rains, the Foundation said.

"Cattle to be placed on clover or alfalfa pastures for the first time should first be given all the hay they will eat, then turned out into the pasture after rain and dew have evaporated.

"About a half-hour is long enough for cattle to graze the first few times. The animals should be kept in the lot during the night, with plenty of water and salt free choice. Hay should be fed in the morning.

"In case symptoms of bloat or impaction appear, speed in getting prompt veterinary attention often represents the difference between saving an animal and losing it."

Care should also be taken with swine to prevent engorgement. When the aimals have been in a dry lot for some time, the owner should cut some clover or alfalfa and feed it to them for several days before turning them out to pasture, the Foundation pointed out.

Farmers Asked To Check For Weevil Infestation

Checks for weevil infestation in stored grain should be made when the temperature of the grain is above normal so that control measures can be taken if necessary, Aaron R. Bowman, County Extension Director, said this week.

He says to look for small black or brown bugs, or white worms about two feet below the surface of the grain. If bugs are found, and grain temperature is much above 90 degrees F., treatment is needed.

Iowa State College entomologists recommend a fumigant mixture to control weevils that is made up of ethylene dichloride and carbon tetrachloride, or carbon tethachloride may be used alone.

Bowman said this mixture can be poured or sprayed over the grain, and that grain so treated can be fed without danger to livestock 48 hours after treating.

Application of carbon tetrachloride sharply lowers the temperature of the grain, but it will not dry

OPEN BEAVER SEASON TO BE HELD IN IOWA DURING THE WINTER

An open beaver season will be held in Iowa this winter for the first time in more than 75 years The State Conservation Commission will set the dates under authority of a law passed by the 53rd General Assembly.

Conservation officers and game biologists are conducting a survey of beaver populations and will make recommendations relative to open dates and localities where these fur-bearers will be trapped during the coming winter. Beaver will be trapped only where a surplus exists. Pre-survey indications are, however, that at least 50 percent of the state will be open to trapping.

Beaver, extinct in Iowa for many years, began a remarkable comeback in northwest Iowa in 1932. Subsequent live-trapping by the Conservation Commission and restocking throughout the state resulted in this historic fur-bearer's becoming over-abundant in many sections of the state.

In some areas food supplies have been depleted and the animals have moved out. The present population census will be completed in October, with season and territorial limits being announced some time after that date.

Unused Silos Can Store Large Grain Quantities

An unused silo on the farm can solve the problem of storing several thousand bushels of shelled corn or small grain, says C. K. Shedd, USDA agricultural engineer at Iowa State College.

Either masonry or wooden-stave silos will work satisfactorily if certain safety and storage precautions are observed. A platform floor to keep grain out of the silo pit and above ground level, and a tight roof are essential, Shedd says. Also, it is necessary for the wall to be tight. Walls can be made tight with roll roofing, or by putting on a coat of hot asphalt. It is essential to have grain at the proper moisture when stored.

B. M. Stahl, USDA agricultural engineer at the college, points out that grain exerts a greater pressure than silage. To compensate for this, it is necessary to reinforce some silos, or to stop short of filling them full.

Silos built for corn silage should never be filled more than three-fourths full. Those built for grass silage may be filled three-fourths full or with added reinforcement, they may be filled completely. If filled completely without reinforcement, these silos may burst.

Scount Council Adopts Nation-Wide Crusade Program at Camp Meeting

The Winnebago Council, Boy Scouts of America, has adopted the nation-wide crusade program of scouting to begin this fall. The action was taken at the council's semi-annual meeting at Camp Roosevelt when it was decided 9 "Flying Squadron" meetings, one in each district, would be conducted by council officers.

Seventy leaders from nine counties attended the meeting, preceded by a camp inspection conducted by Earle K. Behrend, Deputy Regional Scout Executive of Kansas City, formerly with the Winnebago Council.

The "Flying Squadron" meetings will be the first step in setting up the fall programs. The change in the age-grouping in scouting has caused the need for intensified council and district programs to accommodate the number of boys coming in, Peter S. DeJong, Council Executive, stated.

On September 8, a council-wide "minute-men's rendezvous" will be held at Camp Roosevelt. Each district will then form a "Flying Squadron" to visit all of the scouting communities within its area to help leaders in their extension programs and with the planning of the "Friends of Scouting" campaign.

It is planned that each unit will conduct an open-house meeting for new boys the last week in September when the council will participate in the nation-wide roll call of scouts and scouters.

Scout County Fairs will be held in October. The fairs will display agricultural products raised during the year, bike safety and fire-arm safety demonstrations, cub pet shows, cub activities and scouting skills.

Beginning October 15 the council will conduct the "Friends of Scouting" campaigns in every community under the supervision of local committees and workers. November will find units holding "log cabin" parties to receive new members. The annual Friends of Scouting victory and scouter appreciation dinner will be held in December. The council's annual meeting will be held later in December.

Behrend discussed the regional crusade round tables. One is to be conducted at Des Moines, September 27. More than 1,000 scouters of Iowa are expected to attend the session to discuss the crusade program.

Speaking at the meeting was Hobart Hill, Missouri Valley College, Marshall, Mo. He urged Scouters to organize more extensively than ever before and think in terms of adequate financing to present the program to a larger number of boys.

Double Feature Horse Races To Be Top Event At Iowa State Fair

They will headline the exposition's grandstand program from Monday, August 29, through Wednesday, August 31.

Each afternoon's horse racing will feature four harness races and four running races, according to the final program just announced. Fair officials say this will give Iowans one of the largest programs of races seen at the state fair track in many years.

Purses totaling nearly $15,000 have been put up for the three days, expected to attract upwards of 250 fast entries from well-known tracks, according to Speed Superintendent J. W. Cory, Jr.,

To make the afternoon programs move swiftly, fair officials have contracted for special "starting gates" both for the harness and running events. These gates lock the starting horses in, and then release them at the touch of a switch, so there are no delays caused by false starts or "jockeying" for position.

Kenny Drive to Produce Funds for Technicians And Expansion Program

In announcing the appointment of Mrs. G. T. Thompson of Route 2, Belmond, as Wright County Chairman for the annual Sister Elizabeth Kenny appeal for funds, B. Reinbeck, of Minneapolis, area chairman, stated that rapidly spreading acceptance in medical circles of the Kenny treatment of poliomyelitis has resulted in urgent needs.

These needs are both for more Kenny technicians and for an expansion of the Kenny Foundation's work.

Recognizing the need for more Kenny technicians, the Foundation recently awarded scholarships to 25 selected graduate nurses and physical therapists who have started the course of training in the Kenny treatments.

Funds contributed during the campaign will be used to finance operation of the Elizabeth Kenny Institute in Minneapolis, Kenny treatment center for those afflicted with the disease from this area, to train additional nurses and physical training therapists in the Kenny treatment and for education, medical seminars, clinical research and emergency aid.

Campaign dates and the quota for Wright County will be announced in the near future.

PETROLEUM PRODUCTS AID FRUIT ORCHARDS

Research scientists in oil company laboratories are developing products that perform miracles in American fruit orchards today.

Another petroleum product prevents the apples from dropping to the ground before they are fully ripe, and still other products actually speed up or delay the ripening process.

Petroleum research has gone beyond the growing of the apples. After the apples have been picked a remarkably new petroleum product can be applied that will retain the fresh apple tang for more than three weeks after wrapping. And wax paper and other ingenious petroleum-base coverings protect apples in American refrigerators.

Oil company researchers have developed many additional products from petroleum, ing and sure better for all farmers the consumer benefits.

Some of the new uses roleum products that aid are petroleum defoliants, when dusted from planes, the leaves of cotton plants off, and so make picking easier. And oil scientists have developed thin film of paraffin wax to preserve eggs.

The farmer finds that oil dips and greases free animals of ticks and other pests. And many farmers have virtually eliminated flies from their barnyards and buildings by using petroleum sprays.

On Saturday evening, August 13th, the St. Olaf Lutheran Church was the scene of a triple wedding when two daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Nickolie Nelson, Esther and Ruth, and Miss Mildred Mehus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Torkel Mehus, were united in marriage. Miss Mehus was married to Mr. Roger Lonnevik; Miss Ruth Nelson to Mr. Russell Lonnevik; Miss Esther Nelson to Mr. Roy Larson. Roger and Russell Lonnevik are twin sons of Mr. and Mrs. John Lonnevik of Iola, Wis.; Mr. Larson, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Larson of Osakis, Minn.

The wedding ceremonies took place at seven o'clock in a setting of candlelight and palms. Nuptial organ music was played by Miss Ruth Langfoss of Des Moines, Iowa, who accompanied Mr. Arlie Olson of Forest City, Iowa, as he sang "Together with Jesus" before the entrance of the bridal parties.

During the playing of Lohengrin's Bridal March, the wedding parties proceeded down the white carpeted aisle. The brides were attired in white marquisette gowns, fashioned with round yokes and, trimmed with lace, long pointed sleeves, fitted bodices, and full skirts which extended into long trains. Their illusion veils were of fingertip length and they carried arm bouquets of white gladioli.

Miss Mehus, given away by her father was attended by her sister, Miss Joan Mehus. The bride's cousin, Miss Helen Nelson, was bridesmaid. Janice Johnson was flower girl, and Paul Thompson carried the rings on a white satin pillow. The double ring ceremony was read by the local pastor, the Rev. O. M. Severseike. The groom, Mr. Roger Lonnevik was attended by his cousins, Mr. Victor Knutson of Iola, Wis., and Mr. Arlie Olson of Forest City, Iowa.

Miss Ruth Nelson approached the altar on the arm of her brother, Mr. Norris Nelson of Scarville, Iowa. Her maid of honor was Miss Neoma Johnson of Belmond. Mrs. Edwin Larson, LaCrosse, Wis., sister of the groom, also attended the bride, Naomi Dawn Nelson, niece of the bride, was flower girl, and Jonathan Nelson, nephew of the bride, was ring bearer. The double ring ceremony was performed by the bride's brother, The Rev. Clifford Nelson of Fessenden, N. Dak. The groom, Mr. Russell Lonnevik, was attended by Pfc. Reuben H. Nelson, of Ft. Eustis, Va., brother of the bride and Mr. Edwin Larson, brother-in-law of the groom.
